Attacks Economic Policies

Sen. George McGovern brought his hard-hitting presidential campaign to Waco, Texas, Saturday. Speaking before a large gathering he attacked the economic policies of the Nixon administration.

McGovern Attacks Nixon Peace Efforts

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern said Saturday President Nixon has no plan for peace and "If Mr. Nixon is elected on Tuesday we may very well have four more years of war in Southeast Asia."

He spoke in Chicago, then flew to Waco, Tex., where he told a crowd estimated by police at about 7,000, "I cannot believe the American people are going to be so foolish as to let this man deceive us again."

McGovern focused much of his attention on Nixon farm policies saying that cotton prices had fallen drastically because of "a concerted effort on the part of the Agriculture Department."

Nowhere, said McGovern has Mr. Nixon's romance with the special interests been more blatant than the way he is running his Department of Agriculture.

The Republicans, he said, "have given a pitchfork in the back of the farmers ... the taxpayers and the ordinary citizens."

Starting off the day with a news conference in Chicago, McGovern said Nixon is trying to sell Americans another "secret plan" to win the war.

"Don't be fooled by an American President who time after time has put the survival of Gen. Thieu ahead of peace, ahead of the release of our prisoners, ahead of the survival of our young men who are tied down in this war," McGovern said.

"I'm going to give one more warning," he said. "If Mr. Nixon is elected next Tuesday, we may very well have four more years of war in Southeast Asia.

"Don't let this man trick you once again into believing he has a plan for peace."

McGovern repeated his statement, made Friday night on a paid, nationwide television broadcast, that Nixon had deceived the American people into believing a peace settlement was near and then had refused to sign an agreement worked out by his own national security adviser, Henry Kissinger.

In his news conference Saturday McGovern said he based that on a careful reading of Kissinger's statement, on published reports of rejection of the proposed peace terms by South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, and on Nixon's statements that extensive details remain to be worked out before any peace agreement can be signed.

Seek To Halt Enemy Buildup of Supplies

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers struck hard in North Vietnam's southern panhandle for the second successive day Sunday, closing to within 22 miles of the big port of Vinh in an effort to crush a supply and troop buildup before a cease-fire.

Nearly 30 of the Stratofortresses ranged between the ports of Vinh and Dong Hoi to the south, dropping nearly 1,000 tons of explosives on North Vietnamese positions.

During the past two days, U.S. military sources said, B52s have carried out about 70 strikes in the southern sector of North Vietnam with a total of about 2,000 tons of bombs.

The purpose is to destroy the war stockpiles before they can be moved into South Vietnam through the demilitarized zone and along the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos.

The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese accused the Nixon Administration of trying to undermine a draft peace agreement by rushing military supplies to South Vietnam and setting up a civilian advisory corps to replace American troops.

The Viet Cong delegation to the Paris peace talks said the United States is setting up a "permanent corps of military advisers disguised as civilians to take command of the Saigon army." The statement also denounced American efforts to build up South Vietnam's military inventory as "acts of war."

North Vietnam, in a broadcast from Hanoi, said the urgent buildup of war supplies "definitely rejects Nixon's and other U.S. officials' statements that peace in Vietnam is within reach."

U.S. military sources here say the United States is secretly making plans to substitute civilian advisers for American troops who would have to be withdrawn if the draft agreement made last month is signed.

Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's adviser on national security, said in response to a newsman's question in the United States that it was nonsense to believe Washington was delaying a settlement in order to build up the military arsenal of South Vietnam.

Indian Negotiations Recessed 12 Hours

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiations between militant Indians occupying the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the government recessed for 12 hours Saturday night.

An Interior Department spokesman said the government would make no effort to evict he protesters who have held the building for two days.

Negotiations were to resume at 9 a.m. Sunday.

The spokesman added the Indians had been offered 350 beds in an auditorium as well as beds and shower facilities at a nearby YMCA.

Earlier Saturday, U.S. Dist. Court Judge John Pratt refused to hold a show cause hearing to determine if the Indians were in contempt of a Friday court order instructing them to leave the building. It was not immediately clear whether he would call a hearing Sunday.

A delegation of 17 Indians left the BIA building late Saturday to go to the General Services Administration building a few blocks away to talk with seven government officials about the situation. The Indians want adequate housing arrangements here for them; the government wants them to vacate the BIA building.

A court order was issued Friday barring the Indians from remaining at the BIA building which they took over Thursday at dusk. They barricaded the doors Thursday night, talked with various officials Friday and barricaded the doors again Friday night. BIA workers were given Friday off.

A three man panel of the U.S. court of appeals heard arguments on the service in Arlington cemetery to honor Indian war dead.

The Army had said regulations forbid a partisan service, and a lower court upheld the Army.

Edward Genn, attorney for the Indians, told the appeals court that the service would be "traditional Indian ceremony religious in nature."

The court said it will issue a decision Sunday afternoon.

About 100 Indians attended the court hearing.

Others remained at the BIA building.

Reporters inside the building said offices generally were wrecked, with glass shattered and file drawers emptied on the first floor, the only area where the press was allowed. BIA officials had estimated Friday that the damage then cost $250,000.

'Choice of the Century'

Campaign '72 Nears End

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's voters make their "choice of the century" Tuesday between President Nixon—the heavy favorite—and Democratic challenger George McGovern in an election that will award the White House and change the face of Congress.

The campaign never matched the epochal terms in which the presidential rivals described the choice it offered.

And it was a sign of the political mood that envelopes mailed out from Nixon campaign headquarters bore the stamp "Complacency can cost."

Some politicians said apathy was the proper word.

While the Republican president and the Democratic senator from South Dakota agreed that never in this century was the option facing the voters so clear, the campaign of 1972 could hardly be rated even the campaign of the decade.

It was a contest without confrontation.

Nixon spent most of it in the White House. He never spoke his rival's name in public.

McGovern coursed more than 200,000 miles back and forth across the nation, discounting the polls that rated the President far ahead, admittedly frustrated in his efforts to goad Nixon into open political combat.

Every pollster, even his own, reported McGovern trailing Nixon.

The independent national surveys showed him behind by margins so massive that the gains registered by his intensive campaign left him—by the pollsters' counts—a landslide in back of Nixon.

McGovern said the polls had not caught up with his momentum, and insisted he would prove them wrong on Election Day.

A Gallup Poll conducted between Oct. 13 and Oct. 18 showed Nixon with 59 per cent, McGovern with 36.

A Louis Harris Survey between Oct. 24 and Oct. 26 said Nixon led 60 per cent to 32 per cent.

"We may see a thorough discrediting of the public opinion polls in this campaign just as Harry Truman discredited them in 1948," McGovern said.

A major imponderable was the impact upon the voters of word from the administration that peace was at hand in Vietnam, a forecast apparently not to be fulfilled before the balloting.

McGovern said he was highly skeptical that the administration would indeed end the war.

On almost every campaign platform, he expressed confidence he would win. But on a gray, mid-October day in Brooklyn, he spoke differently: "No one knows what the outcome will be, but I think we've got a chance, I don't think it's an impossible dream."

For the first time in a presidential election, the national voting age was 18, and that helped account for increased registration that could produce a turnout Tuesday of 80 to 85 million voters.

Acknowledging the odds against them, Republicans held out hope that in a Nixon sweep, they could gain at least partial control of Congress, after 18 years of Democratic rule.

What chance they have is best in the Senate, where a net gain of five seats in a Nixon victory would produce a 50-50 deadlock in party strength, and give Vice President Spiro T. Agnew the decisive GOP vote.

To manage that, they will almost certainly need some victories in the South, in states which have not elected a Republican senator in this century.

There are 33 Senate elections Tuesday.

That leaves 10 Democratic and 8 Republican seats in the doubtful category.

To seize command of the Senate, Republicans must hold the seats they have and capture five now held by Democrats.

In the House, where all 435 seats are at stake Tuesday, it would take a massive Republican gain of 41 seats to produce GOP control, and neither side expects it.

Republican strategists anticipate a net gain of about 26 seats; Democrats concede a GOP pickup of 12 to 15.

Whatever the partisan outcome, the new House will be younger, perhaps with as many as 100 new members. Fifty-seven senior Congressmen will not be back because of death, retirement or primary election defeat.

Among them are the chairmen of six House committees.

And at least eight of the senators elected Tuesday will be newcomers.

In congressional and gubernatorial contests, Republican candidates generally were grabbing for Nixon's coattails while some Democrats tried to keep their distance from the McGovern ticket.

If Nixon's coattails were alluring, his personal campaign was minimal. He was to appear in only 16 states through Election Day, seven fewer than he visited in 1970 in behalf of republican Senate and House candidates.

He spent parts of 12 days campaigning away from Washington.

But his corps of 36 surrogate campaigners—McGovern called them lackeys—from the Cabinet and the state house, put in untold miles and at least 400 campaign appearances.

Three Major Issues

Repeats Amnesty Stand

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — President Nixon, on the windup swing of his election campaign declared Saturday the question of amnesty for Vietnam draft dodgers and deserters is one of three major issues.

He repeated his stand firmly, "no amnesty."

Nixon drew crowds of thousands on the first two stops for airport rallies in North Carolina and New Mexico en route to California, where he will stay until election day.

On the three major issues he said:

"We stand for peace with honor versus peace with surrender. We stand for a strong America versus a weak America. We stand for no amnesty for draft dodgers and deserters. This is what we believe Americans stand for across this nation."

Nixon made these remarks at his first stop in Greensboro, N.C., where he gave assurances there would be a cease fire for all of Southeast Asia.

Nixon maintained that he has achieved a major breakthrough and will have a negotiated settlement to end the war. But he said ironing out the details was important in order to have "peace with honor and not with surrender."

In a statement issued as he set out on a cross-country swing that will take him ultimately to the West Coast the President said he is convinced "Americans are not going to yield to the easy temptations of surrender abroad or handout at home."

A huge crowd of several thousands waited for him in the warm sunshine at the Greensboro High Point, Winston-Salem Regional Airport here for the first stop.

In a paid political radio broadcast before he left, and in a White House statement, Nixon pressed twin themes, that his administration has made solid progress toward peace in the world and "sure and steady progress toward a new prosperity."

Nixon promised that as long as he is President, he will "never let America become the second-strongest nation in the world.

"That is why we are not going to do as our opponents advocate and slash our defense budget by $32 billion, cut our Marines by almost one-third, our tactical air wings by 30 per cent and our aircraft carriers from 16 to six.

"We are not going to scrap our conventional weapons, leaving us with no more than a nuclear option."

Nixon was giving his support in North Carolina to Republican candidate for the Senate, Jesse Helms, a Raleigh N.C. broadcasting executive and a conservative. Helms is running against three-term Democratic Congressman Nick Galifianakis who defeated Sen. B. Everett Jordan in a runoff primary last June.

Nixon also plugged for Republican gubernatorial candidate Jim Holshouser, who is in a battle with Democrat Hargrove Bowles.

Nixon won North Carolina in 1968, when Wallace helped funnel off a good chunk of the votes from Hubert Humphrey.

Nixon said North Carolina is showing the

Chileans Continue Negotiations

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Salvador Allende's leftist government and leaders of striking labor groups continued negotiations this weekend in hope of ending walkouts, business closures and food shortages that have plagued Chile for nearly a month. Both sides were optimistic that a solution could be found by Monday.

"We should have an answer, possibly today, and we'll be most happy to talk things over," Leon Vilarin, spokesman for the strikers' unified labor command, said Saturday.

The key man in the give-and-take was Chile's new interior minister, Gen. Carlos Prats. Allende, a Marxist-Socialist, named the nonpartisan former army commander to the Cabinet Thursday night.

Labor leaders who earlier had maintained the government as being "intransigent" in not accepting strikers' demands changed their tune as soon as Prats took the job.

Excelsior Springs Woman Seriously Hurt

(Democrat-Capital Service)

IONIA — A three-vehicle accident at Route P on Highway 65 about 9:30 a.m. Saturday, sent one woman to the University of Missouri — Columbia Medical Center for treatment of two fractured legs.

Listed in serious condition by officials at the medical center is Mrs. Harold Arterburn, 40-year-old wife of Harold Arterburn, Excelsior Springs, driver of one of the vehicles involved in the accident.

According to the Missouri State Highway Patrol, the accident occurred when a 1951 Chevrolet driven west on Route P by Aaron Yount, 87, Cole Camp, collided with the left rear of Arterburn's southbound 1972 Ford pickup truck. A patrol spokesman told The Democrat-Capital the Arturburn truck then swerved into the northbound lane of Highway 65, colliding head-on with a 1972 Chevrolet tow truck driven by Robert Reed, 20, Eldon.

A boat being pulled by the tow truck came loose from its trailer and became airborne, narrowly missing the Yount vehicle. The boat came to rest in a field on the west side of the highway.

The metallic carnage from the mishap haulted the flow of traffic over 1½hours.

Reed and Arterburn were treated for apparently minor injuries at Bothwell Hospital and released. Mrs. Arterburn was treated at Bothwell and then transferred to the medical center, according to a hospital spokesman.

Yount was arrested for careless and imprudent driving, according to the patrol.

Ann Landers

Child Is Cheated Out of Discipline

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a teenager who feels cheated by my parents. "Out of what?" you might ask. The answer is discipline.

I know this sounds silly but it's true.

My parents thought they were being nice to me by letting me do whatever I wanted. But they were wrong. When I went to the homes of friends and saw them being told what to do, what time to come home, asked questions like "Exactly where are you going and with whom?" I felt cheated. Let down. I wondered why my parents didn't care enough about me to get tough.

I try to do the right thing but it isn't easy when I know I don't have to answer to anybody. I have no respect for my parents because they have no power over me. Kids respect power.

Please tell parents to set up rules and insist that they are obeyed — or else. And tell them that when kids break the rules to lay it on. Parents who love their kids don't have to worry about not being loved in return. — On My Own In Oregon

Dear On Your Own: You've said succinctly in one letter what I've been trying to say in hundreds of columns and three books. Thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: This problem is not of grave importance, but it bothers me a great deal and I need to tell someone about it.

I celebrated my 75th birthday last week and my son's wife and his children had a dinner party for me. It was pleasant, as always, but it was like every other dinner. They talked among themselves and I was excluded from the conversation. No one asked me what I thought about anything. I just sat there like a bump on a log. I felt like an outsider. Yet these are my dearest kin and I love them very much. Is this the way it is with other grannies? Please tell me the truth, Ann. — Speechless

Dear Speech: Why do you feel you must be asked a question before you can express an opinion? If you have something to say you should speak up. Or better still, ask your grandchildren questions about topics that interest YOU. My grandchildren have taught me plenty!

Dear Ann Landers: Eighteen months ago my mother ended nearly 20 years of unhappy marriage by divorcing my father. It was a quiet divorce and my sister and I chose to live with Mom.

Mom married a wonderful man six months ago. It does our hearts good to see her treated like a human being. Because of all the years Mom and Dad were fighting, or clamming up and not speaking to each other, or sending messages through us kids, I developed a terrible fear of marriage. I kept cutting out your columns about man-and-wife problems so I'd know what to do. You made so much sense I was sure it would come in handy when I was older.

Now I have a scrapbook that goes back nearly ten years. I have profited from your advice and this letter is to thank you. — Buffalo Girl

Dear Buff: I'm flattered that you would cut out and save my columns for ten years. For those who didn't and would like to see a collection of the best of Ann Landers, I've published a book called "Truth Is Stranger." It's in paperback and sells for 95 cents. Write to Bantam, 666 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York.

DEMOCRAT-CAPITAL SURVEY

Question: President Nixon has said the United States is "ready to conclude" a Vietnam peace settlement. From what you know of the terms of the proposed agreement, do you favor it?

Comments and signed letters are appreciated.

YES ☐ NO ☐

Clip and return to: The Sedalia Democrat-Capital, Seventh and Massachusetts, Sedalia, Missouri, 65301.

The question of a public transportation system for Sedalia drew almost an evenly divided response in the latest Democrat-Capital survey.

Virtually all of those responding to the survey had some comment on the question: "A local church group has suggested that city revenue sharing funds be used to set up and support public bus service for Sedalians. The mayor says this would benefit only a 'small segment' of the community. Do you think Sedalia needs a public transportation system?"

Of those who favored the idea, one woman wrote: "If Mayor Jones is not acquainted with the desperate need for a public transportation system in Sedalia, I suggest that he volunteer and drive one-half day each month transporting the elderly and indigent to and from the Commodity Food Center; that he provide a ride just one day a week for a mother and her handicapped child to and from the Therapy Center; and that he adopt an elderly person whose income is $85 per month and supply their transportation needs each month."

She added, "After a month of volunteer service he might have a better insight as to the needs of the community for a public transportation system."

Another unidentified respondent wrote, "I agree with the mayor. This is ridiculous."

On the "yes" side of the question, one reader wrote, "I do hope we can have some other transportation besides taxi cabs," and another said, "Public transportation would be desirable, however this money (revenue sharing funds) should not be used for that purpose."

A woman who moved here recently said, "A transportation system is needed desperately for the older citizen. I was surprised at a city this size not having one. The federal housing (public housing units) is so far from everything that a person has to take a taxi or stay at home."

She also admonished "Mayor Jones (to) think of all the older people in Sedalia. Don't you think we deserve some consideration?"

One survey reply, marked "No" simply said, "Let's do something that helps everyone."

Committee Will Study New Proposal

(Democrat-Capital Service)

SWEET SPRINGS — A steering committee was organized here Thursday night for the purpose of considering the possibility of a revamping program for the downtown area.

Lu Atherton, a KCPL representative, and John McHenry, United Utilities, presented a slide program depicting a renovation program implemented at Albia, Iowa.

Members of the steering committee, which will meet at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 7 at the R-VII school cafeteria here are, Don Leach, Bill Koch, John Farmer, David Berg and Benny Meador.

All downtown property owners and tenants were urged to attend the December session.

Repeats

prosperity he's been talking about and the economy in this state "is booming."

Nixon claimed that the nation was "making encouraging and often overlooked progress against higher prices." He claimed a cut in the rate of inflation almost in half and the report of the Labor Department this week that wholesale prices had remained stable in October.

In the radio address earlier Saturday, Nixon said a big election victory for him "will strengthen the President's hand immensely" in the quest for world peace.

Before he and Mrs. Nixon left the White House, the President delivered the 12th in a series of paid radio addresses to the nation.

His only mention of Vietnam was a sentence saying, "As peace in Vietnam comes closer, we can look to the larger world and the long-term future with hope and satisfaction."

On a campaign swing Friday Nixon said he had scored a breakthrough in Vietnam peace negotiations and said, "We have reached agreement ... to have a cease-fire throughout Indochina, not just in Vietnam but in Cambodia and Laos."

With only three days left before the election, Nixon was putting on a blitz of public appearances and radio-television speeches, outlining his record and trying to assure the landslide vote that polls have been predicting for months.

"If you approve the beginnings we have made," Nixon said of his new policies toward Peking and Moscow and his Vietnam peacemaking efforts, "then your vote on election day to support those policies will be a message to the leaders of all other nations that the American people are not going to retreat, are not going to surrender."

Nixon said he had made solid progress toward a world in which nations can talk about differences rather than fight about them and said it was because he negotiated from strength, not weakness.

McGovern

The only special knowledge McGovern claimed is a report from undisclosed sources that Nixon originally proposed signing the agreement Oct. 31, something the White House subsequently denied.

McGovern also commented on reports that information from Secret Service agents assigned to protect him has been used for political purposes by the White House. McGovern said he has come to know the agents assigned to his bodyguard detail and "I have total confidence in them."

He added, "If the White House has misused information they have filed as part of their official duties, I can't comment on that."

McGovern expressed appreciation for local law-enforcement officials who have escorted him in motorcades and control the crowds he attracted along the campaign trail.

McGovern's words on the war came toward the end of the news conference and were in an emotional tone of voice.

"I just want to warn the American people as clearly as I can not buy this Nixon line on peace," he said.

"He has no plan to end the war. He will not let go of General Thieu. He's not going to permit that corrupt Thieu regime in Saigon to collapse. He's going to stay there. He's going to keep our troops there. He's going to keep the bombers flying. He's going to confine our prisoners to their cells in Hanoi for whatever time it takes for him to keep his friend General Thieu in office."

McGovern was constantly on the go, his voice hoarsening from the wear of more than 150 campaign appearances. But he said he'd keep talking until election day, even if he had to whisper. Sargent Shriver was always in political motion.

The campaign was overshadowed on Oct. 26 by word from Hanoi of terms of a Vietnam peace agreement with the United States, followed by a White House declaration that "peace is at hand."

But Thursday, a week later, in his first nationally televised political address of the campaign, Nixon said the United States would sign the settlement "when the agreement is right, not one day before."

He told the voters Hanoi would be watching the election to see whether Americans want "peace with honor or peace with surrender."

McGovern responded that the speech left him "highly skeptical about whether the Nixon administration will ever bring peace."

He maintained the terms outlined by Hanoi were not much different from the withdrawal plan he had advocated all along.

And while he said "I don't give a damn" about the political impact of a settlement, he maintained that whatever the outcome, it should help him as the candidate who had long opposed the war.

McGovern took the offensive in the Vietnam issue Friday night in a television speech, asserting that the Nixon peace forecasts were a "cruel political deception ...."

"Mr. Nixon will not end the war," McGovern said.

Nixon, campaigning Friday in Chicago, Tulsa and Providence, said "we have already reached basic agreement" on a cease-fire that would cover not just Vietnam but all of Indochina.

McGovern campaigned hard on charges that the administration was "the most corrupt in history," on the war and Nixon's 1968 campaign statement that those who had four years to bring peace and failed did not deserve another chance.

But repeatedly, he was forced to defend his own positions, his change in running mates, and his discarded proposal to give every American $1,000 a year to replace the welfare system, with the affluent to pay it back in taxes.

Nixon's campaign, what there was of it, emphasized his account of administration achievements, his rejection of the kind of defense spending cuts McGovern advocated, his opposition to the busing of schoolchildren for racial balance and his claims of success in fighting inflation and crime.

Republican strategists said there were contingency plans for a more aggressive campaign if that appeared necessary. To Nixon strategists, it never did.

McGovern's non-stop campaign took him to 26 states, with most of his time devoted to California and the big industrial states of the Northeast and Midwest.

Except for Texas, he bypassed the South, virtually conceding it to Nixon.

There was not, as in 1968, the buffer of a potent third-party candidate to deny conservative strongholds of the Old Confederacy to the Republicans. For Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace was crippled, prey to a campaign assassination attempt.

In dollar terms, despite new campaign spending limits, the 1972 presidential campaign was the most costly ever.

The Nixon organization made a determined bid for the ethnic vote, for labor support, for Democratic defectors, for almost everybody.

McGovern was making a total of seven nationwide television speeches to Nixon's two.

"We have the clearest choice of this century," Nixon said after the Democrats nominated McGovern.

McGovern said that was one of the few Nixon statements with which he agreed.

Name Corrected

It was incorrectly reported in Wednesday's Democrat and Thursday's Capital that a building destroyed by fire in LaMonte Wednesday morning belonged to Mrs. Irene Kappelman and relatives of rural LaMonte. The structure actually belonged to Maude Smiley, Knob Noster, Mrs. Kappelman's mother.

Investigate Attempted Robbery

An attempted robbery, a theft and three incidents of vandalism were investigated by Sedalia police Friday and Saturday.

A Sedalia woman, Elizabeth Tucker, 31, 319 East Boonville, was reportedly accosted by three would-be robbers Thursday evening as she left Leo's Budweiser Bar, 213 West Main, according to police.

Mrs. Tucker reported she was stopped by three men, one of whom held a knife to her ribs and demanded money. She reportedly explained she had no money, whereupon the three got into a car with a fourth man and drove away.

According to police, Mrs. Tucker described the men as having long hair and wearing blue jeans.

Steven Lindsey, 609 East 11th, reported a tape player and four speakers were taken from his car sometime Thursday or Friday while it was parked in front of his home, according to police.

Richard Fitzwilliams, owner of Fitzwilliams Motors, 620 West Main, reported two 10 x 7 foot plate glass windows, valued at $200 each, were broken sometime Thursday or Friday, according to police.

Ray Dawson, 1902 East 15th, reported ink was splattered on his 1964 Ford while it was parked at his home sometime Thursay night, according to police.

Maxine Griggs reported a towel rack, air freshener and toilet bowl were damaged by vandals in a restroom at Maxine's Gourmet House, 200 Industrial Drive, sometime Friday night, according to police.

Koreans Reach An Agreement

SEOUL (AP) — North and South Korea took a long step toward reconciliation Saturday with an agreement for joint projects and a ban on the hostile propaganda that has inflamed their relations for a quarter of a century.

The new steps were announced by representatives of the two Koreas after their third conference since the July 4 start toward a declared goal of peaceful reunification.

A joint statement from Pyongyang, capital of Communist North Korea, said the meeting was held in an earnest and brotherly atmosphere with a strong desire for improved relations and early reunification.

The statement followed three days of talks and said agreement was reached to stop hostile propaganda against each other by radio, loudspeakers along the border and leaflets.

The two sides also reported agreement on wide-ranging political, economic and cultural exchanges and consultation in international matters.

IT'S GOING AROUND

AGAIN THIS YEAR

If you ask a friend at this time of year what it was that had kept him home sick he is very likely to give you that stock answer—"Oh, it's just something thats been going around!" Just what that something is nobody seems to be exactly sure of except that it's probably a virus or a bug.

In all probability, it will be "going around" again this winter and many of us will be the recipients of its uncomfortable symptoms. So remember, the best advice is rest, liquids and aspirin to start and then call your doctor if you cannot shake it quickly.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine and we will glady deliver it without charge. If you prefer, you may pick it up at our drive up window. We keep accurate records for tax and insurance purposes. We carefully fill welfare prescriptions and deliver or mail free of charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. Question

Is it true that parents as well as the widow of a deceased veteran may receive a memorial flag?

Answer

Yes; the Congress of the United States realizing the importance of a burial flag has ordered the Veterans Administration to issue a flag upon request to the parents as well as to the widow of a deceased serviceman. Two flags may be issued. We will complete and file the necessary forms.

When there is no widow surviving the serviceman, but there is a child or children, these children have a greater priority to receive the flag than his parents. In this situation the parents are entitled to a flag in addition to the one which goes to the children.

Parents includes a natural parent, a step-parent, or a parent by adoption.

City Prepared to Battle Annual Problem

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

In terms of money spent, efforts expended, and time consumed the problems of ice and snow removal reign as one of Sedalia's biggest winter worries — not only for city street supervisor Vernon Ditton but also for the motorists, bicyclists and pedestrians who traverse the streets his crews clean.

Although the first snowflakes of the winter season have yet to fall, Ditton is currently readying his fleet of machinery and men for the annual battle against the elements.

Ditton's basic philosophy regarding the up-coming struggle against snow and ice is simple. "When it comes down, get rid of it," he says. "That's all in the world you can do until some guy somewhere, sometime learns to control the darned stuff."

While Ditton's winter duties are dismissed as "snow big problem" by Los Angeles or Miami Beach quipsters, Sedalians can't afford to laugh it off that easily — not when lives, vehicles and, more specifically, $2,565 is involved.

That's how much it cost the city last winter to provide the 100 tons of salt ($22 a ton), 150 tons of sand ($2.50 a ton) and four tons of calcium chloride ($65 a ton), which Ditton estimated were used in making the city's approximately 142 miles of streets safe for traveling.

Salt, Ditton explained, is used mainly as an abrasive to keep wet tires from skidding. The calcium chloride, which Ditton said was used primarily at intersections, actually melts the snow and increases the effectiveness of the salt.

Cinders, an easily obtainable and usually free source of abrasives for many coal-burning cities, is unavailable to Sedalia, which uses natural gas heat. However, according to city engineer Robert Cunningham, who works with Ditton on phases of snow removal operations, the city would be reluctant to use cinders even if they were available.

"Cinders are usually real dirty and a big mess," Cunningham said. You usually end up with a dirty scene nearly as bad as the snowy one."

Much of the machinery used by Ditton's crews is year-around equipment which is converted, via blade and scoop attachments, for winter use. Currently, the city uses three motorgraders, one truck plow, one salt and sand spreader, seven dump trucks and a conveyor belt loader.

This equipment, particularly the loader, sees most of its downtown work at night, Ditton explained, because "you couldn't possibly run one of those things down Ohio during the day — there'd be too much traffic."

During the day, in residential areas, the emphasis is more on relocating snow rather than removing it. Instead of loading snow into dump trucks as is done at night in the downtown area, the snow is generally plowed to the curbside.

In his 11 years on the job, Ditton said, he has encountered complaints from both downtown merchants and residents. In the former instance, his crews complied and stopped spreading sand on downtown streets because merchants claimed it was being tracked into their stores and irretrievably enbedded into their carpets.

In the latter case of residential criticism, which consisted mostly of complaints from citizens whose cars had just been buried by bladed snow, Ditton says he can't be as lenient.

"We have to keep the streets clear for traffic, that's our primary objective," he said. "If cars might get trapped, they better be parked elsewhere 'cause we have our jobs to do..."

Ditton feels his crews are doing the "best possible job with what they have," but he believes a new salt spreader to replace the city's second-hand one would be a welcome addition.

"Maybe we can use some of that new federal (revenue sharing) money," he said. "What's more important than snow removal? Just ask any stuck driver."

Another improvement Ditton would like to see wouldn't cost the city a penny except for signs, he says.

"We need an official snow route like they have in Kansas City. That way, we could designate certain streets as off limits to cars when it snows so much. Cars that remained would be towed away," he said.

Although acknowledging that it might take some drivers time to get used to the idea, Ditton believes it necessary. "Keeping the streets clear ... that's what we're paid to do and what we intend to do," he said.

Dies

Harry Richman, shown in a 1947 picture, famed song-and-dance man of the prohibition era and the 1930s, died Friday in Los Angeles at the age of 77. Richman ran a night club in New York and appeared in Broadway musicals. His most famous song was, "Puttin' on the Ritz" and many performers imitated his top hat-and-cane style. (UPI)

The Boonslick Regional Library, in its new list of selected books received in October, put "Takeover Bid" by Gainham first on the fiction list.

In the non-fiction class, the library lists "The Peter Prescription," Peter; "No-Fault Insurance," Rokes; "Theatrical Entertainments in Rural Missouri Before the Civil War," Bowen; "Complete Book of Bicycling," Sloane; and "The Headstrong Houseboat" by Anderson.

Superstitious farmers once said of the few unusual round barns found in northern Vermont, "They built them round so the devil couldn't corner you."

Expect 2 Million Voters At Polls Throughout State

By JIM CHURCH
Associated Press Writer

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Amidst predictions of widespread ticket splitting and a sweep of the state by President Nixon, about 2 million Missouri voters will cast ballots Tuesday.

They will choose 10 congressmen, a governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, state treasurer, 17 state senators, 163 state representatives and some judges as well as county officers.

There are clear favorites in many races. Few bets were being taken in the Capitol on two: the governor's race and the 6th Congressional District race in northwest Missouri.

Christopher S. Bond, 33-year-old state auditor, seeks to become the first Republican elected governor since Forrest C. Donnell, now 88 and still practicing law in St. Louis, was elected in 1940.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, a Democrat, leaves office in January after serving two 4-year terms.

Bond failed to unseat Congressman William L. Hungate in 1968 and was elected auditor in 1970.

The Democratic candidate is Edward L. Dowd, 54, a Catholic and father of eight who lost in the lieutenant governor's primary race in 1968 to Lt. Gov. William S. Morris. But Dowd beat Morris and eight other candidates in the Aug. 8 primary.

The hottest congressional race involves Republican Russell Sloan, 34, former football coach at Northeast Missouri State College at Kirksville, against Chillicothe cattle rancher Jerry Litton, a 35-year-old Democrat.

Bond has pegged his campaign to a theme for change, attacking state government patronage and what he calls the "spoils system." All other GOP state office seekers have echoed that line.

Bond, making a point to release explicit lists of contributions and expenditures, has proposed a state ethics and elections commission.

He wants a Missouri Bureau of Investigation set up under the future Department of Public Safety. He has proposed a lobbying office for Missouri in Washington, state subsidies for community recycling centers, regional correctional facilities, a "modified" form of no-fault auto insurance and a change in the handling of state tax collections.

He says the state needs no increase in taxes because of federal revenue sharing and a general fund surplus caused by a "miscalculation by the current administration."

Education in poor areas would be the first priority of spending revenue sharing funds, Bond says. He favors increasing state support for schools to relieve the burden on local property taxes. He also favors a "super" board to govern all of Missouri's higher education.

Dowd's first priority would be aid for the elderly. He has reserved judgment on no-fault insurance. He says government reorganization can save $50 million and also is for putting all employes under the merit system.

A former president of the St. Louis Police Board and former FBI agent, Dowd favors a Missouri Bureau of Investigation under a nonpartisan board.

He has made a policy of not discussing any replacements, while Bond says he wants to replace the director of revenue, director of agriculture, director of planning and construction, comptroller and maybe others.

Newspaper polls have shown Dowd leading in St. Louis and Kansas City and Bond leading everywhere else, even in heavily Democratic southeast Missouri.

Nixon has led polls everywhere in the state. But Harry Wiggins, state chairman for George McGovern and Sargent Shriver, predicts McGovern will carry the state.

Nixon beat Hubert Humphrey by 20,000 votes here in 1968. McGovern's liberal stances have hurt him in Missouri, but his dumping of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri as his running mate has hurt more.

Charges and counter-charges have marked the campaign.

The Republicans have tried unsuccessfully to link the Democratic candidates with the "Democratic political machine in Jefferson City."

Bond and Atty. Gen. John C. Danfort eliminated the party designations from application forms in their offices and point to the fact that about 3,000 employes are still hired under the patronage system.

Dowd said Bond fired all the Democrats when he became auditor. Bond says his 80-member office has 18 Democrats. Danforth has 90 employes, about 45 per cent of them Democrats.

Bond's campaign manager has accused Dowd's people of spreading rumors such as Bond backing McGovern. The Democrats say Republicans may have sent somebody to the Springfield area to promise big-name speakers for Democrats—such as Peter Lawford—and then disappeared when the big-names were no-shows.

Bond's people made an issue of Dowd advertisements saying Bond admitted he didn't pay income tax and that Bond backed the doomed transportation bond issue, which would have given gasoline tax money to the cities for rapid transit.

Dowd said he has documents to back up his advertisements, including state Supreme Court stipulations Bond made during the court test of his residency, which Bond won.

Danforth, 36, favored in the newspaper polls for re-election, has concentrated his campaign on behalf of Bond. Lately, Danforth has campaigned on his record in the attorney general's office. State Rep. James E. Spain, 37, D-Bloomfield, is his opponent in a "David vs. Goliath" campaign.

Danforth has the advantage of plenty of money and the fact that he is the incumbent. He is eastern educated while Spain, a man of modest means from the Bootheel, attended Southeast Missouri State College and the University of Missouri law school.

In the lieutenant governor's race, it's east vs. west, with the east showing ahead in most of the polls. State Rep. Jack J. Schramm, 40, University City, the Democrat, has campaigned on a broad platform and says he would maintain a law office in St. Louis if elected.

The office traditionally has been one where the lieutenant governor practices law part-time.

Republican William C. Phelps, 38, a state House member for 12 years from Kansas City, says he would be a full-time lieutenant governor whereas Schramm wouldn't. Phelps also has warned that if Bond is elected, Bond would have troubles with a Democratic second man.

Rep. George W. Parker, 49, a retired Air Force major from Columbia, promises to "clean up" the treasurer's office and wants to eliminate the practice of keeping short-term no-interest accounts in "favored" banks.

His Democratic opponent, James I. Spainhower of Jefferson City, wants to make the grab for state accounts more competitive and wants to selectively invest state money in depressed areas.

Parker says he can't do that with short-term loans, and the state couldn't make long-term loans.

Spainhower, 43, is a former state representative and is a professor of government at Lincoln University and a Christian Church minister.

Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick, 68-year-old Democrat, has been campaigning on his record. One of his major proposals is to get statewide voter registration.

He is opposed by 36-year-old Harold "Wheels" Kuehle, revenue collector for Cape Girardeau County. Kuehle has criticized Kirkpatrick's office for not cracking down on voter fraud in St. Louis County and on legislators who run for office in one district while living in another.

Kirkpatrick says the first problem is up to the St. Louis County prosecutor and the second is up to the attorney general.

Kuehle got his nickname because he has been confined to a wheelchair since he suffered a football injury in high school.

Political observers say anything can happen in the Litton-Sloan race. The district represents 23 counties and is urban, suburban and rural. It is about evenly split between Democrats and Republicans.

Litton talks the language of the farmer. Sloan, whose youth group is called the "Rolling Sloans," is the only major office candidate in Missouri with a crewcut. He favors a "let's win" policy in Vietnam. Litton, a conservative Democrat, says that avoiding another Vietnam is more important than placing blame.

They seek the seat vacated by retiring Rep. W. R. Hull Jr., a Weston Democrat.

Rep. Durward G. Hall, a Republican, is retiring in the 7th District, and the candidates are Gene Taylor, 44, a Sarcoxie automobile dealer and former GOP national committeeman, and William "Bill" Thomas, 45, a Democrat.

Thomas, a high school biology teacher in Springfield for 23 years, is making his first venture into politics. The district is heavily Republican.

Democrats expect to return eight incumbent congressmen to Washington. The districts, incumbents and their opponents:

2nd of St. Louis County—Rep. James W. Symington, 43, son of Sen. Stuart Symington, vs. Webster Groves Mayor John W. "Jack" Cooper, 47, a Republican.

3rd of southern St. Louis city—Leonor K. Sullivan, the state's first congresswoman, vs. Albert J. Holst Sr., 55, a Republican and a mechanical engineer, and Charles H. Byford, 52, an independent who describes himself as an electronics security consultant.

4th of western Jackson County and west central Missouri—Rep. William J. Randall, 62, D-Independence, vs. Raymond E. Barrows, 54, Republican and an Appleton City alderman.

10th of Southeast Missouri—Rep. Bill D. Burlison, 39, D-Cape Girardeau, vs. Republican Marion F. Svendrowski, 42, a data processing engineer from Farmington.

There are several other interesting elections on the ballot.

Voters will decide whether to retain Supreme Court Judge John E. Bardgett, 45, who was reprimanded by the court—the first such action in at least 50 years—for "giving the appearance of impropriety" while in a bar with a legislator who was involved in a case before the court. Bardgett, appointed two years ago from the St. Louis Circuit Court, won approval for retention by a 3-to-1 vote of the State's lawyers.

Also on the ballot are two constitutional amendments. Amendment No. 1 would permit the legislature to eliminate the property tax on household goods and articles of personal use. But local governments would lose their share of the current taxes and the legislature would be forced to find new ways to replace the revenue.

Amendment No. 1 also would permit the legislature to eliminate the 4 per cent tax on the yield of intangible property such as stocks, bonds, and other investments. This year, intangible taxes produced about $19 million.

Both Bond and Dowd have talked of saving money through organization of the executive branch, and of using federal revenue sharing to fulfill needs.

Both say no tax increase is necessary. But they haven't proposed specifically how local governments will be reimbursed if the first amendment passes.

The amendment also would permit the legislature to enact a "circuit breaker" law giving the elderly up to $10 million a year in income tax rebates, but it doesn't spell out how this would be done.

Amendment No. 2 would permit the legislature to reconsider bills vetoed by the governor five days before the session ends in odd-numbered years such as 1973. Bills vetoed after that would be considered at the next special or general session.

Now, bills vetoed in the last five days of the session must be acted upon before the legislature adjourns.

The amendment would have no effect on the regular September special veto session for bills passed in the three-month session in even-numbered years, such as this year.

Record Number of New Faces in Legislature

By LARRY HALL
Associated Press Writer

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A record vote is predicted but no matter what happens at the ballot box next Tuesday, the 1973 Missouri legislature will have more new faces than at any time since the '40s.

Redistricting, retirements and expected Republican gains in the House will account for the big turnover.

And the freshman legislators will have to become educated about state government in a hurry because they will be facing the biggest legislative job since the 1945 legislature worked almost two years straight to implement the newly adopted Constitution.

They will also be working with a new governor who has no legislative experience, no matter which candidate wins.

There is no chance for a Republican takeover in the Senate, which is Democratic now, 25-9. Republicans hope to pick up three seats to give them 12 of the 34 votes.

In the House, Republicans staged an "82 in '72" drive this year in the hope of gaining a majority of the 163 seats.

The chairman of that campaign, Rep. Les Langsford, R-Springfield, predicted Friday the GOP would have a total of between 72 and 92 seats after the ballots are counted, which would be the biggest gain since Republicans won control of the House in 1952.

Langsford predicts a 20-seat gain in outstate Missouri, six in metropolitan Kansas City and possibly eight in the St. Louis metropolitan area.

He called prospects for gaining a majority very good.

If Republicans should gain control of the House, their speaker probably would be Rep. John T. Russell, R-Lebanon, who is now minority floor leader. He says there is a good chance Republicans may occupy 85 to 88 seats.

If the Democrats retain control, Rep. Richard Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, is the front runner to become speaker although Rep. Phil Snowden, D-Gladstone, a Kansas City suburb, also is bidding for the job.

Rep. Kenneth Rothman, D-Clayton, now the House judiciary chairman, is generally regarded as the likely successor to Rabbitt as majority floor leader.

In the Senate, nine senators are elected automatically without opposition.

One of the senators who retired this year was Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, the president pro tem. Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, the present majority leader, says he has enough votes to succeed Patterson in that job but Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty, is also in the race.

Elected automatically in the Senate are:

Donald J. Gralike, D-St. Louis, in the 1st District, who is moving up from the House; Sen. Lawrence J. Lee, D-St. Louis, in the 3rd, where the Republican nominee withdrew and a successor filed too late to get on the ballot.

Sen. Raymond Howard, D-St. Louis, in the 5th, one of the Senate's two black members; Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood, in the 7th, the minority floor leader; Sen. Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Coeur, in the 13th;

Sen. Waters in the 17th; former Sen. John C. Ryan, R-Sedalia, in the 21st; Sen. Nelson B. Tinnin, D-Hornersville, in the 25th; and Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, in the 27th.

This year the Senate may gain its first woman member, Rep. Mary L. Gant of Kansas City. She is the Democratic nominee in the 9th District, which opened up by the retirement of veteran Sen. Edgar J. Keating, D-Kansas City.

Mrs. Gant's opponent is Daniel Guidici, a 38-year-old research scientist. The district is normally Democratic.

In outstate Missouri, one of the most interesting races will be in the 19th District of Boone, Callaway, Hoard and Callaway counties. All are traditionally Democratic but the Republican vote has been growing in Boone County, seat of the University of Missouri at Columbia.

The incumbent senator since 1960 is A. Basey Vanlandingham, 52, of Columbia, former majority leader who opposed lowering the voting age to 18. About 7,000 students are included in Boone County's 37,000 registered voters.

Opposing Vanlandingham is Larry Marshall, 35, a native of Joplin who now practices law in Columbia. He formerly was Boone County public defender and has campaigned for student recognition.

Two new faces are guaranteed in the Senate because of retirements.

In the new 23rd District of central Missouri, Sen. Omer H. Avery, D-Troy, bowed out when Lincoln County was thrown into the 18th District represented by Sen. Norman Merrell, D-Monticello, who is not up for re-election this year.

The new 23rd has a Republican flavor and the candidates are Rep. Ralph Uthlaut Jr., 38, R-New Florence, and Ken V. Wildhaber, D-Jefferson City, former Jefferson City alderman who grew up in Osage County.

Similarly, in the heavily Republican 29th District of southwestern Missouri, veteran Sen. Noel Cox, R-Ozark, decided to retire this year.

That opened the way for a race between Emory Melton, 48, R-Cassville, a lawyer and newspaper publisher, and Forrest Wasson, 62, D-Crane, a salesman and band director. Melton is regarded as a shoo-in.

One incumbent involved in a hard fight is Rep. John J. Johnson, D-Affton, an insurance broker and real estate man and former St. Louis County Democratic chairman.

He has been closely associated in the Senate with controversial Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, who lost out in the governorship primary.

Johnson's opponent in the south St. Louis district where a lot of Republicans live is Rep. Frank Bild, 60, a lawyer and a member of the House for the last 10 years. He calls himself a fiscal conservative.

All 163 House seats are up for grabs and 17 of the 34 Senate seats. House members serve two-year terms and senators four years.

Separate Trial Request Granted

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A prosecution request for separate trials for two Michigan men who are charged in connection with the June hijacking of an American Airlines jet here was granted Friday by Judge John K. Regan in U.S. District Court, but a defense motion for a news blackout was denied.

The defense motion was made by Martin J. McNally, 28, of Wyandotte, Mich., who is charged with the hijacking June 23 and attempting to escape with $502,500 in ransom which was later found by a farmer in northern Indiana.

"There is no way I can keep the press out," said Judge Regan, who added that he would consider another defense motion for a change of venue for the trial Dec. 4 when jurors were chosen.

"There's no way the defendant could be tried in this jurisdiction.. everyone would surely be prejudicial against the defendant," said Frederick H. Mayer, McNally's court-appointed attorney.

Walter J. Petlikowsky, 31, Ecorse, Mich., is charged as an accomplice in the case. His attorney contends Petlikowsky had no knowledge of the hijacking. Petlikowsky surrendered to police two days after McNally was arrested. He said McNally told him he had been involved in a car accident when Petlikowsky drove to Peru, Ind., to pick up McNally, according to Petlikowsky's attorney.

Upon entering the courtroom where the day-long hearing on pretrial motions were to be heard, McNally asked that his lawyer be dismissed and that he be allowed to defend himself. Judge Regan dismissed the request.

McNally said the charges should be dismissed and that he be allowed to defend himself. Judge Regan dismissed the request.

McNally said the charges should be dismissed because the hijacker couldn't survive a parachute jump from an airplane going 350 miles an hour at 10,000 feet.

The hijacking took place at Lambert-St. Louis International airport when a man armed with a small automatic rifle interrupted a flight from St. Louis to Oklahoma City, and ordered the jet back to St. Louis.

Later, after the hijacker had released the passengers and received the ransom money, he had to transfer planes because a car crashed through an airport fence and collided with the original, hijacked jet. The driver of the car, David J. Hanley, of Florissant, Mo., is facing federal charges of damaging a civil aircraft. Hanley, who suffered several fractures in the crash and is still too ill to be arraigned on the charges, was apparently trying to prevent the hijacking.

Victim?

Evelyn Anderson, 25, Quincy, Mich., has tentatively been identified as one of the two American missionary women whose badly burned bodies were found in a runied house in the southern Laotian town of Kengkok. The leader of the missionary group, called Christian Missions in Many Lands, escaped with his wife and seven Filipinos. Two others were captured by Communist-led troops. The other body is presumed to be Beatrice Kosin, 35, Fort Washakie, Wyo. (UPI)

Says Soviet Wheat Crop Falling Short

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet minister of agriculture, reporting a "once in a century" crop failure, suggested today that the 1972 grain harvest was at least 30 million tons short of the planned target.

He didn't give a precise figure, nor would he pin down the cost to the economy, which unofficial reports had put at around $20 billion.

At a rare news conference, Agriculture Minister Vladimir V. Matskevich blamed a stubborn high-pressure system which kept rain from European Russia during the growing season and stunted the grain.

Matskevich outlined on a map of the vast area afflicted by drought. It extended from the Black Sea to the White Sea, from Kiev to the Urals.

Reporting on the harvest, he said: "The crop this year will be roughly at the average of the years of the eighth five-year plan (1966-70). The crop is considerably higher than any crop before the March (1956) plenum.

"We haven't accumulated all the data yet," he added.

The average grain harvest in the last five-year plan was 167.6 million tons. The best crop before the March 1965 Central Committee plenum was 152.2 million tons in 1964.

Matskevich seemed to confirm the best outside estimates that the 1972 harvest would be about 157 million tons, more than 30 million tons lower than the target of 190 million.

Matskevich made no mention of the Soviet Union's record grain imports this year, totaling more than a billion dollars worth from the United States and lesser amounts from Canada, Australia, France and Sweden.

Matskevich said the "bad crop" was the cause of additional expenditure: "I don't know how much, but it was more than usual. We will count it all up and make it public."

Lower Age Limit a Problem?

By PETER WEAVER

Millions of young people between the ages of 18 and 21 will soon be voting in a presidential election for the first time.

They've lowered the voting age to 18. Everybody knows that. But what most parents and young people don't realize is the fact that many states are lowering the "age of consent" for a whole lot of other things.

As the official majority age comes down, you're going to find 18-year-olds becoming responsible for contracts, including tough judgments against them if they don't pay. You're going to find 18-year-olds, and others up to 21, in control of money or property which parents may have given with the idea the children would not get control until "after college."

All sorts of problems are bubbling out of the trend to lower the majority age to 18. After talking with lawyers and state officials around the country, I've noted some of the more pressing issues that parents and their newly "emancipated" offspring should ponder:

FINANCIAL: When a state lowers the age of majority to 18 across the board, this means children will have legal rights to any money, securities, real estate or other property that was given to them.

Legally, an 18-year-old high school graduate can take his or her valuable property and decide not to go to college in favor of spending the money on a trip or a "cause." Some state officials are wondering whether a high school graduate is as capable of shouldering this responsibility as well as a college graduate or someone who has worked for three years.

SUPPORT: As the legal age for responsibility comes down for young people, it also comes down for parents. Parents will no longer be legally responsible to support children after the 18th birthday. In the case of parents who have given money or property, the 18-year-old can be told that part or all of this loot must be used to pay for college expenses.

There are great tax advantages here. Parents can give children money over the years and act as custodian until age 18. This virtually tax-free money can then be used for the child's education. In the past, Internal Revenue Service has balked at letting parents use this dodge on the grounds that they are "responsible" for educating the child through to age 21. Now, it's a different ball game.

There's one big catch. What if the 18-year-old refuses to use the money for college but wants to use it elsewhere? According to Timothy E. Clarke, chief counsel for the Maryland Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee: "Parents are going to have start leveling with their children at an earlier age to help prepare them for the new responsibility."

Clarke's committee has made a survey of all the states that have lowered the majority age and has worked on a new law for Maryland which will bring the age down to 18 for everything. So far, some 20 states have lowered the majority age to 18 (in varying degrees). Some 40 states will have done so by next July. Clarke suggests you find out what your state is doing.

CONTRACTS: High school graduates will now be responsible for contracts they enter into, even the deceptively simple "record club coupon." If they can't complete payments, they may fall victim to a court judgment which can "garnishee" their future wages for many years and can completely ruin their credit rating just as they're starting out into our credit-dominated economy. Previously, 18-year-olds could get out of contracts because they were "minors."

MISCELLANY: Students may no longer have to pay stiff "out-of-state resident" fees for state universities. Divorced parents with children could get support payments cut off at 18 years. High school students will be out of the protection of juvenile courts and could face stiffer penalties and begin a "record" at an earlier age. These are just a few of the issues.

Man Guns Down Ex-Deputy

OSCEOLA, Iowa (AP)—Fred Hembry had been a deputy sheriff for 3½ years, but last March he quit to become a farmer.

As he sat in his home here last Thursday night, someone knocked at the door.

Hembry opened the door and a man shot him twice. Once in the neck. Once in the back.

Friday night the 29-year-old Hembry was still alive, although listed in serious condition in the intensive care unit of a Des Moines hospital.

Hembry's former boss, Clarke County Sheriff John Stearns, said late Friday the motive for the shooting was still unknown.

But the attack touched off an intensive manhunt in southern Iowa and northern Missouri.

Stearns, 42, who has been the sheriff here for eight years, helped direct the search. He went sleepless for some 36 hours after the attack, trying to find the man who gunned down his friend.

Hembry, his wife Betty, and their three children were at home when someone knocked about 9:15 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Hembry and the children were in the kitchen when Hembry went to the door.

Stearns said a white male, about 5-foot-7, was at the doorstep.

In response to Hembry's question, the man "represented himself as a member of the chamber of commerce," Stearns said.

"Then the man reached under his coat, pulled out a gun and started firing."

Hembry's family heard the shots. They saw him stagger into the kitchen. The assailant had fled.

Stearns won't elaborate. He says the less that's disclosed will enhance efforts to find the attacker.

The hunt continued Saturday. "Sheriffs and police throughout southern Iowa and northern Missouri are helping us," Stearns said, in addition to the Iowa Bureau of Criminal Investigation and the Iowa Highway Patrol.

Hearing Date Set In Extortion Case

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Charles Edmond Carshaddon, 22, of Troy, Kan., will have a preliminary hearing in U.S. Magistrate Court in Topeka Nov. 14 on a charge of trying to extort $200,000 from a St. Joseph, Mo. firm.

Carshaddon was arraigned Friday before U.S. Magistrate Robert H. Miller, who set his bond at $7,500.

Kansas highway patrol officers said Carshaddon told them he threatened to detonate a bomb in the Dugdale Packing Co. plant if the money wasn't paid.

Car Hits Bicycle Head-On; Rider Dies

SIKESTON, Mo. (AP) — Roy Winters, 76, of Vanduser, was killed Friday afternoon by a car that hit him head-on as he rode a bicycle on Scott County Route DD a half-mile west of the Vanduser community.

The Highway patrol said the car driver, Ferl McIntyre, 27, of Bell City, Mo., pulled out to pass a pickup truck and hit winters.

Taken on Halloween

WESTON, Mo. (AP) — One of Weston's two police cars has been stolen.

"I thought at first it might be a Halloween joke," Police Chief Harlen Carter said Friday. "But now I'm not so sure."

The car, equipped with police markings, red lights and a riot gun, was locked and parked in front of the fire station when it disappeared Sunday night.

Hurt Is Named To Committee For Courts

William Ewing Hurt, Kansas City, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hurt, 910 State Fair Blvd., has been appointed by the Missouri Bar Association to serve on the Juvenile Courts and Laws Committee which will meet Nov. 10 in Jefferson City to discuss difficulties encountered in the juvenile courts system in Missouri.

An attorney in the Court of Appeals, Kansas City, Hurt received his doctorate in jurisprudence in 1971 from the Cumberland School of Law, Birmingham, Ala., after undergraduate work at Kansas University, Lawrence. He is a 1963 Smith-Cotton High School graduate.

Sees Nixon in Electoral Sweep

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — President Nixon appears to be headed for a re-election victory which could give him an electoral vote total somewhere in the record range achieved by Franklin D. Roosevelt in his second triumph in 1936.

NEA's third and final electoral vote survey from coast to coast indicates that he likely will take at least 47 states with 511 votes, with a reasonably good prospect of adding two others here listed as doubtful (and having a total of 10 more votes). Victory requires 270.

The Democratic nominee, Sen. George McGovenn, is given just one state, by a shaky margin, and the District of Columbia — for a total of just 17 electoral votes.

In 1936 when there were only 48 states and presidential voting was barred in the District of Columbia, Roosevelt defeated Republican Alfred M. Landon 523 to 8, winning all but Maine and Vermont.

Lyndon Johnson's 486 in 1964 is the second highest total on record, and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's 457 in 1956 is the top Republican figure.

As was reported in NEA's second survey earlier in October, so it is with this final review: No evidence of really major vote shifts toward McGovern could be detected anywhere. Again and again the word came through from analysts, observers and politicians at the other end of the telephone line: "No significant movement for McGovern here."

McGovern's most promising state, Massachusetts, with 14 votes is handed to him in this survey — though some observers think the President may even break through and take this normally heavy Democratic state.

Kept in the doubtful category are West Virginia (6 votes) and Hawaii (4), despite strong advices from some sources that either or both could go to Nixon. Hawaii never has gone Republican in its brief time as a state. In the previous check, West Virginia was awarded to McGovern, but his position there has since declined.

While both national and respected state public opinion polls indicate a narrowing of the once enormous Nixon lead, the President's suggested margins still are generally very substantial and in a few cases (California, for instance) have actually increased.

It is worth noting furthermore that Mr. Nixon's lead is probably rock-solid in enough places to assure him a foundation of at least 235 electoral votes (only 35 short of election), before one even examines the outlook in the more hotly contested big northern states.

Consequently, a considerable further narrowing of his indicated popular vote percentage margins probably would not seriously endanger his re-election prospects.

Polls of recent vintage show Mr. Nixon leading by good to very sizable margins in all of the eight most populous northern states except Massachusetts. Two or three of these are thought by some appraisers to be still moderately fluid. They are California (45 votes), New York (41), Michigan (21). Yet on balance, the judgments in these places is that they will all land in the Nixon electoral column on Nov. 7.

If the surveyer were to add their combined 107 votes to McGovern's present total, throw in 10 votes from the two doubtful states, yield a bit and give him another 37 from Rhode Island, Connecticut, Maryland, Wisconsin and South Dakota, the senator's total then would be 171, still 99 short of victory. Sen. Hubert Humphrey won the first three of these in 1968. Wisconsin is thought to be a pretty good McGovern state, and South Dakota is his home base (though he trails now).

Again however, the important consequence of this last survey is that the weight of judgment is against McGovern in nearly all these states. Only the two doubtfuls, West Virginia's 6 and Hawaii's 4, look even meagerly promising for him.

It should be pointed out that NEA's checking in the heavily contested large northern states (and many others) came after announcements in Hanoi, Paris and Washington made early Vietnam peace arrangement seem a plausible prospect.

NEA's survey also came after many new allegations seeming to link high Nixon aides to efforts to spy upon and sabotage Democratic activities. Contrary to some reporters' new field findings, our check did not show significant general impact damaging to Mr. Nixon.

Most political reporters and analysts and poll-takers are haunted somewhat by the memory of 1948 when the Gallup Poll forecast victory for the late Thomas E. Dewey over President Truman and numerous other specialists made similar judgments.

Politics is a more volatile and uncertain business today than it was in 1948 and it must be acknowledged that a surprise McGovern victory could somehow happen. But there simply are not signs pointing to it.

WHERE THEY STAND

THE ISSUES OF THE 1972 CAMPAIGN

Education

REPUBLICANS

Our two most pressing needs in the 1970s are the provision of quality education for all children, and equitable financing of steadily rising costs. We pledge our best efforts to deal effectively with both.

Means which are consistent with the Constitution can be devised for channeling public financial aid to support the education of all children in schools of their parents' choice, nonpublic as well as public.

DEMOCRATS

Increase federal financial aid for elementary and secondary education and support equalization in spending among school districts . . . to improve schools and to assure equality of access to good education.

Step up efforts to meet the special needs and costs of educationally disadvantaged children.

new faces! new ideas! new determination to build a better Missouri!

It's what's behind the faces of our Democratic candidates that makes the differences.

Differences in experience and maturity. Differences in achievements and service to the people of Missouri. Vital differences to every Missourian in responsible and responsive government.

There's another difference we think you'll consider important. The forward-looking programs of our Missouri Democratic candidates are aimed squarely at solving the everyday problems of people. Problems of education, jobs, health care, taxes, and crime. And the needs of the elderly, the handicapped, and all victims of inflation.

But that's what you'd expect of leaders representing the party of Truman, Hennings, Symington and Eagleton, isn't it?

Press Takes Toll

Grems Rout Cougars, 143-40

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

In recent years, the press has become one of the best offensive tools that basketball teams have devised. Friday night was an excellent example of how a press can put points on the board, as the Sacred Heart Gremlins routed Climax Springs in the 1972-73 season's opener, 143-40.

"We press all the time," said third-year Gremlins' coach Tom Beer in his office following the game. "It is something that I believe in and my players believe in. It is an extremely important part of our game plan."

The press took its toll against the Cougars, who also were opening the season. In the first minute and a half of the contest, the Grems stole the ball three times and scored each time off it. In all, Sacred Heart accounted for 33 recoveries, and only on rare occasions did they not chalk points up on the board after stealing the ball. The Gremlins lost the ball 13 times.

Beer's varsity looked like it had hit mid-season form from the opening tipoff, but he may still be wondering how they will fare in next week's Kaysinger Conference Tournament, since the second five accounted for nearly half the playing time. In fact, two second-stringers led the scoring parade for the red and white. Tony Lock and Jim McMullin tossed in 22 and 20 points respectively to pace the torrid attack. All told, Beer's seven subs netted 76 of the team's final total.

Four others also reached double figures — Bill Freund (18), Jeff Karigan (16), Mike Twenter (15), Dan Borchers (15) and Keith Fischer (14). The only starter not scoring in double figures was center Mark Dunham, who had six.

"We had an easy time tonight," continued Beer, "but we'll have no 'patsies' next week in the tournament. I told the kids they would have to get back to earth quickly. A win like this is a good morale booster, but it can also be deceiving."

At no point in the contest were the Gremlins threatened, running up quarters totals of 37, 31, 36 and 39. They led at the intermission, 68-16.

"We didn't play a flawless game by any means," Beer hastened. "We missed a lot of plays against their zone, and we made some mistakes on the press. Overall, however, I was pleased, especially with our inside game. I thought we rebounded real well."

Looking at the statistics, they did just that. Sacred Heart out rebounded the Cougars 23-13 defensively and hauled in 36 compared to six for Climax Springs offensively.

One area that Beer may want to brush up on is at the free throw line, where his squad hit only 50 per cent (21 of 42).

Lynn Garrison, who on more than one occasion dribbled his way the length of the court through the Grems' press, gunned in 14 field goals and added two free throws in scoring the bulk of the Cougars' 40 points, and capturing the game's scoring honor.

"We're not going back to the practice floor until Monday," the Gremlins' mentor concluded. "I hope by that time the kids are back down to earth and ready to face the winner of the Green Ridge-Northwest game Tuesday night in our opening game of the tourney."

They had their first 100-point lead when Mark Register canned one from the side with 10 seconds left in the game, making it 141-40. Before the final buzzer could sound, Lock meshed his 21st and 22nd points at :01.

OU Bounces Iowa State

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Leon Crosswhite and Greg Pruitt butted out 215 yards rushing and a touchdown apiece Saturday to lift seventh-ranked Oklahoma passed No. 14 Iowa State 20-6 in a premier Big Eight Conference defensive battle here.

Crosswhite, a 6-foot-1, 213-pound fullback, ran seven yards in the second quarter for the game's only touchdown until Pruitt scored a two-yarder to put the game out of reach with 31 seconds remaining.

Rick Fulcher booted 19 and 18-yard field goals in the middle two quarters for Oklahoma, 6-1, while Tom Goedjen countered with 38 and 34 yarders for Iowa State, 5-2.

Oklahoma, 2-1 in the Big Eight, lost the ball only once on an interception and mounted drives of 67 and 87 yards for its two touchdowns in the fiercely-played game before an overflow crowd of 36,231.

Iowa State, dropping to 2-2 in the conference, moved the ball effectively in the first half and in the final quarter, but was stopped by a fumble, two pass interceptions and a couple of costly penalties.

Oklahoma rushed for 300 yards—100 below its nation—leading average, and added 74 passing, all in the first half. Iowa State had 149 on the ground and 200 in the air.

Goedjens' final field goal came with 4:10 left, but Oklahoma retaliated with its long drive that featured a 57-yard run by quarterback Dave Robertson. Three plays and two penalties later, Pruitt scored the final touchdown.

Kaysinger Loop Tourney Opens

(Democrat-Capital Service)

LINCOLN — Northwest (1-0) and Green Ridge (0-1), the eighth and ninth-seeded teams, open the 1972 Kaysinger Conference Tournament here Monday at 6 p.m.

Both teams are under new head coaches — Ed Scroggin at Northwest and Larry Barb at Green Ridge — and will be getting a look at the balance of the conference teams during the week.

In addition to the Northwest-Green Ridge contest, two other first-round games are on tap. Fourth-seeded Smithton meets fifth-seeded Cole Camp at 7:30 p.m., in what could well be the closest tilt of the night. Smithton has seen action once already this season, that coming in last week's 80-73 loss to Stover in a non-conference game on the latter's home court.

However, it will be the season's opener for Cole Camp and Bob Farrington, who enters his sixth season as the head coach of the Blue Birds. Cole Camp won the tournament two years ago, and made it to the finals last season, bowing to Warsaw, 67-50, in the finale.

In the other opening-night clash, second-seeded and defending champion Warsaw and seventh-seeded Lincoln are paired at 9 p.m.

Warsaw will be opening a new season under first-year coach Chet Saladin. Warsaw ended up with the second seed on a re-vote after they and Sedalia Sacred Heart wound up in a tie on the first ballot.

Lincoln, who currently has the league's leading scorer in Eddie Pickens in their starting lineup, will be after their second win of the season. The Cardinals downed Leeton, 63-61 in the season's opener Tuesday. In that contest, Pickens poured in 35 points. He was the conference's leading scorer last season as a junior.

Two first-round contests are slated for Tuesday night, one of which will see the high-powered offense of Sacred Heart take the floor against the winner of the Northwest-Green Ridge game at 8:30 p.m.

Sacred Heart, who relies basically on their press and fastbreak, won by one of the widest margins of victory ever in the history of area basketball, when they blasted Climax Springs in the season's opener Friday night, 143-40.

The opening contest Tuesday night at 7 p.m. pits third-seeded Stover against LaMonte, who is seeded sixth.

Although Sacred Heart and Warsaw were near runaway choices for the top two spots in the seedings, it is generally felt that any one of possibly five teams could nail down the championship, which will be decided Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

In addition to co-favorites Sacred Heart and Warsaw — Stover, Smithton and Cole Camp could come through with some key upsets along the way. Even sixth-seeded LaMonte, who routed Green Ridge in the season's opener, 71-40, could get into the finals, however, they would have to get past third-seeded Stover in the opener in order to advance to the semifinals.

Michigan State won four Big Ten titles in 1971-72, twice as many as any other school in the conference. The Spartans scored in cross country, wrestling and in indoor and outdoor track.

Kaysinger Conference Report

Wildcats Look Tough Inside

By WARREN RIPLEY
Staff Sportswriter

WARSAW — The defending Kaysinger Conference tournament champions, the Warsaw Wildcats, go into this year's conference tourney with three starters who helped take the tournament crown in 1971.

All-conference forward Eddie Barnes returns with his beefy 18.0 scoring average. Barnes is one of the best shooters in the conference, as well as one of its better rebounders. At 6-1, Barnes is only average height, but possesses great strength and aggressiveness. He is a senior this year and rates among the top forwards in the conference along with Bill Freund (Sacred Heart) and Eddie Pickens (Lincoln). Barnes averaged 10.3 rebounds a game last season.

At post, the Wildcats have probably the number one center in the conference in 6-6 Doug Stevens. He is the tallest starter in the league, a fact that will probably cause opponents many problems. Stevens was the leading rebounder for the 'Cats last year, despite missing six or seven games due to an injury. Stevens pulled down 344 rebounds for an average 15.6. He was also the team's second-leading scorer behind Barnes with a 16.6 mark. Having their top two scorers back should make the Wildcats a strong bet for the conference title. Stevens is a very good shooter for a big man and will be extremely tough to stop.

The third starter who returns from last years 17-11 club is 5-8 senior guard Larry Barb who averaged 9.5 per contest. Barb is the best shooter in Warsaw's depth of guards.

Darrell Kinkead, who saw action as a starter last year on occasion, will also be one of the players with a chance to start for new Coach Chet Saladin. Kinkead, a 6-3 junior, is a fine rebounder and has an excellent basketball mind. With Barnes and Stevens, Kinkead gives the 'Cats one of the strongest front-lines in the loop.

Steve Boeger, a 6-2 senior forward will also see plenty of action and gives the Wildcats extra board strength and firepower when in the game.

The front line will be the squad's biggest asset but the backcourt threesome of Barb, Scott Steffens, and Tim Hedrick will also be strong. Saladin describes 6-0 junior guard Scott Steffens as "sneaky fast" and very quick. Hedrick was dubbed the best defensive guard of the three by Saladin and Barb the best shooter of the trio. According to Saladin, "if you combined the talents of the threesome, you would have an all-state player."

Coach Saladin had spent the last two years as an assistant coach under former head Central Missouri State University coach Norm Short. Saladin graduated from Southwest Baptist College where he played guard for the Bearcats, during Bolivar's power years. Following graduation, Saladin served one year as junior high coach at St. James, Mo., his hometown.

Saladin had these things to say about the conference and his team. "This is probably one of the toughest conferences around. Last year Sacred Heart, LaMonte and Stover all won 20 games and I think that if this team hadn't lost Stevens last year they would have won 20 also. I think that this year Stevens should control the middle and coupled with Barnes, we should control the boards most of the time. And the team that controls the boards ought to have the upper hand."

"These kids have been working hard. Because of the new system, I feel that we will get better as they become adapted to my style of ball. You can tell that these kids have played a sagging man-to-man before. This year I want to use a pressure man-to-man and force the other teams to start their offense out further than they want to. We don't plan to press all the time but will have one ready when we need it."

Warsaw opens its season Monday at 9 p.m. against the Lincoln Cardinals in the opening round of the conference tournament at Lincoln. The Wildcats are seeded second behind Sacred Heart.

Otterville Evens Season Cage Mark

OTTERVILLE — The Otterville Eagles leveled their 1972-73 season's basketball record on their home court Friday night with a 49-35 win over Bunceton.

Center Randy Schilb poured in 25 points for the Eagles, while Eddie Thomas added 10 for Otterville, who went to 1-1 on the season with the win.

Don McCoy and Paul Scott shared the team scoring honors for the Dragons with eight apiece.

Bunceton won the junior varsity basketball and the girls basketball contests by scores of 37-33 and 57-24 in that order.

Scoring

Otterville (49) — Schilb 25, Thomas 10, J. Meyer 5, Diefendorf 5, F. Meyer 2, Stone 2.

Bunceton (35) — McCoy 8, Scott 8, Wright 5, Hurt 4, Wieland 4, Heim 2, Kahoe 2.

Lincoln Tigers Defeat Mules, 14-7

Lincoln's James Cooper scored with 2:45 left in the period on a 21-yard pass from James Lang. Tyrone Allen kicked the point.

In the third quarter, with 3:45 remaining, Everette Mitchell scored on a three-yard run. Allen's kick was good.

Lincoln is 5-1 for the season and 2-1 in the MIAA. Central is 2-6-1 and 1-2-1.

Ottawa Over Tarkio

OTTAWA, Kan. (AP) — Dick Diminuco passed for 351 yards and three touchdowns Saturday to lead Ottawa to a 19-13 Heart of America Conference football victory over Tarkio.

Diminuco hit on 25 of 45 aerials. His TD throws were to Ted Sandberg for 12 and 20 yards and Larry Morris for 41 yards.

MU Frosh Get Past Wildcats

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Mike Hopkins, who rushed for 205 yards, scored the winning touchdown Friday as Missouri's freshman football team beat the Kansas State freshmen 18-14.

Missouri took a 12-0 lead in the first quarter on a 10-yard run by Packy Watson and Steve Pisarkiewicz's 36-yard touchdown pass to Tom Hedrick.

K-State's David Livingston passed 23 yards to Mike Collier for a touchdown in the second period, and the young Wildcats went ahead 14-12 in the third when they recovered a fumble on Missouri's 13 and punched across in six plays, with Livingston making the last yard. Bill Sinovic kicked both conversions.

Missouri took the next kickoff and marched 78 yards in six plays, with Hopkins scoring on a six-yard run for the winning margin. There were 12 minutes left.

A fumbled punt gave K-State the ball on Missouri's 15 with nine minutes to go, but the young Wildcats could only move the ball one yard in four plays.

Missouri has a 2-1 record. K-State finished its sesson 2-2.

Mizzou Adds K-State To List Of Victims

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Sixteenth-ranked Missouri utilized John Moseley's interception and Don Johnson's brilliant running to muzzle Kansas State's upset ambitions as the Tigers beat the Wildcats 31-14 in a Big Eight Conference football game Saturday.

The victory was Missouri's third in succession and came on the heels of its stunning upset triumphs over Notre Dame and Colorado.

Each time Kansas State, behind 10-0 at the half, threatened to catch up, the Tigers snapped back quickly to widen the gap again.

With Missouri leading by only 10-6, Moseley intercepted a Dennis Morrison pass and ripped 39 yards to the Kansas State one. Three plays later quarterback John Cherry sneaked into the end zone.

Again when the Wildcats whittled the difference to 17-14, the Tigers rolled 78 yards, mostly on Johnson's bursts through the line, and Johnson stumbled the final 12 yards for the score.

Both Kansas State touchdowns came on Morrison's passes to Henry Childs on plays of 53 and 28 yards. Morrison also flipped to John Goerger for a two-point conversion.

Missouri gots its first-half points on Greg Hill's 32-yard field goal and a 78-yard drive capped by Tommy Reamon's one-yard touchdown run. Ray Bybee ran three yards for another Missouri touchdown late in the game, and Hill kicked all four conversions.

Missouri is now 5-3 and 2-2 in the conference. Kansas State is 3-6 and 1-4.

Reamon's fumble at the Missouri 23 late in the third quarter set up the touchdown that let Kansas State get close for the last time. It was recovered by Clayton Ferguson.

After Don Calhoun lost five yards, Morrison lofted a pass to Childs in the end zone.

However, the Tigers, bidding to become the real Cinderella team of the Big Eight, weren't to be denied.

With 6 minutes 42 seconds left, Missouri got the touchdown that put the team out of Kansas State's reach. The Bengals moved 78 yards on 15 plays with Johnson getting in some key jabs.

Cherry passed first to Jim Sharp for a first down on the 45 and then to Jack Bastable on the Wildcats' 44. Johnson tore through the line three straight times, getting five, seven and four yards to reach the 28.

Cherry on the keeper slipped to the 12.

Johnson's 12-yard touchdown run was a stumbling, spinning burst through the middle.

On that drive, the Tigers made good on three third down plays all in Missouri territory. On one of them, Missouri needed 13 yards and made it on Cherry's pass to Bastable.

Johnson also had a big hand in the day's last touchdown. Joe Brandt's punt for Kabsas State was shanked and downed on the Wildcat 44, covering only 23 yards.

Johnson, on the first play, shot up the middle to 18 and added three more to the 15. Bybee carried four straight times for 6, 3 and 4 and then the final yard for six points.

Johnson led all rushers with 100 yards on 25 carries. Reamon added another 70 on 23 rushes. Don Calhoun was the Wildcats' best, collecting 64 on 16.

It was an interception on an earlier Morrison pass that sent the Tigers on their way to Hill's field goal with the game less than five minutes old. Lynn Evans stole this one and returned it 13 yards to the Kansas State 23. On fourth and two, Hill drilled the three-pointer through, and the game was never even again.

The Tigers needed only seven plays to score their first touchdown. Cherry passed to Bastable for 37 yards, putting the ball on the K-State 41. Jimmy Smith swept through a big hole all the way to the 15. Smith added three more, Cherry six, and Johnson twisted through for a first down at the two.

After two stabs by Johnson picked up only a yard, Reamon dived into the end zone.

Kansas State, trying to bounce back, rolled from its 20 to the Missouri 28 before Mirrison's pass was intercepted by Mosely and returned 37 yards to the Missouri 43. The big plays of that drive were Morrison's passes for 27 yards to Kevan Jones and a 19-yarder to John Goerger.

Missouri came awfully close to opening up a wider gap at intermission but John O'Neill recovered Cherry's fumble on the Wildcat eight for a five-yard loss.

Onofrio Names Key Play

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — A "high percentage" pass good for 14 yards in a third and 13 situation was a key play in Missouri's 31-14 victory over Kansas State, said the winning coach Saturday.

The fourth quarter play, from quarterback John Cherry to split end Jack Bastable when Missouri led only 17-14, kept alive a drive for the touchdown that iced the game.

After the pass carried to the Kansas State 44, fullback Don Johnson took over, carrying on four of the next five plays. His carries were good for a total of 28 yards and he scored the touchdown from the 12.

"They were taking the ride-play away from (Tommy) Reamon. That's one of the reasons allowing our inside play to work."

The victory, coming after upset Missouri wins over Notre Dame and Colorado, made it the first time since 1969 that the Tigers have three in a row.

"We didn't even have three in a row in 1970," Onofrio pointed out.

The Tiger mentor took over in 1971 and had 1-10 season in his first year. His 1972 team now stands 5-3.

On the Kansas 'state side, Coach Vince Gibson also pointed to the Cherry-Bastable pass as the big play in the key drive of the ball game.

"I thought we were going to win it when we made it 17-14," said Gibson, who had predicted a K-State victory earlier this week. Gibson said he was "real proud of our kids."

"Effort—couldn't ask for more; it was a super effort," he said. "We've been trying hard, but we're sputtering. It's been one of those years. This was a close ball game—there wasn't any 31-14 difference. But last year it was different. We won some of those close games."

Onofrio said Missouri wasn't quite as sharp offensively as it had been in the last two games, although the team played hard.

He said in part this was due to the tough K-State defense.

Gibson said Missouri has much improved offensively over a year ago.

"They always have been tough on defense," he said. "That Cherry is a winner."

Michigan Capitalizes On Hoosier Goofs

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Fourth-ranked Michigan took advantage of three Indiana errors for a 21-7 Big Ten football victory over the Hoosiers here Saturday.

The Wolverines raised their conference record to 5-0 and their overall mark to 8-0 with a touchdown in the second period and two more in the fourth, all after Indiana turnovers.

Indiana, now 2-3 in the Big Ten and 4-4 overall, lost four fumbles in the first half and two in the final two periods.

Michigan jumped to a 7-0 lead after Indiana sophomore quarterback Rod Harris fumbled at his own 13-yard line and Michigan's Fred Grambau recovered. Franklin ran the ball over on an option two plays later.

The second Wolverine score came with 9:35 left in the game and broke a 7-7 tie as sophomore Dave Brown recovered a fumble by another Indiana sophomore quarterback, Bud Hornbeck. This time Michigan moved the ball for a score from the Indiana 23 in three plays.

Michigan lost the ball to the Hoosiers three times. Franklin's fumble at the Michigan 14 handed Indiana its best scoring opportunity of the game. Sophomore fullback Dennis Cremeens carried for three yards then broke through to score from the 11 with 11:53 left in the game.

Michigan scored its final touchdown after gaining the ball at the Indiana 31 on a bad center snap on a Hoosier punt attempt. Sticking to the ground, the Wolves scored in seven plays with the aid of an Indiana penalty.

Buckeyes Remain Unbeaten

COLUMBUS (AP) — Fifth-ranked Ohio State, trailing Minnesota 13-7 in the opening quarter, bounced back behind the running of fullback Harold Henson Saturday and whipped the Gophers 27-19 to keep its Big Ten football record unblemished.

The Buckeyes ran afoul of Minnesota's quarterback option attack before settling down and pounding out their seventh season triumph and fifth conference victory to remain undefeated.

Henson, a big sophomore who rushed for 131 yards, rammed one and 16 yards for his 14th and 15th touchdowns of the season. The second score tied the game 13-13 before Blair Conway's place kick put Ohio State ahead to stay.

Freshman tailback Archie Griffin darted 11 yards and quarterback Greg Hare passed 23 yards to tight end Ted Powell as the Buckeyes dealt the Gophers their seventh loss in eight games.

Minnesota, a four-touchdown underdog, jumped ahead late in the opening quarter on freshman Doug Beaudoin's seven-yard run and a one-yard plunge by fullback John King.

Jayhawks Upset Cowboys

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)— Bob Helmbacher tied a school record with a 21-yard field goal with 4:40 left Saturday to lift Kansas to a 13-10 upset of Oklahoma State as the Jayhawks' Big Eight losing streak ended at three games

The game was punctuated by a heated debate between KU coach Dan Fambrough and officials in the first quarter. Fambrough thought Delvin Williams had scored from the one as the line judge signaled a touchdown. However, the officials ruled the ball had squirted out at the line of scrimmage and OSU was awarded a touchback as Carl DeVorce covered it in the end zone.

Kansas, normally a predominantly passing team, came out running in the first half and went into the dressing room with a 3-3 tie on a 36-yard field goal by Helmbacher.

The Jayhawks went back to their aerial attack in the second half, with quarterback David Jaynes hitting Bruce Adams on a touchdown pass covering 37 yards, with Helmbacher's kick giving KU a 10-10 tie at the end of the third quarter.

Oklahoma State scored in the first quarter on a 22-yard field goal by Eddie Garrett and went ahead for a time in the third stanza on Fountain Smith's nine-yard touchdown dash and Garrett's kick.

Eddie Sheats' block of a 39-yard field goal attempt by Garrett early in the final quarter prevented OSU from going ahead. Garrett missed a 47-yarder in the first half.

Helmbacher's deciding boot was the 16th of his career, tying a school record. He also hit on his 23rd straight conversion over two seasons, setting a new school standard.

The win was Kansas' first in the Big Eight against three losses and gave the Jayhawks a 3-5 mark over-all. The loss was a serious blow to OSU's bid for its first winning season since 1958. OSU is now 4-4 and for the season and 2-2 in the Big Eight.

Trojans Trounce Cougars

SEATTLE (AP) — Southern California tailback Anthony Davis scored three touchdowns and rushed for 195 yards Saturday as the Trojans overcame a listless first quarter to trounce the Washington State Cougars 44-3 in the Pacific-8 conference.

The Trojans broke away from a 3-3 first period deadlock to score 14 points in the second quarter and added 20 more against the tiring Cougars in the final quarter.

Davis' ably set up by quarterback Mike Rae, scored on runs of 3, 6 and 14 yards.

The first quarter was pretty much a standoff, although USC started explosively when Davis returned the opening kickoff 69 yards. That drive ended with a 23-yard field goal by Rae.

The Trojans began to put things together when WSU had to turn the ball over when a center snap fumble ruined a fourth down and two play.

Rae, mixing a pair of 13-yard runs by Davis and a nine-yard pass to Charles Young, climaxed a 71-yard drive by running 11 yards around left end for the first touchdown.

The 17-yard Rae to Lynn Swann pass and another 17 yards by Rae himself sparked the drive that led to the next touchdown.

Elliott Sparks Northeast Victory

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Lenvil Elliott scored three times in the first 21 minutes to spark Northeast Missouri to a 20-7 victory in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association football race Saturday.

Elliott, who had 176 yards in 21 rushes, scored on a 51-yard pass play and on runs of 48 and 41 yards.

Fred Fabrouss scored on a four-yard plunge for Southwest Missouri in the third period.

Northeast is 2-1-1 in the conference and 6-2-1 over-all. Southwest is 2-2 in the MIAA and 4-4 on the season.

Hill Boosts Lead

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Methodical Mike Hill birdied the last hole for a 69 and stretched his lead to three strokes Saturday in the $125,000 Texas Open Golf Tournament.

Hill, who enjoyed a one-stroke margin when play started on the warm, sunny day, pulled away from former Masters champion Charles Coody with his 54-hole total of 204.

That put the younger brother of controversial Dave Hill 12 under par for three rounds over the 7,011-yard Woodlake Golf Club course as he sought his second career victory and first in two seasons.

Coody was alone in second with a 207. He had a third-round 69 despite hitting one out of bounds.

Lee Trevino, the current British Open champion and the man picked by most to pull down the $25,000 first prize in this one, moved into contention with a 68—the day's best round—for 208.

He was tied with Dale Douglass, 41-year-old veteran Dan Sikes and rookie Forrest Fezler. Douglass had a 69, Sikes a 70 and Fezler 71.

Orville Moody, trying to play his way out of a slump that has plagued him since his surprise victory in the U.S. Open in 1969, and Roy Pace were at 209 with Billy Casper one of more than a half dozen locked at 210.

Jack Nicklaus is not competing in this tournament, which is returning to the pro tour after a two-year absence.

The 33-year-old Hill had two bogeys—one on a three-putt—and was less than enthusiastic about his play.

"I didn't drive good and I didn't hit it close to the hole," he said in his usual low, soft drawl. "That 69 is about the best I could have gotten out of the round. It could have been 73 or 74 real easy.

"I was lucky. It happens that way sometimes. When you get it going, it just goes. I just hope it holds on for one more day."

Peru State Tops Culver-Stockton

CANTON, MO. (AP)–Tom Froehlich threw two touchdown passes and scored a T-D himself Saturday to lead Peru State of Nebraska to a 31-19 victory over Culver-Stockton College.

Froehlich's passes were to Bill Hosack in the first quarter and to Arlo Wusk in the third. Froehlich also plunged over from the one yard line in the third quarter.

Other Peru scoring was in the first quarter on a 26-yard field goal by Avery Wallace and a 64-yard punt return by Henry McCullough.

Raschke Returns To Local Action

Black Angus goes against the masked Destroyer in a display of roughing power while a scientific style match pitsOmar Atlas against Les Thornton.

Narrows It Down

Colorado's Mark Sens (99) cuts down a bit on the choices Nebraska's David Humm (12) has concerning where to pass the football in the second quarter Saturday at Boulder, Colo. Perhaps Marv Crenshaw (70) let the big man get by.

Blalock, Burfeinet Tied for Golf Lead

APOPKA, Fla. (AP) — Controversial Jane Blalock birdied four of the final six holes Saturday to gain a tie with Betty Burfeinet for the second-day lead in the Lady Errol Golf classic here.

Miss Blalock, involved with the Ladies Professional Golfers Association in litigation which could result in her suspension from the tour, posted a two-under-par 70 for a 36-hole total of 141.

Playing two groups behind, Miss Burfeinet sank a pressure putt of 25 feet for a birdie on the 17th hole and parred the 18th to equal the mark at 70-71 over the 6,235-yard Errol Estate Inn and County Club course.

Only a stroke behind were all-time money winner Kathy Whitworth, who duplicated Friday's 71; Pam Barnett, who closed with a 70 despite a bogie on the 350-yard 18th; and Renee Powell, who added a 72 to her opening round of 70.

Miss Blalock had slipped to two-over-par for the day after bogeying three times in a four-hole stretch.

Trailing first-day leader Kathy Ahern by two shots when the second round began, the New Hampshire resident birdied the 13th and 14th holes on putts of seven and six feet, then stormed home with back-to-back birdies on No. 17 and 18.

BULLETIN

BOSTON (AP) — Nate Archibald, the National Basketball Association's leading scorer, hit for 35 points and Ron Riley connected for 24 in leading the Kansas City-Omaha Kings to a 118-107 victory over Boston Saturday night, snapping the previously unbeaten Celtics' winning streak at 10 games.

Boston pulled into a 91-91 tie with eight minutes left, but Archibald moved his mates in front to stay with a set shot, and added a free throw for a three-point play.

OSU Wins Big Eight X-Country

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Oklahoma State, paced by the one-two punch of John Halberstadt and Peter Kaal, lived up to its favorite's role Saturday and won the 40th running of the Big Eight Conference cross-country championships.

The Cowboys, with 37 points, were followed by Colorado, 76; Missouri, 83; Kansas, 99; Kansas State, 102; Nebraska, 116; Oklahoma, 181; and Iowa State, 202.

The meet, at the University of Missouri golf course, was run over a five-mile distance for the first time. It was four miles the three previous years.

Halberstadt, who holds the National Collegiate Athletic Association record for 10,000 meters, had best individual time at 24 minutes 22 5 seconds. Kaal, U.S. Track and Field Federation mile champion, was second with 24:28.

Missouri's Charlie McMullen was third best at 24:40, followed by John Gregorio of Colorado, 24:44, and Brian Walsh, Missouri, 25:01.

It was Oklahoma State's first victory in the meet since 1960.

Top individual finishers for each team: Oklahoma State, Halberstadt; Colorado, Gregorio; Missouri, McMullen; Kansas, John Callen, 13th; Kansas State, Don Akin, 6th; Nebraska, Bob Unger, 11th; Oklahoma, Don Franklin, 19th; Iowa State, Niels Jensen, 23rd.

Northwest State Topples Southeast

MARYVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Jim Alban scored on runs of one and 14 yards in the fourth quarter Saturday to pace Northwest Missouri State to a 22-13 come-from-behind victory over Southeast Missouri State in a Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association football battle.

Alban's two touchdowns and a team safety added up to a 16-point final quarter for the winners, who had trailed 13-6 at halftime.

Northwest is now 4-1 in MIAA play and 6-3 overall; Southeast is 2-2 and 3-4-1.

Pick Jets To Upset Washington Crew, 27-24

NEW YORK (AP) — "Seems kinda funny," said Weeb Ewbank, coach of the New York Jets, "that we're the ones with the healthy quarterback."

New York, a three-point "line" underdog, is a 27-24 upset choice against those high rollers from Washington now that Sonny Jurgensen is gone with a ruptured Achilles tendon.

Joe Namath, as healthy as he is wealthy these days, must have a careful Sunday against Washington's defensive elders or interceptions could ruin his afternoon at Shea Stadium.

Ewbank can sympathize with Redskin Coach George Allen in the loss of Jurgensen. Old Weeb can't recall how many times Namath has been carted lame from the field.

The Jet-Redskin matchup is vital to two National Football League divisions. Washington, 6-1, needs its to stay a jump ahead of Dallas, 5-2. The Jets, 5-2, can't afford to fall farther behind unbeaten Miami, 7-0.

Every NFL offering isn't so handsomely cast. Somewhat of a clunker between the Patriots, 2-5, and Baltimore, 1-6, will keep some of the nation semi-awake Monday night.

Thus far, the Friday afternoon predictions have been 28-of-38 for a 73.6 percentage. Here's a complete look at what might happen in the eighth week of the NFL season:

Jets 27, Redskins 24: Washington barely escaped in New York last week against the crosstown Giants. This time, Namath won't let them get away with the help of the productive legs of Emerson Boozer and John Riggins.

Raiders 30, Chiefs 24: An American Conference West dandy. Taking a chance that Kansas City's jinx at Arrowhead Stadium will continue as long as the Chiefs are playing inconsistent football.

Steelers 20, Bengals 14: Wide receiver Charley Joiner has pumped up Cincinnati passing game, but this will be a battle of fine defenses.

Falcons 17, Rams 10: Another upset shot. Los Angeles is a three-point choice with the oddsmakers. It's a toughie since these NFC West frontrunners were both bombed last week, the Rams getting it 45-17 from Oakland and the Falcons being smashed 49-14 by San Francisco. LA is cuddling a ½-game division lead with the 49ers now a game behind.

Lions 17, Bears 7: Detroit's defense was puny against Dallas, but should rebound to contain the Bears' good-run, poor-pass attack. It's a "new era" matchup between the NFL's quarterback rushing kings, Bobby Douglass of the Bears and Greg Landry of Detroit.

49ers 14, Packers 13: Somehow, the Packers just don't seem to fit in a wild-scoring game. Steve Spurrier waited six years to have a three-touchdown day like the one last Sunday in Atlanta. He should win again as John Brodie's fill-in, but not by so much this time.

Dolphins 24, Bills 17: Miami isn't unbeatable. At least that's what we keep telling ourselves. But, even with O.J. Simpson at his pro peak and Bob Griese grounded with an injury, it stacks up as a ride to 8-0 for Coach Don Shula.

Cowboys 21, Chargers 10: Cowboys seemed to put it together in Monday night's dandy. They're after Washington in the NFC East and San Diego—like most teams trying to get in the way—will be run over whether it's Craig Morton or Roger Staubach at the wheel.

Giants 28, Broncos 17: New York came within a couple of officials' whistles of beating Washington last week. An improving young defense and the continuing passing wizardry of Norm Snead should outdo Denver's Floyd Little-Charley Johnson offense.

Vikings 27, Saints 14: Alan Page and the Purple Gang are back and will chase New Orleans quarterback around Metropolitan Stadium. The guess is they'll catch him more than the Saints harness Fran Tarkenton.

Browns 17, Oilers 10: Mike Phipps showed the finest passing of his career in the victory over Denver and Cleveland—like most anybody—has too much for the struggling Houston bunch.

Cardinals 24, Eagles 20: This one's a real beauty. St. Louis has become one of the NFL's weak brothers during October and Philadelphia couldn't stand prosperity, following its upset of Kansas City by losing to New Orleans.

Colts 28, Patriots 14: ABC Television was dealt its share of duds for the Monday nighters this season and this one, with the demise of the Colts, ranks in there with the worst. The Lucy Show should have a great Monday night ranking and few guys will be late for work Tuesday morning after such a good night for sleeping.

Huskers Trip Buffs

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Nebraska scored the first three times it had the ball and Johnny Rodgers added a pair of second-half touchdowns as the third-ranked Cornhuskers whipped Colorado 33-10 Saturday in a Big Eight football game.

The Cornhuskers, in boosting their conference record to 4-0 and their over-all mark to 7-1, appeared on the verge of making the game a runaway after taking a 19-0 lead in the first quarter. Colorado, meanwhile, was unable to get its offense untracked and gained only nine net yards during the Huskers' scoring flurry.

The Buffaloes did manage to battle back though, making the best of a situation after Nebraska partially blocked a Buff punt. Colorado senior guard Chuck Mandril recovered for a 19-yard gain to the CU 41-yard line.

Nine plays later, fullback Bo Matthews roared up the middle, breaking several tackles for an 18-yard scoring jaunt with 13:35 left in the second quarter.

An interception by Cullen Bryant later in the period set up a Fred Lima field goal from 44 yards out and the Buffs had sliced the margin to 19-10.

That was as close as they got, however, as Rodgers took charge in the second half and Nebraska kept Colorado off the scoreboard thereafter.

Colorado gambled and failed on a fourth down and inches play and the Huskers had the ball right back at CU's 44-yard line. They needed only four plays to take it in, with Rodgers hauling in a 10-yard pass from sophomore quarterback Dave Humm for the TD.

The Huskers' first three scores all came on one-yard plunges—by Humm, Gary Dixon and Bill Olds.

Tigers Manage Tenth

(Democrat-Capital Service)

COLUMBIA — In a much closer race than in past years, Smith-Cotton could manage only 10th place here Saturday in the state cross country meet on the A. L. Gustin course.

St. Louis Lindbergh took the victory in team standings although it placed only one runner, Steve Davison, in the top 10 finishers. Second place went to House Springs Northwest, only eight points behind and Lee's Summit was 12 points further back for third.

The Bengals' top finisher, Steve Fisher, came up with an adjusted 25th place finish. Individual placement adjustments were used in figuring team totals by discounting runners not on teams.

Fisher's 10:38 was followed closely by Jim Lovercamp who had a 10:48 for 32nd.

The other S-C runners figuring in the Tiger total were Robert Mayes, David Moore and Jeff Barnes. Mayes had a 10:54 for 44th, Moore an 11:07 for 60th and Barnes picked up 71st on an 11:23. Also running for Smith-Cotton but not figured in the team's score were C. E. Baldwin and Bob Buehn who had times of 11:26 and 11:36, respectively.

Much to the Tigers' chagrin, the Jefferson City squad finished with one less point to take the number nine placement. Coach Joe Simones noted that the unadjusted scores found S-C out front but the final tabulations provided the Jays with the last win of the season between the two squads.

Jefferson City earlier this season wrested the Central Missouri Conference cross country crown from Smith-Cotton, but the Tigers bested the Jays last week in regional competition.

Knob Noster finished 12th in the team totals and was by far the smallest school in the competition.

Approximately 100 runners participated in the 12-school affair. The number above the 84 athletes participating for teams is accounted for since the top 10 individuals in each region can participate even if their schools do not qualify.

Top 10 Individuals (Unadjusted)

1. Prasuhn, House Springs Northwest; 2. Welch, Hannibal; 3. Hawthorne, Lee's Summit; 4. Adams, Raytown South; 5. Reese, Fort Osage (Independence); 6. Davis, St. Louis Hazelwood; 7. Lammert, Hillsboro; 8. Davison, St. Louis Lindbergh; 9. Dennison, Lee's Summit; 10. Myrick, Northwest.

Team Finishes

1. St. Louis Lindbergh 79; 2. House Springs Northwest 87; 3. Lee's Summit 99; 4. St. Louis Hazelwood 104; 5. St. Louis Riverview Gardens 118; 6. Raytown South and St. Louis Parkway North 152 (tie); 8. St. Louis Normandy 196; 9. Jefferson City 231; 10. Smith-Cotton 232; 11. Oak Park Kansas City 247; 12. Knob Noster 357.

Olympics Vote Scheduled

DENVER (AP) — The major concern for many Colorado residents voting in Tuesday's election is not whether George McGovern or Richard Nixon is inaugurated as president of the United States in January, 1973 but whether the Winter Olympics are held in the Colorado Rockies in February 1976.

"I'm fairly optimistic that we may win with even a substantially large margin," says Henry Kimbrough, executive director of Coloradans for the 1976 Olympics. Kimbrough was speaking about proposed Amendment 8 on the Colorado election ballot—the proposition that would cut off further state funds for the Olympics and would probably curtail federal support as well.

Kimbrough and his group, composed mostly of businessmen, are running the major effort towards keeping the games in the state. Kimbrough said the group has a budget of around $150,000.

Citizens for Colorado's Future (CCF), the organization that has become the focal point for opposition to the Olympics, has an advertising budget of less than $2,000, according to Meg Lundstrom, 24, a CCF director.

"Although we've not been able to afford a slick media campaign," said Miss Lundstrom, "we feel that the work of our many door-to-door volunteers throughout the state will be able to overcome the media blitz of Coloradans for the '76 Olympics."

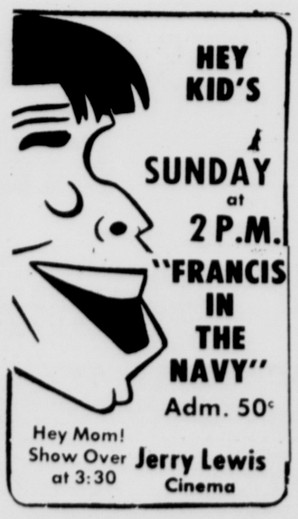
The referendum on state funding for the games is without precedent in the history of the modern Olympics. Since 1896 when the Games were revived in Athens, no city or state has voted whether to stage the Olympics once they were awarded.

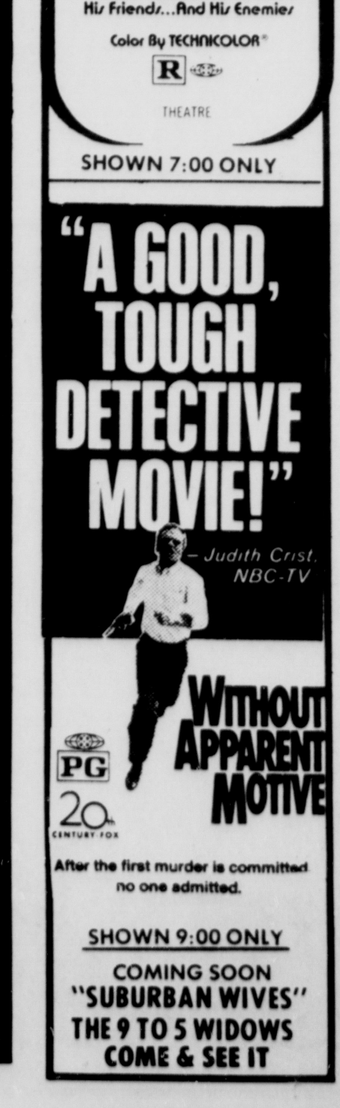
Kimbrough and other supporters of the Games say they are surprised at what they feel is a sudden reaction against the Olympics, yet opposition had begun to appear some time before the International Olympic Committee (IOC) awarded the 1976 Winter Games to Colorado in 1970.

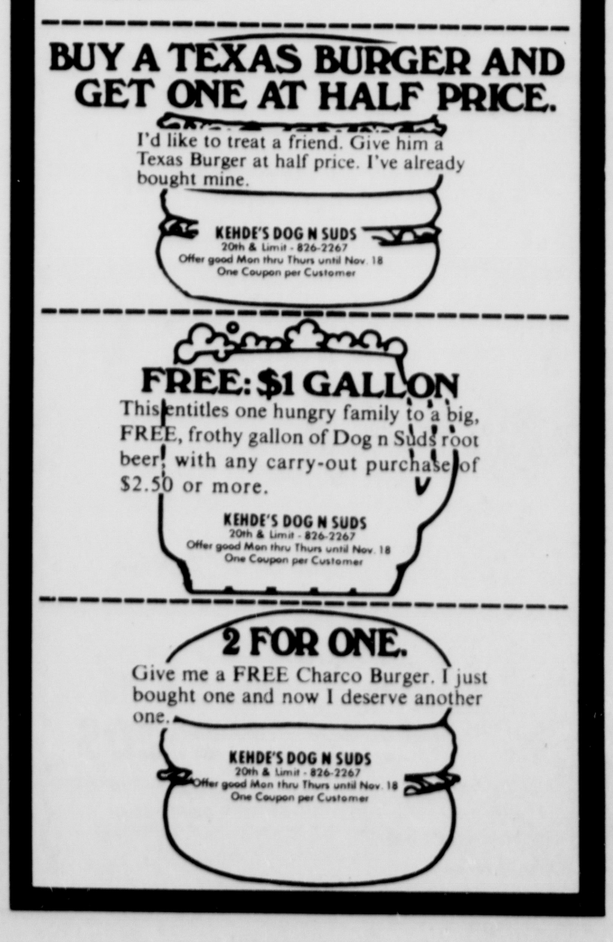
The Rocky Mountain Sierra Club had opposed the Games for environmental reasons since 1967.

By the autumn of 1971, other groups around the state had begun to question the Denver Organizing Committee's (DOC) planning and expense figures as well as the apparently haphazard organization of the committee itself.

CCF was formed in early 1972 by a group of eight or 10 young people, mostly in their 20's, who had gotten together and decided the Olympics would not be beneficial to the average Colorado resident, Miss Lundstrom said.







Campaign '72 Turning Off Voters in Pottsville, Pa.

(Editor's Note: Presidential campaign news is usually made in places such as Washington, New York or Chicago. But the campaign results are determined in places such as Pottsville, Pa. This is the final study of a series on Pottsville voters which have appeared throughout the campaign.)

By TOM TIEDE

POTTSVILLE, Pa. — (NEA) — The longest presidential election campaign in memory is ending in this community without, for all the shouting, ever really beginning.

Two years after George McGovern formally starting chasing Richard Nixon around the newspapers, the mud has been slung, the issues exhausted, the millions spent and it's more than clear now, a few days before the polling, as the bumper stickers are commencing to curl at the edges: The people of Pottsville have been curiously unmoved.

Mrs. Joe Miller, as example. Housewife. Middle-aged. Fresh permanent in her hair. One hand buried in the pocket of a gray cotton coat. She's out shopping. The election? What election? Oh that election. "I don't know what it is about it, but uh, I just don't know. I'll tell you, honestly, I don't have any interest in it at all."

Ditto for the masses here. More or less. The nation is in trouble, the war goes on — taxes, inflation, unemployment. But few here seem to think things will be much different after Nov. 7. None of the candidates have attracted the voters' imagination, says the citizens. "One guy tries to be Jesus, the other wants to be king." The issues are murky, the campaign shrill, the rhetoric less than inspiring.

And so the local sentiment has been subdued: Business As Usual.

Halloween pumpkins linger on in the halls of the elementary schools. There is a sale on potatoes at the A & P. Two well-fed policement stand in the middle of Center Street to see that no out-of-towners cross against the green light. The town's single movie theatre is playing "101 Dalmatians." Arrow Shirts, "latest style" are featured in the display window at Bohorad's clothing store. A man with black lung disease, 2nd degree, is coughing on the steps of the Park Hotel. The meter maid is blowing her nose behind a pickup truck, the gals at the Schuylkill County Senior Citizens Activity Center are making paper baskets out of used egg cartons, and everybody except the kids is appalled to see Christmas trimmings going up "already for God's sake."

What election?

Oh, THAT election.

Lois Dolbin...

It's not so much apathy, the locals insist, as it is a kind of hardening of the citizens' arteries. "People here," says union official Anna Wallace, "are just sick and tired of politics." Thus 17 per cent of the county's eligible citizens did not register for this election.

Nixon Republicans are wondering what happened to the 6,000 bumper stickers, 10,000 buttons they have handed out ("You rarely see anybody displaying this stuff") and Lynn Gold, chairman of the area's McGovern movement, says with exasperation: "It's amaxing to me how many people just don't give a damn. The only people who are really interested in the election are the people working in the two campaigns. Everybody else is home watching television. And that reminds me, I never have any of my people canvass the voters on Monday night — because if you interrupt a man's TV football game this election you are in real trouble."

Pottsville, Pa., Pop: 19,715. Settled in 1828. Part of Appalachia. Forty miles of streets, 627 feet above sea level, mean annual temperature of 60 degrees. The town is served by 255 retail establishments doing an annual volume of $51 million. There are 37,000 phones in operation, 340 hotel rooms and 24 churches. "It's a nice place," says a resident, "but not very snappy. There's a movie house outside town that when you call them up to ask what time this feature starts they ask you what time you can be there!"

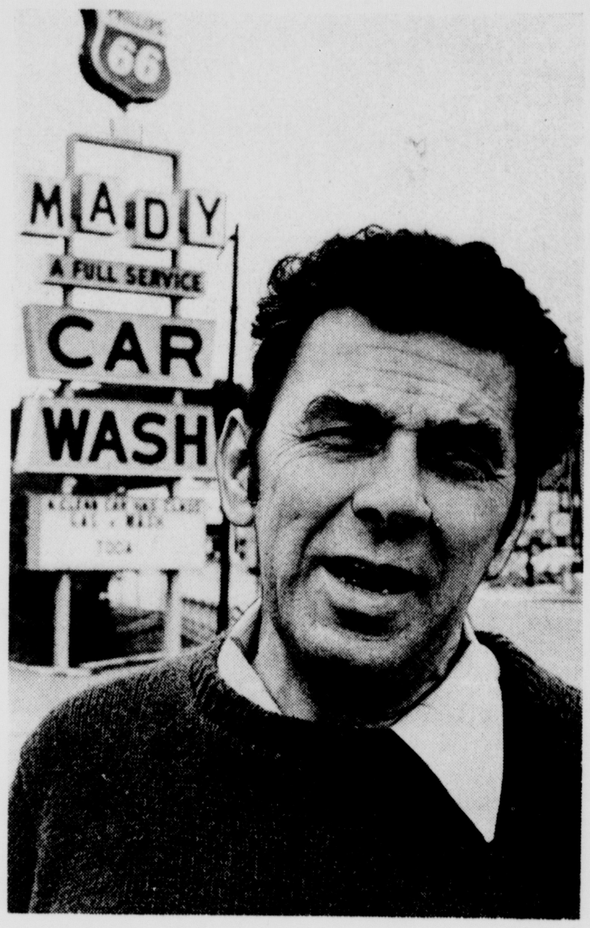
The campaigners themselves, of course, must share much of the blame for Pottsville's electoral stupor. Neither has solicited the kind of confidence small community people are anxious to give. Neither has successfully answered the kind of simple questions small towners are anxious to ask ("Where does George McGovern really stand on abortion?"). Neither, says a high school teacher, "has really excited me or my students; it seems both of them only want to divide the nation into two parts and hope their respective portions are the majority. Now what kind of leadership is that?"

Rather than create intelligent discussion of national goals, then, Nixon-McGovern stand accused of fostering weary emotion in Pottsville, with a bit of political rancor as a spinoff. Ed Mady, who owns a car wash on Route 61, has become convinced that "McGovern is the biggest phony I've ever seen. He's a conniving so-and-so who, if elected, would animate the worst kind of special interest groups." McGovern backer Linda Kriner, a school teacher, answers Mady's charge with some equally harsh condemnations of Nixon: "I just can't stand him. When he gets on television he just, oooooh!, makes my blood boil. I can't bear to think of four more years with that — —."

So. Name calling and-or inertia. And sometimes both. "I hate Nixon and I hate McGovern," says an unemployed resident of the Peacock housing project. "I think they shoot off at the mout' too much. They're crooks. They're nothin' but liars. You can't turn the TV on without one of them lyin' about this or that. I ain't gonna vote for them. My wife ain't gonna vote. Nobody we know is gonna vote either."

But if the national campaign and campaigners have been too much for some Pottsville residents, the local campaign and surrogates have also contributed (albeit in a different way) to the general malaise. The complaint here is that the area Nixon and McGovern headquarters have been over eager and too snoopy. For the first time in the community's presidential election history, both sides have set up rather elaborate and energetic telephone and canvassing campaigns — and many people object.

No wonder, says Bud Angst, a local radio announcer and political veteran: "Telephone canvassing has always been a big city technique, where there's a certain amount of anonymity connected to something like that. Here in the country, however, people are more suspicious when the telephone rings."



Ed Mady...
...a bit of political rancor.

Ergo, a McGovernite caller remembers numerous nasty replies to her calls. A union organization trying to solicit Democratic support for McGovern says "people are getting angry with all this telephoning." And Republican worker Carole Miller tells with embarrassment of the woman named Williams who, because of a mistake on the computerized canvassing sheets, was called seven times. "When I found out, I called her again to assure her that we were terribly sorry. Then the next day she phoned back to say she had just received two more calls."

Thus it is in Pottsville, Pa., after the months of telephone calls, after two years of hard-sell electioneering, after an entire era, it seems, of political poppycock, there is a feeling of genuine relief in the last days of a battle that has never been nice. "Thank God it's all over," says one of the guys at the Eagles, who adds he's going to vote, come Tuesday, get a bottle and get drunk, "not necessarily in that order."

And who will he vote for? Like the probable majority here, Richard Nixon. Local observers, on both sides, feel the President will carry the county (which has 21,000 more Republicans that Democrats) by a wide margin, and carry the town by something less.

It's not a sure bet, of course. Nixon's strength is like a Texas River — a mile wide and an inch deep. Unemployment in Pottsville is six per cent, there are 3,300 people in the county on welfare, and Rev. Archie Moore, of the Pottsville Housing Authority, says there is hardly a spare room for reasonable rent in the region. Also, there is Lois Dolbin, and many people like her, who after years of hoping for a better America have about given up. Mrs. Dolbin, a widow, peace symbol at her neck, says that she has torn her American flag into pieces, and is planning to move out of the country. "I used to be proud of this nation — but Vietnam has changed all that. Nixon and his bombing. I can't take it anymore. I can't keep my house in Pottsville anyway; taxes are too high. If McGovern doesn't win, I may just go away."

For all of the discontent, however, there remains more complacency than rebellion in this town. There is a feeling that while times are not joyous, neither are they disastrous. "This used to be mining country," says a store clerk, "and I remember when the bottom fell out. Guys begged in the streets. Every other family was out of work (in 1958 the unemployment rate was 20 per cent). Compared to then things now are super."

Well, not super, but fair. The housing situation is bad, but only 265 of the city's 7,000 dwellings are classified as overcrowded. The median income, while not huge (about $8,500) has increased 59 per cent in the last decade. The town has its ancient scabs but in the last 10 years $10 million has been spent on urban renewal. Tony Russian, the feisty mayor of nearby Minersville, tells about the days he made $5 riding a mule in the mines, now collects a $10,000 salary from a civil service job, $2,500 more from his city position, and "another hunk" from a working wife. In sum, says a late afternoon patron at the Famous Restaurant, "I complain about my taxes, about inflation — but, still, I've got a home, two cars and my daughter is in college."

Yes. Nixon here. "Go with the guy you know," they say. But. Well. It makes no never mind, actually. George or Dick. Tweedledum or Tweedledumdum. Pottsville will go on, regardless. Or as one resident says: "I remember walking past one of the stores once when they were changing the dress on a manikin. Then the guy seen me looking in the window he stood so I couldn't see the naked model. That's the kind of town we got here. Ain't no president I know gonna change it a hell of a lot."

Several Contests Up For a Decision

On the local level, many interesting races will be decided Tuesday, including a contest for United States representative, state representatives and all county offices.

In the 113th district, Democrat Joe Rains, 700 East 10th, is being challenged for a seat in the House of Representatives by another Sedalian, Peter H. Stohr. Rains, who formerly represented the 115th district, ranks 10th in the House in seniority. Stohr, who is seeking the office for the first time, is a retired member of the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

In the 117th district, incumbent Curtis V. Davidson is being challenged by Guss Salley, Warsaw, for representative of the 117th district. Salley has previously been representing the 116th district, but lost his position due to legislative redistricting.

Democrat William (Bill) Peterson and George W. "Bud" Weber are vying for the right to represent the 46th district in the state legislature. Peterson is currently practicing law in Marshall and Weber operates the Weber & Sons Seed Co., also in Marshall.

U.S. Congressman William Randall is being challenged for his seat in Washington by Raymond E. Barrows, an Appleton City car dealer.

County races this year also display an unusually spirited flavor with incumbent office seekers being challenged in many instances.

Republicans will be attempting to regain the Presiding Judgeship they lost with the death in February of Jim Green. Democrat B. A. "Bunny" Fischer was apointed by Gov. Warren Hearnes to replace Green and is running for a full two-year term. Seeking to oust Fischer is Harry Walch, local flour broker and president of the Sedalia-Pettis County United Fund.

In the eastern district, veteran Democratic inbumbent E. L. "Red" Birdsong is being challenged by youthful Fred Kraft. In the western district, a new judge is assured due to Republican incumbent Zeb Thomas' decision not to seek another term. Hoping to succeed Thomas as a Republican Eastern Judge is John F. Bluhm. His Democratic opponent is Ellis Ulmer.

In the recorder of deeds race, Democrat Mrs. Naomi Brown, who was named to the position following the death in January of Reno Johnson, hopes to retain her position. She is opposed by Thomas Miller, a locomotive foreman for the Missouri-Pacific Railroad.

Democratic incumbent assessor Jerry Trotter is being challenged for his position by William McCune, a local salesman. Unlike many other county races, definite isues have emerged here. McCune has said he would, if elected, save the county $4,000 in deputy salary — the cost of one deputy. Trotter has maintained throughout his campaign that "no one has ever worked harder than I have ... to keep the state from raising Pettis County's assessments."

Dr. John Owens and Dr. James Houchens, the two candidates for county coroner, have emphasized differing themes throughout their campaigns. Owens is citing his qualifications as a pathologist, while Houchens, a chiropractor, is discounting the advantages of medical training in favor of his own experience in law enforcement.

In two uncontested races, Democrats Gary Fleming and Emmett Fairfax are running for prosecuting attorney and sheriff respectively. Fleming, currently assistant prosecuting attorney, will replace Adam Fischer. Fairfax is running for his fourth consecutive term.

Two additional Democratic candidates running unopposed for re-election are Keith G. Ekstrom, surveyor, and Lloyd Farris, public administrator.

In other contests, a five-man race exists to fill two vacancies on the State Fair Community College board of trustees. The candidates are LeRoy N. Klein, John W. Ragland, Otis M. Thomas, Leonard Heisterberg and Dr. Donald C. Proctor. It will be the first at-large election to the board, the result of a federal court order.

In addition to individuals, Pettis County voters will also vote on special issues. Two local propositions which have aroused considerable controversy recently deal with county-wide voter registration and the proposed passage of industrial obligation bonds to finance the location of Alpha Sintered Metals, Inc., in Sedalia.

Two constitutional amendments also confront voters Tuesday. One involves various exemptions from taxation, and a second deals with the time given the general assembly to consider bills returned by the governor.

Defector Has Long Wait Yet

SAIGON (AP) — Lt. Pham Huu Do defected from the North Vietnamese army seven months ago, never dreaming that the Communists might gain acceptance in South Vietnam before he would.

Now, no longer an "enemy" of the Saigon government but not yet certified loyal, he waits at an "open arms" center while a political struggle shapes up between his new and old comrades.

After a political indoctrination course he will join some 200,000 other "Hoi Chanh" or "ralliers to justice" who have been integrated into South Vietnamese society.

He may not be safe. It is said, on uncertain authority, that the Viet Cong would rather kill one Hoi Chanh than two Americans. Some anti-Communist Vietnamese say they believe a cease-fire would provide opportunities for vengeance.

"I am not afraid," says Do. "I know the Communists' ways very well. I can take care of myself."

Do, 26, taught in high school before he was called into Hanoi's army in 1968. Interviewed in the presence of a South Vietnamese psychological warfare official, he said disillusion, not hardship, prompted him to defect after about a year in South Vietnam.

One April night, Do walked to the barbed-wire perimeter of a militia outpost and waved his white handkerchief.

Now, at a compound run and guarded by Hoi Chanh, Do leads a leisurely life. He talks with officials when asked, reads indoctrination literature and spends three afternoons a week wandering through downtown Saigon or the zoological park.

His meals are free and he gets $1.20 a month for incidentals.

FOR COUNTY ASSESSOR

A study of the recent Voters Guide reveals that our Democratic Judges admit there are inequities in our present system of assessing property in Pettis County, and have come out for assessment to correct them.

Judge Birdsong says it will cost around $150,000 to do this—so re-assessment will of necessity mean higher taxes.

It doesn't make sense to be forced to spend this much to correct the situation and then not put new blood in the Assessors office to keep the same situation from re-occurring in a few years.

Yes—it's time to put new blood in the Assessors office.
My record for Leadership-Honesty-community betterment work is a part of history—I need not repeat it here.
I will be a working Assessor—this will eliminate the need for one office deputy—a savings of over $4000 per year.
I will keep records to show why, when, and where all changes are made and these will be available to the public at all times.
I will heartily solicit suggestions from tax-payers interested in better government—to make the office more efficient.

IF YOU BELIEVE IN BETTER GOVERNMENT I NEED YOUR SUPPORT and it will be sincerely appreciated.

Here's What 104 Prosecutors Say!

During the past 4 years, Missouri's crime rate has increased almost 20%. To reverse this trend, Missouri needs an aggressive and imaginative attorney general who has had first hand experience in law enforcement.
John Danforth has not shown this kind of leadership or imagination.
Missouri needs Jim Spain.
Jim Spain has been a prosecutor, a legislator, and a trial lawyer for the past 12 years.
Jim Spain has a proven commitment to law enforcement and the reduction of crime.

Says Nixon Knew About Espionage

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Sargent Shriver says President Nixon "had to know" an alleged Republican espionage agent was hired to recruit a ring of saboteurs and spies to disrupt the Democrats.

Both the President and the alleged agent, Donald A. Sagretti, apparently were at the same hotel on the same day, just 24 days after Republicans hired Sagretti, Shriver said.

The Democratic vice presidential candidate, quoting a liberal Portland, Ore., monthly newspaper, "The Oregon Times," said Nixon and Sagretti both stayed in Portland's Benson Hotel Sept. 24 and 25, 1971.

Sources in the Shriver campaign said it had been confirmed independently—but didn't say how—that Sagretti had occupied rooms in that hotel on those dates, paying $40.35 a day. Nixon was in Portland at the time.

Shriver addressed a cheering and foot-stomping rally in the field house of Holy Cross College. Police said about 3,000 persons were present.

Shriver suggested, but did not say directly, that Nixon and Sagretti were in the same hotel to discuss political espionage.

Sagretti, who lives in Los Angeles, has not been available for comment on reports in several newspapers and magazines that he hired persons for the Committee for Re-election of the President, the Nixon campaign organization, to sabotage the Democratic election campaign.

Reports His Bid To Stop Train Failed

CHICAGO (AP) — "I did everything I could to stop the train and avoid the crash," said Robert W. Cavanaugh, 43, the engineer of the train which rammed into another train last Monday south of the Loop leaving 44 persons dead.

Cavanaugh's remarks Friday in a brief interview at his bedside at Billings Hospital were reported in today's editions of the Chicago Tribune.

His train, consisting of six old-type cars, was traveling at 60 to 65 miles per hour when it passed a green signal at the 35th Street station.

At 31st street, the signal was yellow and Cavanaugh complied by applying the brakes to slow down to the prescribed 35 m.p.h.

Then, seeing the forward train backing up, Cavanaugh applied the brakes with such force that he broke the brake lever.

Restoration Aim of Fans

By BOB BARR
Associated Press Writer

HONOLULU (AP) — Six days a week, John Knaus is a solid family man. But every Sunday, he steals away to a quiet valley on the leeward shore of this island to visit his other love. Sometimes his wife comes along.

He isn't alone. At least six other men come each week to console and rehabilitate an ancient lady from Hawaii's past.

"I just couldn't let her die," Knaus said, motioning toward a partly dismantled steam locomotive at one end of a Navy enginehouse.

It has been two years since Knaus—who didn't know the first thing about locomotive repair—gallantly intervened to spare No. 6 the agonies of the scrapyard.

In its dotage, the 23-ton locomotive enjoys more attention than it did in 34 years of toil in the sugar cane fields.

The air hums with the rasping of machinery and the good-natured joking of the volunteers, punctuated by an occasional expletive as a cantankerous part resists the best efforts of the weekend mechanics.

"Every piece of sheet metal on the thing was rusted out," Knaus said, but improvements are evident. A new water tank proudly straddles the boiler, and a new cab has replaced the battered original. Fresh paint gleams in the shafts of sunlight which intrude into the shelter.

Less obvious, but more important, there are 66 new flues inside the boiler—the work of young Dave Griner and wife Nancy.

The engine was fired up recently, and "ran very well," Knaus said. But the old oil-burner had a surprise for the unwary bystander. As steam chuffed through the stack for the first time in two decades, it dislodged an accumulation of dirt and rocks.

"The engine still belongs to Waialua Sugar Co.," Knaus said. "But I have a handshake agreement that we can operate it, as long as we paint it green and have "Waialua Agricultural Co." painted on the tank."

No. 6 began life in 1905 as an assortment of spare parts for five new plantation engines. By 1916, a long-forgotten mechanic realized there were nearly enough parts to make a locomotive.

A boiler and other parts were ordered and No. 6—the only locomotive known to be built in Hawaii—steamed out of the shop in 1918.

It might have run until it fell apart, but the Waialua engines were muscled out by trucks in 1952. No. 6 was retired to a park, where rust and vandals slowly converted it into an eyesore.

By April, 1970, the forlorn locomotive was headed for the scrap pile. Knaus fired off a letter asking if his group could restore the engine.

The sugar company said yes, and Knaus then had to organize a group, as a chapter of the National Railway Historical Society.

"We quickly attracted a nucleus of people who have varied skills," said Nick Carter, one of the first men Knaus contacted.

"Then there are guys like me," Carter added. "If someone says, 'Hold this,' I can hold it."

Similarity in Theme Is Evident

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

This year, Nov. 7 happens to fall on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in an even numbered year. And so, on that day, a proportionately small number of the American electorate, filled up to its ears in a bi-annual barrage of campaign rhetoric, bumper stickers, and buttons, will again perform one of the most private, yet publicly recognized, responsibilities of citizenship.

Missourians as a whole, and Pettis Countians in particular, have been confronted this year with some of the most invigorating campaigns in recent memory.

A key characteristic identifying many Republican and Democratic skirmishes in the past has customarily been the differences in each. This year, however, in an underlying sense, it is their similarity in theme which strikes observers most. A "removal of patronage" theme not unlike the "throw the rascals out" slogan of an earlier day has been deeply embedded in the political grain of many candidates on both sides of the political fence.

Highlighting this qhenomona on the state level has been the gubernatorial race between Democrat Edward Dowd and Republican Christopher "Kit" Bond.

Bond, stressing his youth and fresh idea-approach, has campaigned on a platform emphasizing, among other things, the equalization of education opportunities for the youth, reforms in the state judicial and penal systems, and the creation of rapid transit systems with gasoline tax monies.

Dowd has expressed opposition to the rapid transit system, saying it would unfairly tax rural citizens and those who live outside urban areas. He has also emphasized replacing the property tax as a basis for financing school districts.

Both Bond, currently state auditor, and Dowd, who defeated Lt. Gov. William Morris in the Democratic primary, have stressed their independence from what each has termed "the Democratic machine" in Jefferson City. They each have emphasized that performance, and not party affiliation, will be the determining factor in their selection of state office workers.

In the contest for Lieutenant Governor, Democrat Jack Schramm is opposed by William Phelps. Both men are currently serving in the State House of Representatives. Schramm is from University City and Phelps from Kansas City.

In his campaign, Schramm has described what he terms a "new vision" of the lieutenant governor's office in which he would take an increasingly active role in state affairs. Phelps also has emphasized the activism angle of the office, saying he won't be "a part-time lieutenant governor."

Incumbent Attorney General John Danforth is being challenged by Democrat James E. Spain. Danforth is running for re-election on his past record. "The attorney general's office is now a better law office than it has ever been in the history of Missouri," he says.

Spain, who advertises that he "wants to be the people's lawyer," says the office "can be more than it is." If elected, Spain said, he would use his office as "an instrument of social change."

The state treasurer's race being vacated by Democrat William Robinson is sought by Democrat James Spainhower and Republican George Parker. Both men have well-grounded educational and public service backgrounds, Spainhower being a political science professor at Lincoln University, Jefferson City, and Parker a former associate professor at the University of Missouri. Both men are also veterans of the House of Representatives.

In the secretary of state contest, Democratic incumbent James C. Kirkpatrick is opposed by Harold "Wheels" Kuehle. Kirkpatrick, who has held the office eight years, also is standing on his record of "7½ years experience in modernizing and improving the secretary of state's office."

Kuehle, currently county collector of Cape Girardeau County, has pledged "to do away with patronage and the spoils system by creating a merit system and eliminating unnecessary title-paycheck jobs."

Weddings In Many Colors Celebrate the Fall Season

(Fine Art Studio)

Mrs. Steven R. Eck
Miss Kathryn Gail Menefee

Miss Kathryn Gail Menefee and Mr. Steven R. Eck were united in marriage Saturday at 1 p.m. at Sacred Heart Church.

Miss Menefee is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Menefee, 305 Skyline, and Mr. Eck is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Eck, 210 South Kentucky.

The Rev. Mark Miller officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Renaissance wedding dress of Schiffli-embroidered ivory peau de soie. The heightened bodice was accented with long tapering sleeves and a small standing clllar. A narrow applique of lace encircled the neck and defined the empire waist. From the high back waist, an embroidered panel widened to form a chapel train. The bridal headdress was a miniature petal cluster of matching silk and pearls with a rosette holding the silk illusion veil. The bride carried a crescent of starburst pom poms, yellow sweetheart roses and stephanitis.

Miss Teresa Thomson served as maid of honor wearing a floor length gown of deep bronze iridescent silk taffeta. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Hand Spenser, Miss Debbie Kelly and Miss Diane Menefee. The bride's sister acted as the junior bridesmaid. They carried autumn sunset cascades of bronze and gold pom poms, woodroses and starflowers.

The groom chose Hank Spencer as his best man. Danny VanDyne, John Menefee Jr., and Kevin Menefee, brothers of the bride, were groomsmen. Ushers were Barry Walz, cousin of the groom, Mac Parrish, and Mick Menefee, brother of the bride.

The bride's table was covered with a floor length gold satin and lace cloth garlanded with greenery and gold bows. At one end of the table a silver candelabra with yellow roses and gold pom poms intertwined added to the decorations at the reception at the Sedalia Country Club.

Servers at the table were Miss Diane Sudduth, Mrs. Rich Edwards, and Miss Stephanie Nichols. Mrs. David Murray was in charge of the guest book.

The couple plan a honeymoon to Colorado and for the trip the bride will wear a pantsuit in fall colors.

The couple will reside at the Elmhill Trailer Court. The groom is employed by Coca-Cola Bottling Company and the bride is employed by C. W. Flowers.

(Classic Studio)

Mrs. Richard Allen Edwards
Miss April Charisse Nichols

The First Christian Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss April Charisse Nichols and Richard Allen Edwards.

Miss Nichols is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Nichols, 2519 Wing, and Mr. Edwards is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Edwards, 700 East 14th.

The bride was given in marriage by her father in the ceremony officiated by the Rev. Robert MaGee. The church was decorated with palms, lavender bows and two candelabra holding white tapers.

In the double ring ceremony, the bride wore a wedding dress of white sata peau styled with an empire waistline accented with venice lace flowing into the skirt. A juliet cap trimmed with lace held the veil in place. The bride's bouquet was of Vandall orchids with a white cross.

The bride chose for her maid of honor Miss Gayle Pabst, who wore a long dress of deep purple silk trimmed with lace at the sleeves. She had a wrist corsage of lavender carnations and sweetheart roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Marsha Wright, Miss Judy Baker. They wore full length dresses matching the dress of the maid of honor.

Paul Elmore served as the best man. The groomsmen were Andy Stauss, and Larry Maples. Ushers were Mike Arnold, and Jim Cramer.

A reception following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was decorated with a white lace cloth and a pair of candelabra with white tapers flanked the two tiered wedding cake.

Servers at the bride's tables were Mrs. Bill Arnold, Mrs. Robert Schmeider, and Mrs. Donald Huffman. Miss Shauna Nichols, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book. Miss Stephanie Nichols, also a sister of the bride, was responsible for the gift table.

The couple planned a wedding trip to the Lodge of the Four Seasons. They will reside at 121 South Grand. The groom is employed by the Home Builders Corporation.

Mrs. James William Harlan
Miss Marsha Louise North

The Pentecostal Church of God was the setting of the Oct. 21 wedding of Miss Marsha Louise North and James William Harlan.

Miss North is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. North, 1320 East 13th, and Mr. Harlan is the son of Mrs. Mable Harlan, Otterville.

Given in marriage by her father and mother, the bride wore an empire waisted gown of white silk organza. A small standing collar and long full bishop sleeves accented the bodice trimmed with French lace. A chapel length Watteau train extended from the high back yoke. The bridal headdress was a petal cluster of sequins and pearls on trimmed trille.

Her bouquet was a cascade of white carnations encircling a lavender orchid. Her only jewelry was a necklace, a gift from the groom.

Sharing honors were Miss Gayle North, sister of the bride who served as maid of honor, and Mrs. Ronnie Page, who acted as matron of honor. Miss Sheryl North was junior bridesmaid. All three attendants are sisters of the bride. They were dressed in floor length gowns of lavender crepe and carried white and lavender bouquets of miniature mums.

Wayne Hassler, cousin of the groom, served as best man and the groomsman was Gene North, brother of the bride. Junior groomsman was Dale Stroup, also a cousin of the groom. Ushers were Rick Rowden and David Pettis, cousin of the bride.

Candlelighters were Miss Brenda Hassler and Miss Pam Hassler, cousins of the groom. Their gowns were of lavender and white dotted swiss. They wore wrist corsages of miniature white and purple mums.

Miss Kimberly Myers, niece of the groom, was the flower girl. She wore a lavender floor length dress of dotted swiss and a headpiece of miniature lavender mums. Matthew Todd, a cousin of the groom, was ringbearer.

Presiding at the guest book was Miss Sandra Hassler and assisting with the gifts were Miss Donna Schumaker and Mrs. L. W. Rowden.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the fellowship hall. The bride's table was covered with a white and lavender cloth. A pair of three-branched silver candleabra flanked the five-tiered wedding cake.

Serving at the table were aunts of the bride, Mrs. Ravmond Hargrave, Mrs. Edgar Blakely and Mrs. Ray Derkum. Also assisting was Mrs. Henry Vansell.

Following a trip through southern Missouri the couple will reside at 1200 South Moniteau. The groom is employed by Home Builders and the bride works at Permaneer Corporation.

Mrs. William Patrick Stuff
Miss Alice Marie Gerke

LITTLE ROCK — Miss Alice Marie Gerke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Gerke, Pilot Grove and Mr. William Patrick Stuff, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Lee Stuff Sr., Little Rock, Ark., were united in marriage at 5:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 28 at St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Little Rock.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white crepe trimmed with venice needle point and long lace sleeves. Her veil of illusion was trimmed in matching lace and fell in a full-length train from a pearl-trimmed pill box. She carried a cascade of white carnations centered with a large white orchid.

Miss Karen Gerke, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Helen Thines was the bridesmaid. They wore floor length gold brocade dresses with short gold illusion veils and gold accessories. Each one carried a nosegay of white daisies.

David Stuff Jr. served as his brother's best man and Howard Gerke, brother of the bride, served as groomsman. Ushers were Bob Rowe and William Weber.

Following the ceremony the bride and groom lit a unity candle. A reception was held in St. Patrick's hall.

After a short trip the couple will reside in Little Rock, where Mr. Stuff is employed by 555 Auto Supply Company and Mrs. Stuff teaches elementary school in the Pulaski County Special School District.

Hospital Personnel Discuss Health Care

Those attending were F. C. Dohrman, administrator; Mrs. Ross E. Haupt, medical records librarian; Miss Ione LaBoube, director of nursing; and Mrs. F. C. Dohrman, president of the hospital auxiliary.

The convention focused attention on current health care problems, rather than celebrating its half-century existence. Quality control in patient care; measures to prevent malpractice; current legislation involving comprehensive health care planning; and other factors in the rising cost of hospital care were some of the issues discussed.

Journalistic Award Given

(Democrat-Capital Service)

HONOLULU — Mrs. Murry Engle, who began her newspaper career as a copygirl on the Sedalia Capital, has been honored as Woman of Achievement in the field of communications by Theta Sigma Phi, a communications honorary sorority.

Presently a copyeditor for the Honolulu Star Bulletin, Mrs. Engle has held many positions in the communications field. While at the Democrat-Capital, she served as a court and police and general assignment reporter and women's editor. She also worked as women's editor of the Marshall Daily Democrat. Her last year in Missouri she did public relations work for the Missouri State Fair.

From late 1966 to 1970, Mrs. Engle was in public relations with the Boeing Company in Seattle. In 1970 Mrs. Engle, mother of four, joined the Star Bulletin as a feature writer. She became a copyeditor for the paper this year.

She is a member of the Honolulu Press Club and the Hawaii Newspaper Guild.

Ceremony Unites Couple

In a small ceremony, with only family present, Ora Irene Dirck was married to James Heck at 2 p.m. Sunday at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. H. S. Ritchey, 129 East Walnut.

LOOKING INTO WINDOWS
by Deanie Long

Picture windows are popular with home builder and home owner alike. And is it any wonder? The picture window gives marvelous lighting and invites nature's beautiful outdoors into your home.

If you're lucky enough to have a lovely view, be sure to let nature play a part in your decorating scheme. Use some of the outdoor colors in your draperies and furnishings. If bright, afternoon sun streams in through your picture window, draw sheer draperies during the sunny hours. This will lessen the glare without spoiling the view. Overdrapes of a heavier fabric can be drawn for nighttime privacy.

Regardless of what you see through your window, you'll want to make the marvelous expanse of glass a focal point in your room. As always, the drapery hardware you choose can play an important role. Selecting a showy cafe rod can enhance a picture window treatment. The rod, plus matching rings and other hardware, should be chosen to complement the styling of your furnishings.

Would you like help in creating a picture perfect treatment for you picture window? Stop in and talk with one of our decorating experts.

If you're decorating a new home or designing a new look for your present home, you're sure to like the large selection of curtain and drapery window treatments at HOBSON'S. We are at your service at all times without cost or obligation. Open 8:30 to 5:00 P.M. Tuesday thru Thursday & Saturday. Open Monday and Friday until 8:30 P.M. Quotable Women

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"The Germans have added sin to sin. I am broken and numbed, but I don't think we should be silent." Mrs. Yosef Romano, widow of a slain Israeli Olympic weightlifter after West Germany released the three Munich terrorists in a hijack demand.

"You should wear the dress; the dress shouldn't wear you." Mary Quant, the Chelsea girl who sold the mini, on her new collection.

"If the Nixon administration does not sign in accordance with the timetable which it laid down itself, we will have proof that its undertakings are not to be believed." Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, head of the Viet Cong peace talk delegation in Paris.

"Don't you worry about anything. News? That stuff will just make you nervous." Frances, no last name, please. She's a waitress at the "China Clipper" in Dallas whose key to life is kindness to family, friends and customers and a little gum synn dill foo yung on the side.

"My breasts grew because for the first time in my life the tissues in the breasts became exercised through the rhythm of walking and movement instead of being artifically restricted." Anonymous, in a letter to a British consumer magazine offering yet another good reason for bra-burning.

Women Show Force In Political Forum

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women are making their strongest assault ever on Capitol Hill this fall, with a half-dozen women seeking a place in the Senate and 62 running for seats in the House.

That's up from 41 female entries in 1970, but the more dedicated say this is still a poor showing for a group that represents a majority of the electorate.

Most of the women candidates were fielded by minority parties with little chance of winning, or they were running against powerful, entrenched incumbents.

However, Tuesday's election is expected to bring a few feminine newcomers to the House of Representatives and to make some historic advances.

Two prominent black women lawyer-legislators, both Democrats, are seen as sure winners. They are Texas State Sen. Barbara Jordan, 36, of Houston, and California Assemblyman Yvonne Brathwaite Burke, 39, of Los Angeles, who was vice chairman of the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach. Both are running in new and heavily Democratic districts.

The present Congress has two women in the Senate, one from each party, and 12 in the House, 10 Democrats and two Republicans.

Three of them are dropping out. Rep. Florence P. Dwyer, R-N.J., decided to retire at age 70 after serving 16 years. Rep. Elizabeth Andrews, D-Ala., won the seat of her husband, George, after he died last Christmas is stepping down, as is Sen. Elaine S. Edwards, D-La., appointed by her governor-husband to succeed the late Sen. Allen J. Ellender with the understanding she would not run again.

Political observers expect Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, veteran of 24 years, to retain her seat despite a serious contest with Democratic Rep. William D. Hathaway and the issue of her age—74.

Only one other woman is trying for the Senate as a major-party candidate. But little hope is seen for West Virginia State Sen. Louise Leonard, 53, a former State Department employe, who took on powerful 14-year Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va.

All 10 women House members running for re-election, including colorful freshman Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., appear safe.

Mrs. Abzug has had more trouble than any of her colleagues getting on the ballot. When her Manhattan district, was dismembered in redistricting, Mrs. Abzug, a 52-year-old lawyer, ran against fellow liberal Democrat Rep. William Ryan and lost badly in the primary.

Emotional overtones and attacks on Mrs. Abzug's outspoken, activist style have drawn attention to the 20th District race in which Republican Annette F. Levy, 55, a Conservative Harvey J. Michelman, 34, and Joanna Mishik of the Socialist Workers party , also are running.

Historically and politically, this election means a lot to Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., the dean of women in terms of service. If she wins an 11th term as forecast, she will be in line for chairmanship of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee in a Democratic Congress.

Capitol historians say only two other women have held full House committee chairmanships, the late Reps. Edith Nourse Rogers, D-Mass., (Veterans Affairs) and Mary Norton D-N.J. (Labor).

Mrs. Sullivan is running against Republican Albert Holst Sr., a St. Louis Alderman, and Charles Byford, independent, an electronics consultant.

Q — Has there ever been a bond issue vote for a business to come in that later failed and that the taxpayers took the loss for? I think something like this happened to a firm that located here several years ago. The city constructed the building and helped buy the machines for it. — J.L.B.

A — Bill Hall, Sedalia's Economic Development director, said there has never been a company in Sedalia financed through general obligation bonds that later failed. He said, however, this has happened twice in Missouri, but in neither case were the taxpayers involved.

In the two instances of failure, Hall said, new tenants were found within 30 days for the vacated buildings and "consequently municipalities did not pay the expense."

Hall said, "I've been in Sedalia for seven years and we've never had an industry financed by a bond issue fail. For that matter, I know of no instance in Missouri where a bond project cost the taxpayers a dime."

Q — Sunday afternoon about 5:25 p.m. a police car drove through Southwest Village with its lights flashing, apparently conveying a private vehicle. The cars went from Southwest Village onto Clarendon Road and into the fairgrounds. I have since learned that this was the arrival of Democratic gubernatorial candidate Ed Dowd to the Sedalia rally held at the fairgrounds. Why the special treatment through the residential section of town? — J. F.

A — Sedalia Police Chief William Miller said police, when requested, usually escort such vehicles. Miller said the procession started in Southwest Village and traveled as short a distance as possible through the residential section.

Q — Why are trucks allowed to block the street while unloading merchandise at Kim Originals, 2500 East Broadway? Repeatedly at 5 p.m. tractor-trailer units have been blocking Merriam Avenue while unloading.

Also, parking spaces have been marked on the west side of the building, and some persons park their cars heading the wrong way. These cars also stick out into the street because the parking spaces are not deep enough. Why are these conditions allowed to continue even through the police have been informed of them? — M.L.G.

A — A spokesman for the company said trucks must block Merriam Ave. because the only unloading dock is on the west side of the building. Police Chief William Miller said trucks are permitted to block streets while unloading at businesses.

Concerning the second part of the question, the company spokesman said that customers park facing south on the west side of the building. Miller said that if cars are parked on private property, his department does not have the authority to say in which direction customers should park. The firm also said that some cars parked on the west side of the building extend into the street. Chief Miller said he was not aware of this situation.

Bereaved Father To Help McGovern

GLADSTONE, Mich. (AP) — A tearful Charles Stewart, his voice quivering with emotion, read a telegram confirming his son's death in Vietnam and explained why he called Sen. George McGovern.

"I heard about my son's death a few hours earlier," Stewart said.

" I thought perhaps I could help the senator. I know I can't help my son now."

McGovern said Friday his aides had received a call Thursday night from Stewart, whose son, Charles Jr., 19, was killed in Vietnam last Tuesday, the day Hanoi said a peace agreement was supposed to be signed.

The Democratic presidential nominee mentioned the soldier's death in his national television broadcast Friday night, saying young Stewart died on the day Nixon decided to continue fighting the war over "details" of peace.

The Stewarts were notified of their son's death the day after their 20th wedding anniversary. It was also Mrs. Stewart's birthday.

"In a sense I'm politically inactive," Stewart said. "I've been against the war for about five years, I guess."

He said he didn't talk directly to McGovern, but to several of his aides.

"I understood. I know he was pressed. But I do hope he calls back."

Young Stewart, a 1971 graduate of Gladstone High School, apparently died along with 21 others in a helicopter crash in the Mekong Delta.

"I took his absentee ballot up to the court house just before we heard," his father said. "It was his first time. Now, I guess it goes in the waste basket."

Stewart was president of his senior class, played football and in the high school band. He was elected mayor of the city on "exchange day," when students take over city hall.

"He was dead set against the war. After his 18th birthday, he wouldn't even register for the draft. He didn't want anything to do with it," the father said.

Three months later, the 5-foot-9, sandy-haired youth enlisted.

"Jobs are hard to get at that age," Stewart said. "He wanted a car. I guess he thought that was his chance."

Stewart, a postal clerk, and his wife, Christine, have three other children: Mark, 13, Craig, 14, and Mary, 16.

What does Stewart think of Nixon's peace moves?

"He's a prideful man, but he's going to come out of there with his tail between his legs," Stewart said. " He could have stopped the war, but he didn't.

"So we wound up with 20,000 killed, including my boy."

Sentimental Conclusion For Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 45,000 miles of campaigning, speeches in 55 cities and 35 states, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will wind up his 1972 campaign on a sentimental note: his last speech will be Monday in Richmond, Va., the stopping point four years ago.

As an indication of the confidence the vice president has for a Republican victory next Tuesday, he has left the weekend virtually free. An appearance on CBS's "Face The Nation" Sunday is the only thing on his schedule.

In Dallas Friday, he told a fund-raising banquet-barbecue for Sen. John Tower that Sen. George McGovern wants to renegotiate the proposed peace agreement with North Vietnam.

"The Senator's position borders on the incredible," Agnew told a $50-a-ticket crowd of 3,145 in Dallas' new Memorial Auditorium.

The vice president was speaking about a McGovern statement last week that he reserves the right to try to renegotiate any provision to continue giving military aid to the present government of South Vietnam.

No Secret Vote

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — There won't be any secret voting in precinct 2A of Washtenaw County's Pittsfield Township if three persons fail to show up Tuesday at the polls.

Through a quirk of reapportionment redistricting that left Pittsfield Township sundered among nine voting units, precinct 2A has four registered voters, and is believed to be the smallest precinct in Michigan.

Incidentally, Precinct 1A of the same township of 4,782 registered voters has a whopping five voters registered.

Symbolic Flame

Former Japanese soldier Shoichi Yokoi and his bride, Mihoko Hatashin, join in lighting a candle with a double flame, symbolizing their happy life together, following their wedding at the Atsuta shrine, Nagoya, Japan, Friday. The wedding came a little more than nine months after two hunters surprised the straggler from the Japanese Imperial Army in the Guam jungles where he hid 28 years after World War II. (UPI)

10-State Area Recreation Planner

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Donnie E. Cleveland of DeQuincy, La., was named Saturday as an outdoor recreation planner for the ten-state Missouri Basin.

Brig. Gen. Edwin T. O'Donnell, division engineer for the Corps of Engineers' Missouri River Division, said Cleveland would be involved in determining the location and nature of recreation facilities.

His area will include Nebraska, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Montana, Wyoming, Kansas, Colorado and Missouri.

Game management areas, fish hatcheries, access roads, land management practices and special design features will all fall within his responsibility, O'Donnell said.

The environmental effect of Corps of Engineers projects and developments will receive special emphasis from Cleveland, the announcement said. He will headquarter in Omaha.

O'Donnell said Cleveland received a bachelor of science degree in 1970 and shortly will receive a master's degree in science from Louisana Tech.

Chairmen For Drive Are Named

(Democrat-Capital Service)

MARSHALL — Mrs. E. G. Tanner and Mrs. Bill Marshal, both of Marshall, were named co-chairmen of the 1973 Cancer Crusade in Saline County at a meeting at the Farm Bureau Building here last week.

Cancer research survey packets were distributed and Mrs. Ed Weneke was named chairman of a special events committee that will be responsible for helping to finance the 1973 fund drive.

Named to the committee were Mrs. Bill Phegley, Mrs. Mode Anson and Mrs. Wayne O'Neal.

The group discussed holding an education workshop and plans to announce a date for it in the near future.

In Ranks

Lawrence D. Tucker, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence O. Tucker, Cole Camp, recently was commissioned an Army second lieutenant upon graduating from the Infantry Officer Candidate School, Ft. Benning, Ga.

During the 23-week course, he was trained in leadership, small unit tactics and infantry weapons. He also received instruction in map and aerial photograph reading, and counter-insurgency operations.

Lt. Tucker is a 1967 graduate of Benton County R-1 High School, Cole Camp. He received his B.S. degree in 1971 from Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg. The lieutenant's wife, Judy, lives on Route 2, Lincoln.

Don't Be Fooled By Me.

DON'T be fooled by the face I wear. For I wear a mask, I wear a thousand masks; masks that I'm afraid to take off, and none of them are me.

Pretending is an art that's second nature with me, but don't be fooled, please DON'T BE FOOLED.

I give you the impression that I'm secure, that all is sunny and unruffled with me, within as well as without, that CONFIDENCE is my name and coolness my game, that the water's calm and I'm in command, and that I need no one.

But DON'T BELIEVE ME. My only salvation, and I know it, is acceptance followed by LOVE. You've got to hold out your hand even when that's the last thing I SEEM TO WANT OR NEED.

The words above may be applied to everyman as he feels a deep need for the love and understanding of his fellow man They may also be applied to everyman as he feels a deep need for love and a relationship with GOD. So

If you feel you are wearing masks,
If you feel empty at the gut level,
If you feel you are not the you, you are meant to be, maybe getting GOD into your life will help.

Old Arab Tunes Sought

By ALY MAHMOUD

BEIRUT (AP) — Mounir Bachir is a 42-year-old musical detective whose specialty is investigating melodic mysteries thousands of years old.

He tours towns and villages in the Arabian Peninsula on the lookout for long-neglected Arab tunes.

Bachir eavesdrops on singing peasants, desert nomads, fortune tellers, sidewalk peddlers and religious chanters for traces of the musical past.

Bachir, who has a Ph.D. degree in folklore music from the university of Budapest, hopes to contribute to a "revival" of Arab music, mainly by "rediscovering" ancient melodies.

"Arabian Nights tales are replete with stories of singers and musicians who could cause princes and caliphs to laugh or weep by means of well studied melodies. This music is lost, and it is our duty today to research for it," he says.

Bachir charges that modern Arab melodies can hardly be regarded as authentic music. He sadly accuses Arab composers, the Egyptians in particular, of "distorting the Arab taste with a mishmash of so-called music."

He insists that 90 per cent of present-day music is "copied"—to use a polite term—from European music. And the remaining 10 per cent is nothing but a "crazy mixture" of tunes adapted to words and termed Arab songs.

A millenium of decline has "corroded features of ancient, glamorous, spiritual Arab music" until it survives only in hidden form, he says.

Arab music is distorted today but barely survives in the day-by-day practices and popular ballads of Arabs who live just the way their ancestors lived thousands of years ago. Bachir is determined to uncover, polish and revive that music, he says.

He often picks up old tunes whose origin has been lost through the ages. He verifies them by playing them on his "oud"—the Arab guitar—to natives and watching their reaction. In many cases, he says, desert Arabs have corrected melodies or responded with different variations.

His digging reveals that the oldest melodies were sung by slow moving camel drivers in Yemen and the Persian Gulf desert areas. They were unrhythmical, drawling and in keeping with the quarter-tone Arab octave, Bachir says.

The melodies later developed into faster and rhythmical tempos adapted to words sung by Arabs at weddings.

HEARTY NASA EATERS

NEW YORK (AP) — While it took many technicians, computers and complex communication equipment to get the Apollo 16 astronauts to the moon and back, it also took a lot of eating and drinking.

Servomation Corp., that serves the NASA Manned Spaceflight Center, says NASA personnel consumed some 87,000 sandwiches, 123,000 candy bars and gum, 18,800 hot meals, 96,000 cups of coffee, 136,000 soft drinks and 48,000 packs of cigarettes during the 12-day mission.

Theft Control Is Subject For Meeting

(Democrat-Capital Service)

MARSHALL — Store owners from throughout Missouri may attend a retail theft control clinic, co-sponsored by the Marshall Chamber of Commerce and the Small Business Administration, from 7 to 10 p.m. Tuesday at the College Center of Missouri Valley College here.

The program will deal with the scope of retail theft, how shoplifters operate, apprehension and prosecution of shoplifters and protection against fraudulent checks.

The clinic is free and is designed for store owners, their manager and employees.

Speakers for the clinic are noted authorities on crime in business. They will represent the Small Business Administration and the Kansas City Police Department.

ON NOVEMBER 7, VOTE FOR INDUSTRY!

ALPHA SINTERED METALS, UNIQUE IN IT'S PROCESS, WILL COMPLEMENT OTHER SEDALIA INDUSTRIES!

Alpha Sintered Metals is environmentally clean! A large portion of its raw materials comes from recycled iron and bronze. Their powder metallurgy process gives them an unlimited source of items that can be manufactured.

Vote FOR The Alpha Sintered Metals Bond Issue

The Following Are Some Questions and Answers That Have Arisen In The Course Of Preparation For The Bond Issue!

Q. Will this $150,000 bond issue increase taxes?

A. No. Although it is an industrial obligation bond the principal, interest, reserve fund, and election expenses will be paid by Alpha Sintered Metals, Inc.

Q. When and where do I vote?

A. The election will be held in conjunction with the general election on November 7, 1972, and the voting will take place at the regular polling places already designated by the County Clerk. You will be handed a separate ballot, along with the other ballots for political offices and other purposes, at that time.

Q. Do I have to registered to vote?

A. Yes. This is a proposal just for the registered voters that live within the city limits of Sedalia, and every qualified voter must be registered to vote.

Q. Why is it necessary to use industrial obligation bonds instead of revenue bonds?

A. The present bond market is so saturated with revenue issues that interest rates for these bonds have skyrocketed. In order to give Alpha Sintered the benefit of a lower interest rate, and the best advantage in the present bond market, it is proposed to use the industrial obligation bonds.

Q. What if Alpha Sintered Metals fails to meet its obligation?

A. Through a lease agreement to be signed by both Alpha Sintered Metals, Inc. and the City of Sedalia, after the bonds have been approved, the company guarantees all payments and has pledged its net worth against such an obligation. As of June 30, 1972 the net worth of the company was approximately the same as the bond obligation. This, coupled with the fact that the City would also own the building and property in the event of failure, is more than 100% security of the bonds. The 11,000 square foot building designed has no special features, therefore it would be a highly marketable building.

Q. What about the future growth of the company?

A. Although Alpha Sintered Metals is classified as a rather small industry, it has in the past two years shown considerable growth in its net profits. It is classified by an independent study as one of the growth-type industries since a large portion of its raw material comes from recycled iron and bronze. This, plus the fact that the company is "environmentally clean" makes it an ideal type of industry for any community to secure.

Q. What did the commission of the Division of Commerce & Industrial Development have to say about Alpha Sintered Metals?

A. According to a letter received October 10 from Henry Maddox, Director of the Division, and speaking for the Commission, ". . . After making such investigation as deemed necessary and appropriate, it is our opinion that the project will further the economic development, employment, and general welfare of the City and of the State. The division also feels that this project is economically feasible and will not become a burden on the taxpayers of Sedalia, Missouri insofar as it can determine from the facts and economic conditions at the present time. The said project is hereby approved pursuant to and under the authority contained in Section 100.060 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri, Supp. 1967 . . ."

Q. How much of a majority does the vote have to be?

A. In the State of Missouri for an obligation issue the vote requires a two-thirds majority. However, for industrial issues in the State of Missouri since the beginning of this program, the industrial bond issues have passed on an average majority of 33 to 1.

Q. What is our present industrial obligation bonding capacity?

A. As of October 1, 1972, and based on an assessed valuation determined on January 1, 1971, of $37,816,110, the present bonding capacity stands at $661,611. This continually increases since the other companies that have used bonding programs here in Sedalia are paying back principal amounts of bonds at the rate . approximately $135,000 a year. In 1973 alone the amount of principal payments retired by the four other bond issues will be exactly $135,000.

Q. What does this new industry mean to the community?

A. The immediate effects of the bond election extend beyond the immediate aim of just a new industry. Not only does it mean new construction for our labor force already in the area, but will also provide permanent employment for approximately 50 people at the normal level of operation. The initial work force, however, will only be between 15 and 20. Company representatives have assured us that they hope to have 50 people employed within the first year of operation. Secondly, it will mean a savings to two other local companies by the elimination of some rather heavy freight rates now being paid for products being purchased from Alpha Sintered Metals. Approximately 60% of Alpha Sintered's sales are west of the Mississippi, and at the present time it will be the only powdered metal plant in the state of Missouri. Of course, it is also important that it will be a boost given to Sedalia's image as a progressive city willing to do its part to bring new industry here and expand its existing industry.

LET'S KEEP SEDALIA GROWING BY VOTING

Men Shine In One Decorating Contest

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Men may be better than women at refurbishing homes.

The idea emerged at this year's judging of the Burlington House Awards, an annual event judged by prominent women, a board of governors under the chairmanship of Mrs. Albert Lasker of New York. Homes entries in 26 categories are submitted by newspaper and magazine editors.

"It may sound anti-Lib to say it, but somehow the men's houses seem to be the best. They don't seem precommitted to anything. Even if they clutter, they do it eclectically," observed Mrs. David Skinner of Seattle, as she held up a picture layout of a man's house. That one was a rugged, masculine-looking interior with rough wood walls. Part of its decorative charm included a big ship's wheel.

"It is funny," she added. "These awards really started out (1969) as a dedication to the American female's decorating talents, but it may not be turning out that way."

In addition to "man's home," one of the categories of the 200 finalists, men could enter other designations—"build it yourself," "unusual dwellings," "the special room" and so on. And they did.

Mrs. Peter Dart of Boulder commented she "couldn't believe that men decorated some of these houses without help" (professional)... She was looking at a beach house interior of wood and glass.

In decorating, men seemed to prefer materials like wood and glass—and they liked throw rugs, porcelains, good fabrics. And floors seemed to be very important whether they were shiny wide wood or herringbone brick.

Men remodeled many of the abandoned old barns, carriage houses and a livery stable—everything but the wiring—submitted as entries.

One house in particular—a squash house—caught the fancy of the women. Mary Lou Paxton of Fort Worth thought "the two chaps who did it had made very good use of space." The formal house had been converted into living, dining and sitting areas and the squash court became a terrace.

"The building was in good condition," observed Mrs. Kenyon Bolton of Cleveland, studying the entry, "but it really needed to be furnished with good things which they obviously had..."

People are remodeling every kind of building in these days of high-cost houses. They do not always worry about preserving the character of old farm buildings to provide more livability. Fireplaces, decks and screened porches were added.

A three-room log cabin that had been moved from one town to another was converted into a studio with walls of wood and stone. Leaded glass doors and slate floors provided a fresh approach.

One entry, a remodeled bunk house, formerly a fruit pickers' dwelling, was handsomely furnished with innovative additions such as a chandelier made of carved Balinese fish. (The owner did not know what to do with them.)

An old school house, 27 by 32, was gutted and remodeled with big windows and porches.

But 19th century dwellings were beautifully restored by many young people who maintained the original beauty of the Victorian and revival styles. While there were fine old homes in the Midwest, many elsewhere were in rundown areas requiring a lot of authentic research. The category was one of the largest submitted. Twenty-five entries were culled from the original 75.

Young couples also showed great flair in do-it-yourself enterprises such as furniture-making, refurbishing and built-ins. All the judges commented on one room where an afghan of squares (grandmother pattern) has been put over a floor-length yellow cover. Other do-it-yourself tricks included putting light bulbs in vegetable baskets and bordering mirrors with sea shells. Yacht chairs often served as low-cost seating.

A sparsely furnished room with large pillows on the floor, baskets, a mask and other wall art caught the eye of Mrs. William McCormick Blair Jr. of Washington D.C. While vivid color was popular with most of the judges, she prefers soft colors and doesn't like rooms that come on too strong. A "do-it-yourself painter of doors, pots and other containers," she found most of the do-it-yourself enterprises "very exciting."

One handsome decorating job by a couple in a run-down area included touches of grandeur—gilded mirror, fireplace, ornate chandelier and windows. Another couple had applied a patchwork motif, which matched the quilt on the bed, to a red-painted chest. In that room a window of plants had tendrils crawling up the panes. It charmed Mrs. Eugene Grace of Philadelphia who commented that she particularly liked flowers and hoped it wasn't influencing her judging.

As usual, the women judging the event found ideas they would use themselves. For Mrs. John Swearingen of Chicago, it proved to be a needlepoint rug like one seen in one of the 19th century houses. "I'm already at work on it," she said, triumphantly.

Writing and Law Combined

NEW YORK (AP) — When he isn't practicing law, Jerrold Morgulas writes novels. Sometimes he even writes novels when he is practicing.

"A lawyer spends a lot of time sitting in the courtroom," attorney-author Morgulas explains, "so sometimes while I'm waiting for a judge to appear, for example, I'll go to the back of the court and write."

Squeezing his writing into the spare moments that pop up during his life as a lawyer, husband and the father of two small children has paid off in two published novels for the intense 38-year-old. His first, "The Accused," was "an examination of some of the moral and judicial problems left over from the Nuremberg trials." His latest, "The Siege," is about "the siege of the Alcazar during the first months of the Spanish Civil War."

Both writing and the law come naturally to Morgulas. His father is an attorney in a law firm that specializes in handling the construction business. Morgulas works for the same firm, noting that "I grew up knowing I would go into this practice. During my college summers, I worked in the offices of construction firms, reading blueprints and that sort of thing, to get a feel of what was going on in the field."

As for writing, he says, "It was something I always wanted to do. I started when I was very young, and now I find it gives my life a very good balance. Quite simply, not only do I want to write, I have to write because I find myself fulfilled when I am writing and not when I'm not."

Then he adds, with a laugh, "I think writing fiction makes my legal brief writing better—not so ponderous, you know."

To blend his two lives, Morgulas says he rises about 6:30 a.m. and writes at his typewriter for about an hour. Then he boards his commuting train to New York City and writes in longhand—as he does during those courtroom moments—for another 40 minutes.

"I do the same thing on the train coming home," he says. "And then when I get to the house I go back to the typewriter for an hour or so in the evening. On weekends I write while the children are napping.

"Between the longhand and the typing, it makes for quite a mess when I try to get my book all together."

Morgulas currently has two writing projects in the works. One is a manuscript dealing with Spain in the late 1400s "which I'm trying to edit down so it's a little more concise."

The other is a novel which Morgulas laughingly calls "a real monster in size. It runs over 3,000 pages, and I expect to spend at least eight more months editing and revising it. It deals with the rise of Fascism in Italy, why Italy went the way it went."

Liquified Natural Gas Exchange Deal Is Made

HOUSTON (AP) — A billion dollar deal to swap liquefied natural gas from the Soviet Union for U.S. goods and services is within 60 days of signing, according to three Houston firms.

Texas Eastern Transmission Corp., Brown & Root, Inc., and Tenneco, Inc., said they expected to conclude work on the 25-year agreement to import two billion cubic feet of natural gas a day from Siberian gas fields to the East Coast of the United States.

They also are talking with the Soviet Union and Japanese interests of another deal — this one to import liquified natural gas from Eastern Siberia to the U.S. West Coast and Japan, spokesmen said.

The three Houston firms said they will spend $2.5 billion in terms of 1972 dollar value to build pipelines, compressor stations and liquefaction plants in the Soviet Union as part of the East Coast deal.

They would invest $1.8 billion in 20 tankers to carry the natural gas from the Soviet Union to this country.

Financing for the gigantic deal is being worked out by First National City Bank of New York and the Bank of America, the three firms said.

The Texas group refused to say just how much the entire scheme would cost. There has been speculation that the whole program would run from $30 billion to $45 billion.

The Soviet Union would pay for the facilities built in that country with natural gas, the announcement said. After all costs are paid, about $10 billion more in natural gas would be imported, they said, but no cash would be paid to the Soviet Union.

Instead that country would use the money to buy goods and services in the United States.

Brown & Root is one of the world's largest engineering and construction firms and has been very active in the oil and gas construction business. Texas Eastern is the only natural gas interstate pipeline operator serving both the East and West Coasts. Tenneco has gas transmission lines extending from Texas to the Midwest and New England.

Clear Bacon Of Charges Of Conspiracy

NEW YORK (AP) — Antiwar activist Leslie Bacon has been cleared of bomb conspiracy charges stemming from the fire-bombing of a Madison Avenue branch of the First National City bank two years ago.

U.S. District Court Judge Sylvester Ryan dismissed the indictment against the 21-year-old Miss Bacon Friday after the Justice Department said it would abandon the case rather than reveal eavesdropped conversations.

The government said "it would prejudice the national interest to disclose particular facts contained in the sealed exhibit filed in this case."

Earlier, the government dropped charges of perjury against her in connection with her grand jury testimony about the 1971 bombing of the capitol in Washington. There, too, the government declined to disclose wiretap evidence.

Recovered

Albuquerque detectives William Conley and John Kynor, right, examine religious statues confiscated along with thousands of University of New Mexico historical documents. A 35-year-old suspect was being held on a charge of grand larceny Friday.

Keys to Finding Apartment

By JIM HUFNAGEL
Written for Associated Press

Apartment dwellers have a chance to do their thing to promote environmental awareness by bringing pressure to bear on landlords. Let's consider a number of questions which people might think about before signing their leases.

The public good is a suitable place to start. If an apartment is built on low ground and near water, insects will probably be a problem. Pesticides pollute. One way to keep their consumption down is to not rent where a great deal of insect protection is needed.

Should a person rent an apartment within walking or biking distance of work and shopping, or at least near the local transit system, the harmful necessity of driving a private car to work is eliminated.

If a building site is filled-in marshland, bay-fill or once-prime farm land which has been ruined by apartment builders who don't care about what they are doing to the ecology, the apartment hunter might consider boycotting these developers to make them think twice in the future.

An apartment with good insulation takes less energy to heat or cool—thus less pollution caused by generating the necessary energy. Check the apartment being considered for individual temperature controls, as well.

Little things such as placement of apartment appliances can help. A refrigerator will use less energy if placed away from radiators, direct sunlight and the oven.

The person looking for an apartment has to consider his own good. If freeways, railroads, airplane flight patterns and other noise sources are located near an apartment, one would think twice before renting. Noise is a very real, harmful, pollution factor. There's also a concentration of air pollutants in such locations.

Pop Music Stars Married Friday

NEW YORK (AP) — Pop music stars James Taylor and Carly Simon were married Friday night in a city municipal building.

Taylor, who ranks as a pop singer-songwriter superstar, announced his marriage at a three-hour concert which began at midnight Friday at Radio City Music Hall.

"It's rather sensational," Taylor said, after the applause which greeted his announcement. "I don't know whether to be more nervous about the concert or the marriage." The new Mrs. Taylor, in a sweater and long skirt, took a bow with her husband after he had sung an encore.

Denies Claim He Threatened Carson

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A 26-year-old man has pleaded innocent to charges that he threatened the life of Johnny Carson in an attempt to extort $250,000 from the late night television entertainer.

Richard Dziabacinski, who remains in custody in lieu of $50,000 bail, was ordered Friday to return to Superior Court on Nov. 29 for further hearings.

The Los Angeles County Grand Jury indicted him on charges of threatening Carson in a letter sent to Carson's Bel Air home Oct. 8.

Charges against a couple also arrested at the same time were dropped when authorities said an investigation showed they were only fans of Carson who had followed him.

Pettis County Post No. 16, The American Legion Inc., and Ladies Auxiliary, will meet on Monday, 6 Nov. '72, at 7:30 p.m. at the Legion Home.

HI!
I'm...
LEONARD HEISTERBERG

I am a 48 year old farmer, married, and we have four children who are all in the process of getting an education.
I was elected as a trustee in the April School Election by the people of all the Junior College area except Sedalia School District 200. This area was set up by the original board guided by legal counsel, Dr. Proctor and I were forced to refile for the position by four dissatisfied people, if we were to remain on the board. They used the One-Man, One-Vote decision even though the area I represented had three-fifths of the assessed valuation.
Even though I was elected from the area outside of Sedalia, I have always tried to serve all the people. If elected, I will work for the best education possible. I believe in harmony on the board, but I am not a "yes" man. Your support will be appreciated.

EAST SEDALIA BAPTIST CHURCH
1019 East 5th
Welcomes Rev. Milton Elmore

OUR "NEW PASTOR"

REVEREND ELMORE came to us from the pastorate of the First Baptist Church, Wrightstown, N.J. He is not a stranger to Missouri, having been born and reared at Houston, Mo., and having spent all but 5 years of his 32 years in the ministry serving Missouri churches.

REV. ELMORE received his B.S. degree from Sterling College, Sterling, Kans., and was a member of the first graduating class of Midwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Kansas City, Mo., earning the Master of Divinity Degree. He has served the following Missouri churches: Summersville, Licking, Lockwood, Buffalo & DeSoto.

REV. ELMORE AND HIS WIFE, Ruth, have five children. He is an avid sports fan and has played basketball and baseball in high school and college. He also coached basketball in the High School at Summersville, five of the six years he pastored there.

GOSPEL PREACHING WITH AN EVANGELISTIC EMPHASIS FOR EACH MEMBER OF THE FAMILY. EVERYONE WELCOME!

LEONARD HEISTERBERG
NOV.7th

For Trustee of State Fair Community College. Don't vote for two people. Vote for one man. Vote for Leonard. He is for education but believes our tax dollar should be spent right. Benton and rural Pettis County pays approximately sixty per cent of the local taxes that supports the college, while Sedalia district 200 pays slightly over forty per cent. Due this off-balance in taxation we feel that the rural section should have an equal number of representatives on the board.

Sponsored by Benton County Taxpayer's Ass'n., Inc.

Your support and encouragement during this campaign has been greatly appreciated. We have tried to contact as many people as possible, but if we have not seen you, we are taking this opportunity to ask for your support and vote on November 7.
Again, Thank You.

See Apathy as the Worst Nixon Enemy

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coming down to the wire in the presidential elections, President Nixon's campaign committee is convinced that voter apathy is the strongest threat to his re-election.

"Apathy is our only enemy," commented one campaign official by way of introduction to the most ambitious voter turnout project ever undertaken by a Republican presidential campaign.

In strong contrast to Nixon's media-oriented 1968 campaign, this one is directed to grass-roots organization and prodding Nixon voters to the polls.

At the heart of it is a room in an office building a half-block from the White House called the Canvass Control Center.

Under the general supervision of Deputy Campaign Director Frederic V. Malek and the direct supervision of Manyon M. Millican, the brain center in this room reaches into every county in America.

There are 52 tote boards along the walls and up a center aisle—one for each state, but two for Texas, and a national summary giving the totals for all the states and the nation.

This gives the Nixon strategists what they need to prod their own troops and ultimately prod the voter.

The boards list every telephone call made by Nixon canvassers and every door knocked on, state-by-state and county-by-county.

"This lets us know what states and which organizations are getting the job done and which ones we have to lean on," Malek said.

The object is to identify potential Nixon voters in advance. So, logically, the search concentrates in certain areas.

Illinois, for example, has 102 counties, but the committee has determined that 75 per cent of the anticipated GOP vote lies in 14 of these counties, where the drive concentrates.

But there are figures on every county in the country, phoned in by some 1,800 storefront Nixon campaign headquarters. In the Washington control center, three paid workers and 18 volunteers post the results the way the latest quotations go up at a stock exchange.

The results show the number of Nixon voters identified, and their location, the number of Democratic votes, and the undecideds.

On election day all the voters identified as for Nixon will be prodded to go to the polls.

"We have found generally that the average McGovern voter is a little more dedicated than the average Nixon voter," Millican confided. "That's why we have to get ours out. We can't let them sit it out because of disinterest or because they think Nixon has the election in the bag and doesn't need them."

Malek is another of those who think voter apathy is a real threat. "I've noticed a lot of apathy that seems to have set in, not only among our volunteers but among the general electorate . . ."

He has 259 telephone centers spaced across the country and an army of door-knockers working on it. As of Oct. 21 they had contacted almost 16 million American households.

Germans May Return To Homes

MOSCOW (AP) — More than 300 Soviet citizens of German origin have received permission during the past week to return to Germany, West German sources report.

They said some of the Germans—mostly farm and factory workers—had waited years for an exit visa.

So far this year the weekly average of those allowed to rejoin their relatives in West Germany had been only 50 to 70, according to the Red Cross in Bonn.

There are estimated to 1.8 million Germans here who wish to join relatives in West Germany. Their repatriation has been repeatedly raised by West German politicians in talks with Soviet leaders.

About 26,000 Soviet citizens of German origin have been repatriated since the end of World War II.

Soviet citizens claiming a right to return to Germany are mostly immigrants or descendants of immigrants who settled in Russia years ago. Some of these re-established German citizenship during the Nazi occupation of European Russia and the Ukraine in World War II but were never before able to leave the country.

Hunting Accident Is Fatal For Youth

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Rickie Lane Porter, 13, of Independence, Mo., was wounded fatally while hunting with a friend in southeast Jackson County Friday.

Sheriff's officers said the friend slipped in mud and fell, accidentally discharging a .410 shotgun. The charge struck Porter in the chest.

Election Coverage By Television Elaborate, Expensive and Exacting

EDITOR'S NOTE—The three major television networks have amassed an army of 11,000 people and a war chest of $9 million to cover the presidential election. The election night ballyhoo will be somewhat muted, but the computers will be there—and this year the projected winner could come before the polls close.

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Two days from now, 14 of the highest-paid reporters in the nation will assume battle stations here to cover Election Night for the CBS, NBC and ABC television networks.

They'll be supported by more than 11,000 people, an army barely fewer in number than the population of Sweetwater, Tex. There'll be squads of computers to speed up the results, actual or anticipated.

The reporters will forecast, analyze and report the emerging political shape of the nation from imposing sets within three huge studios in Manhattan—Studio 41 at CBS, 8-H at NBC and TV-1 at ABC.

And as usual they're in a three-network fight to blend swift, sound journalism with sufficient show biz flash to rack up rating points. Industry sources estimate it's costing between $9 million and $10 million.

The networks' huzzahs over their Election Nights used to be mind-boggling. One somehow was disappointed to find Lamont's Cockatoos missing from the bill. The drum-beating is still there, but it's relatively muted this year.

And the emphasis this time is on the whys and hows of the nation's voting, not the computer wizardry that makes viewers suspect that networks "project" the next President five seconds after a poll closes in Allagash, Maine.

Not all viewers realize that because of the computers, networks can make a presidential projection faster than other races because the presidency is decided by electoral, not popular, votes.

Smith And Reasoner Locale

Wally Pfister Jr., who heads ABC's election coverage, describes the set which will surround his two anchormen election night on a mockup outside his New York office. At ABC it will be Howard K. Smith and Harry Reasoner against the world.

Whoever gets a majority—270 electoral votes—wins. All each network tries to do with its computer data is project in advance how the state-by-state electoral vote will wind up. And report it first.

When the projection hits that magic 270 mark, tote boards light up and anchormen say things like, "on the basis of our projection, the winner is.." And this year it may come hours before all polls close.

The presidential projections are often criticized on grounds they cause prospective voters to stay at home instead of casting ballots in races actually decided by popular vote.

And Robert Northshield, executive producer of NBC's election night effort, agrees "there is a danger that, say, a guy in San Francisco hears the projection at 5 p.m. and says the hell with voting at all.

"And maybe he won't vote for things that can immediately affect his life—his school board or a local bond issue. But this is something that can't be corrected by television. It has to be corrected by Congress. Perhaps a universal (poll) closing time is the answer.

"You know, though, it seems everyone's real complaint is that we've taken the fun out of voting. Some people are Luddites. They'd like us to smash the machines."

This is the second time Northshield has run NBC's presidential election show. It's also the second time for his two opponents, ABC's Wally Pfister Jr. and CBS' Robert Chandler.

The three networks won't differ much in the way they project the presidential race, although CBS will try for a minor jump on the others with an election-day poll when its report starts at 7 p.m. (EDT).

The poll is based on 14,000 questionnaires distributed by CBS workers at 145 key precincts across the nation. Voters will be asked for whom they cast their ballots and such things as their religion and income.

The data then will be cranked into a computer to see if it matches or drastically differs from previous data on the voting history and demographic makeup of those precincts. In short, a search for a trend.

The big difference among the networks will be the way they report the 33 Senate, 18 gubernatorial and 435 House races on election night.

CBS is remaining regional. Walter Cronkite will anchor the show as Mike Wallace inspects the East, Roger Mudd the South, Dan Rather the Midwest and John Hart the West. Eric Sevareid and author Theodore White are covering the meaning of it all.

Projects will be made of the Senate and gubernatorial races, but not the House battles, according to Chandler. The CBS emphasis on the House will be its probable political composition as the votes come in.

NBC also is projecting winners for the Senate and gubernatorial battles, but for the first time will project the winners of 50 "high-interest" House races.

It is eschewing the regional approach. John Chancellor and David Brinkley are in center stage, flanked by Garrick Utley (Senate) and Edwin Newman (House). Catherine Mackin is the governess of the gubernatorial battles.

At ABC, it'll be Howard K. Smith and Harry Reasoner against the world, backed in the studio by correspondent Sam Donaldson of Capitol Hill. The big projection will be the presidential one, followed by the Senate and gubernatorial races.

However, ABC is adamant about not making any projections in those late two categories until the polls are closed in any state involved in a forecast.

As far as Election Night sets go, CBS has the most impressive of all. It's sort of a reporter-in-the round affair that resembles the Guggenheim Museum. But it needs a moat.

ABC's is the most functional. It has no tote board in the conventional sense. Its board is electronic, not wood and plaster, and can be made to appear or vanish on television by flicking a switch.

The NBC set looks like a place where choir directors say "Baritones stand there, tenors over here, the bass goes here.." and so forth. Its tote board is a computer-driven, greatly simplified version of the "Chinese wall" of 1968 fame.

You look at all this and you remember the early days when television covered election night from the city room of the local newspaper. The suspense then was incredible.

The Cronkite Position

Hughesville 'Key Precinct'

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

HUGHESVILLE — Those Sedalians who say they'd like to shake hands with one person who has actually been interviewed by a Gallup Poll or whose vote has really been counted in a television "vote profile analysis" this year, need go only as far as Hughesville.

When this tiny community's approximately 40 voters cast their ballots Tuesday, County Clerk Mrs. Mary Jane Wilson won't be the only person getting the word of the results as soon as they're released — she'll be joined by Harry Reasoner and Howard K. Smith.

Why the national concern? Hughesville has been selected as a "key precinct" by ABC News, whose computers will combine the presidential and gubernatorial preferences of Hughesville voters with some 40 others across the state to predict which presidential and gubernatorial candidate the majority of the state's voters prefer.

Hughesville's returns in the presidential and gubernatorial races will be phoned in to ABC headquarters in New York by either Mrs. Naomi Edmonds or Mrs. John Ellison Jr., who will both be on the scene representing the League of Women Voters.

According to information received by Mrs. Edmonds, "key precincts" are chosen for their location in the state, degree of urbanization, ethnic backgrounds, religious profiles, income levels and past voting histories.

Immediately after the Hughesville results are phoned in, the information will be fed into a computer in which all pertinent demographic data about the city is already stored. The election night results will then be compared with the previously stored data to enable ABC election analysists to detect voting trends in advance of the final outcome.

The national League of Women Voters was chosen to phone in key precinct results across the country because "experience has shown that no other organization can match the League in election reporting," according to John Thompson, manager of the ABC News political unit.

The League will receive $20 for its efforts, Mrs. Ellison said. She added that this was the first time a nationwide "key precinct" had been selected in Pettis County by any network.

Madura Bull Race Sluggish

EDITOR'S NOTE—Once the fields are plowed the island of Madura goes race crazy. It has the tradition of Churchill Downs and the hustle of Hialeah. The times are a little slow, though. But then cows never could run as fast as horses.

By MORT ROSENBLUM
Associated Press Writer

MADURA, Indonesia (AP) — A race fan on this rustic little island has more to worry about than losing his shirt. He might get gored by the favorite.

On Madura they race bulls, hitched in pairs to a plow-like contraption on which a nerveless rider perches, using both hands to jab the animals in the rump with sharpened bamboo.

Every year, after plowing, bulls from all over the slug-shaped island just off Java compete in regional races. Then, in the capital, 50,000 spectators jam into Pamekasan Downs for the grand finals.

With the pounding tropical sun and dry season dust, the best thing to be is one of the bulls. They are carefully rubbed with unguents, sheltered with parasols and boozed up with local beer.

When the races start, though, it's not so good to be a bull. As the starter flag drops, a dozen villagers whack each brace of bulls with rods while others jab the animals in their most tender regions.

The rider flails both bulls continually all 130 yards. Sometimes the track officials miss the outlawed iron spikes that virtually all riders secrete away before the race, and the bulls bellow in pain.

Properly goaded, a pair of bulls can cover the distance in nine seconds. And that's where the hairy part comes in.

Spectators not only pack the stands and line the track, they also cover the finish line. As bulls, blinded by pain and rage, charge past the judges, the crowd leaps aside with agility that would make a Pamplona veteran quail.

Sometimes, the bulls just opt out, mowing down fans halfway along the course. "If the rider falls off he usually gets hurt pretty bad, too," says an official.

Generally about six people wind up hospitalized during the three hours of racing. There aren't many deaths, officials say.

The Madura races have centuries of history. They started as local competition in the fields when the plowing was finished. Under the Dutch, the races became organized and more sophisticated.

There's little other action on this bucolic Moslem island of five million known most widely for its chicken soup, so the races are taken seriously. Out islanders sail for days to attend.

The bulls are humped-neck mixtures of Ongoles and Bali cows, reddish and short-horned. Villagers feed them honey, eggs and herbs for months in advance, exercising their necks and running muscles.

Before the races, they are paraded in elaborate finery, their combed heads covered in gold braid and rich cloth. Riders do a traditional whip dance to the gongs and bongs of a gamelan orchestra.

The pairs of bulls run two at a time in a system of heats so the eventual winners are often covered in blood and bruises. They win a huge silver cup and a stick of sugar cane.

And then the bulls, and everyone else, go back to the crops.

The Start

Language 'Strong,'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Edward L. Dowd said Friday his campaign staff used language that was "a little strong," in attacking Christopher Bond, but they were "entirely correct."

Dowd, Democratic candidate for governor, referred to one radio commercial that challenged Bond, his Republican opponent, to correct the impression that he got all his early schooling in Mexico, Mo.

"The fact is," Dowd said, "he graduated from grade school in Arizona and from high school in Massachusetts."

Dowd, in a news conference, said a question about Bond's credibility was significant and there was doubt about his qualifications because he has been "away from the state for 16 years."

Three commercials were sent to 40 radio stations last Monday and two were rejected by three stations, which were given substitutes.

There were objections to commercials about Bond's tax payments and his residency.

"Bond didn't pay 1964, 1965 and 1966 taxes" and part of his Missouri income taxes in 1967, Dowd said. "Instead of meeting that criticism ... Mr. Bond said this was unfair campaigning."

Dowd said he had been forced into personal attacks on Bond because the Republican's commercials implied Dowd's "guilt by association" through contributions from the Steamfitters Union in St. Louis.

The Democrat said he would prefer to campaign on his own record.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

October 26, 1972

Dear Judy:

Sharing is one of the nicest ways to show that you care for others, and the President wanted you to know how pleased he was by your thoughtful gesture of enclosing a gift with your letter. Unfortunately, these offices cannot accept this money and I am returning it to you, but the President hopes you will understand that your friendship means a great deal to him.

If you are interested, the address of the Committee for the Re-election of the President is 1701 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, D.C. 20006.

With the President's best wishes.

Sincerely,

Roland L. Elliott
Deputy Special Assistant to the President

Minor Contributor

Judy Voelker, 5, of Brookfield, Wis., who mistakenly was sent a letter from the Committee for the Re-election of the President, got back the two cents she contributed and a letter from Ronald Elliott, deputy special assistant to the President. Judy's parents had sent her contribution with a note to the White House. Elliott's letter stated that the White House couldn't accept the money. (UPI)

Wardrobe Variety Noted

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — How do you transform a demure daytime outfit into an elegant evening dress? You wear a jump dress, says Pauline Trigere.

A simple navy one, worn over a filmy navy and gold blouse, is ideal for the office. Whip off the blouse and it's bare and elegant — fine for the theater.

Another, older way of using the same costume for day and night was revived in the collection.

Miss Trigere showed a bright green print shirtwaist dress for day and then made it an evening gown by adding a long overskirt.

The designer stuck to skirts, for spring showing only a few pants outfits and those only for evening.

There were lots of wrap coats with matching skirts and a few little bolero jackets over princess and fitted dresses.

Daytime colors were navy, black and white — combined in bold plaids and checks — and a sprinkling of pastel blues and pinks.

Color ran riot, however, in Trigere's evening wear. Her long evening dresses were decollete. Several had scooped necklines off the shoulders, and some were revivals of the elegant Grecian look, with one shoulder bared.

And then there were the so-called "false modesty" gowns. They had males in the audience falling out of their seats until they realized the vast area of seemingly naked skin revealed by the gowns was, in fact, flesh-colored chiffon.

INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTERS

A vote for names of candidates for president and vice-president is a vote for the electors of that party, the names of whom are on file with the secretary of state.

On receipt of his ballot the voter shall forthwith, and without leaving the enclosed space, retire alone to one of the voting booths provided, and shall prepare his ballot for voting in the following manner:

STRAIGHT TICKET

Should the voter desire to vote a "straight" party ticket he shall place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below the party name.

SPLIT TICKET

If the voter desires to vote for one or more candidates on more than one party ticket, by voting what is commonly called a "split ticket" he may place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below one party name and mark cross (X) marks in the squares at the left of the names of candidates on other tickets for whom he wishes to vote.

Where there are two or more candidates for like office in a group, a cross (X) mark in the square to the left of a candidate's name automatically votes against the candidate whose name appears within the same horizontal lines in the column under the circle in which appears the cross (X) mark, unless the voter indicates another candidate to be voted against by drawing a line through such candidate's name.

WRITE-INS

If the voter desires to vote for one or more candidates whose name or names do not appear on the printed ballot he may do so by drawing a line through the printed name of candidate for such office, and writing below such cancgled name the name of person for whom he desires to vote, and placing a cross mark in the square at the left of such name. The squares so marked shall take precedence over the cross marked in the circle.

All candidates of the party whose circle is marked shall be counted as voted for excepting where squares are crossed preceding the names of the candidates in other columns. If two or more candidates for the same office are thus designated, neither shall be counted. If the cross (X) is not placed in the circle immediately below the party name at the head of the column, but does appear in the squares opposite the various candidates' names, then only these names shall be counted for, and none other. A cross (X) mark is any line crossing any other line at any angle within the voting space, and no ballot shall be declared void because a cross (X) mark therein is irregular in form.

It is unlawful to deface or tear a ballot in any manner or to erase any printed name (except as provided above in this section), figure, word or letter therefrom, or to erase any mark made thereon by the voter, or to enclose in the folded ballot any other paper or any article. If the voter defaces or tears a ballot, or wrongly marks the name or makes an erasure therein, he may obtain one additional ballot on returning to a judge in charge of the ballots the one so defaced or wrongly marked. He shall at once mark and vote the ballot and the spoiled ballot shall be marked "void" in the voter's presence. A person who does not vote a ballot delivered to him shall, before leaving the polling place, return the unvoted ballot to the judges having charge of the ballots.

A ballot placed in the ballot box without any marks shall not be counted. Ballots shall be counted only for the person for whom the marks thereon are applicable; when a voter places a mark against two or more names for the same office, and only one candidate is to be chosen for the office, none of the candidates is deemed to have been voted for and the ballot shall not be counted for either candidate.

Before leaving the booth the voter shall fold his ballot in such a manner as to conceal his marks thereon. He shall mark his ballot without undue delay. He shall then deposit his ballot in the ballot box being used at that time and shall quit and leave the enclosed place as soon as possible.

Reporting the United States Cook's Latest Assignment

EDITOR'S NOTE—After 35 years of reporting about the United States, Alistair Cooke has distilled his impressions into 13 one-hour television shows. Cooke, the quiet Britisher who hosted the "Omnibus" series in the 1950s, took two years to compile his video anthology. One of his conclusions: "It's not a question of saving what's left; it's more of recovering what's lost."

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Alistair Cooke can't be all bad. He agrees with H. L. Mencken's thesis that "all journalists are people who like to flap their wings in public."

Cooke has been a practicing journalist for most of his adult life, but it's hard to imagine him flapping. Particularly when one recalls him as the quietly British host of television's "Omnibus" series from 1952 through 1961.

But a journalist he is and the urge to get the words out persists. After 35 years of writing about the United States, he's finally distilled his impressions into 13 one-hour shows called "America."

The first of the lot will air on NBC at 10 p.m. Nov. 14, six days before his 64th birthday. The rest will be broadcast on alternate Tuesday nights.

"America" is a subjective look at the shaping of this country. It's the result of Cooke's two-year tour of the nation with a film crew from the British Broadcasting Corp.

The tour began in October 1970, at the Old South Church in Boston where in 1773 American patriots held a stormy anti-British meeting that was immediately followed by the Boston Tea Party.

It ended this month at Cooke's book-lined apartment on Fifth Avenue, the final shots in his study overlooking the northern wilderness of Central Park.

Several weeks later, he sat in the study, a lean, animated man in comfortable grey slacks and sweater, philosophizing about the Americas of 1937 and 1972.

It was a gloomy, rainy Friday. And he was saying his tour of America had uncovered a gloomy nation compared to the 1937 model he had described for the BBC and the Manchester Guardian.

In that year, he said, "Roosevelt had really lifted the country up, certainly in spirit. And it was a tremendously exciting place to be .

"Europe already was cowed and frightened of Hitler and its people knew they were going to have to fight him. It was a listless and discouraging place to be and this country, on the contrary, was not.

"All right, we've never solved unemployment here, but it certainly had been brought down. And you did feel that this country really was on the move and was the real leader of the West."

The words tumbled out, quickly and in sharp contrast to the slow, measured cadences of the Cooke we see on television.

"And now this country is disturbing," he said. "It's upsetting to me."

How has it changed?

In appearance: "The thing I've noticed is that it's almost impossible to instantly identify a place the moment you get out of a plane. It's just miles of motelsville, second-hand car lots, hamburger stands, the refuse and litter.

"It's not a question of saving what's left; it's more of recovering what's lost. It's gone at such a speed."

In spirit: "What is sad today is that so many people are united in being afraid of their country. And this goes for all types—farmers, cowboys, real estate men, bankers, journalists, housewives."

Their country. Not their current administration, but their country itself. What caused it? Cooke shrugged in bewilderment.

Cooke was concerned also about the apathy he found to real or alleged corruption in Congress. He recalled the national shock over the Sherman Adams affair of the 1950s—a shock caused by the gift of a vicuna coat—and contrasted it with today's "pervading cynicism."

Vietnam? He thinks it has had "a profound effect on the old feeling that we can roll up our sleeves and fix everything."

Cooke doesn't speak with practiced ill-will. Just sadness, while cautioning that "I try to blanket my short-term pessimism with my long term optimism."

They're David Brinkley, Art Buchwald, William F. Buckley and Charlie McCabe, the last known to readers in San Francisco and elsewhere as author of the daily "Fearless Spectator" column.

Another surprise: when he began work on "America," he wasn't writing as an English journalist. He became a citizen of the United States four years after first reporting on how the country works.

THE TAX ISSUE: Dowd VS Bond

IS KIT'S WORD HIS BOND?

A close review of his actions and statements are making a lot of Missourians—Republicans and Democrats and Independents—wonder about Kit Bond.

An example: The St. Louis Post Dispatch feels there should be additional state revenue raised to pay for rapid transit systems for St. Louis and Kansas City. In an interview with Post reporter Fred Lindecke, Kit said he proposed paying for the cities' transit systems by applying a state-wide tax on gasoline. The Post liked that. They endorsed Kit for Governor.

But the people who didn't like the idea of a tax increase called Kit to task. He issued a statement in outstate Missouri saying he was really for a local option as opposed to a state-wide tax increase. Then Ed Dowd took Kit to task for advocating a tax increase when he admitted to the Missouri Supreme Court that he neither filed nor paid Missouri taxes for several years. Kit then told the voters Dowd misrepresented his position on a tax increase . . . but still has not charged the Post with misquoting him on his proposal to increase taxes.

So in the closing weeks of the campaign, Kit's message on taxes will vary depending on where you live.

FOR URBAN VOTERS ONLY:

If you live in St. Louis and Kansas City, Kit's telling you we can divert gas taxes from our highways (he endorsed the $720 million dollar bond issue) plus add a state-wide tax on gasoline and that's how we will build mass transit for our cities.

FOR NON-URBAN VOTERS:

If you live outside St. Louis and Kansas City, Kit's telling you he's for a local option tax on gasoline that would be used to just tax the city voters.

FOR VOTERS THAT DON'T WANT MORE TAXES:

If you meet Kit and tell him you think taxes are high enough already, he will tell you he agrees and has no idea where Ed Dowd got the idea that Kit Bond proposed an increase in taxes.

If you are a voter tired of Bond's double talk on taxes and don't know what to believe, believe this—Ed Dowd has said in the primary and in the general campaigns on television, radio and in the newspapers that he has one position on taxes: He is flatly opposed to any kind of tax increase.

YOU CAN WONDER ABOUT BOND BUT YOU CAN BELIEVE ED DOWD.

Relaxation Is Method For One Actor

EDITOR'S NOTE—Actor Alan Bates walked away from London's standing-room-only hit "Butley" after only seven months. Coaxed back for the Broadway opening, Bates made only a three-month commitment. It's his way of keeping histrionically loose.

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Alan Bates is guarding against middle-age sag.

"Acting sometimes becomes a process," asserts the noted British performer. "It is easy suddenly to become aware of a static phase."

The Bates early-alarm system explains why he has made only an improbable three-month commitment to a drama that has all the earmarks of major Broadway triumph.

His involvement with the play "Butley" began two summers ago. All about a man involved in ridiculous career bust-up, the sardonic comedy set critics cheering and audiences swarming. Bates quit the SRO exhibit after just seven months, and hied off to make a film we'll be seeing soon, "Impossible Object." His way of keeping histrionically loose.

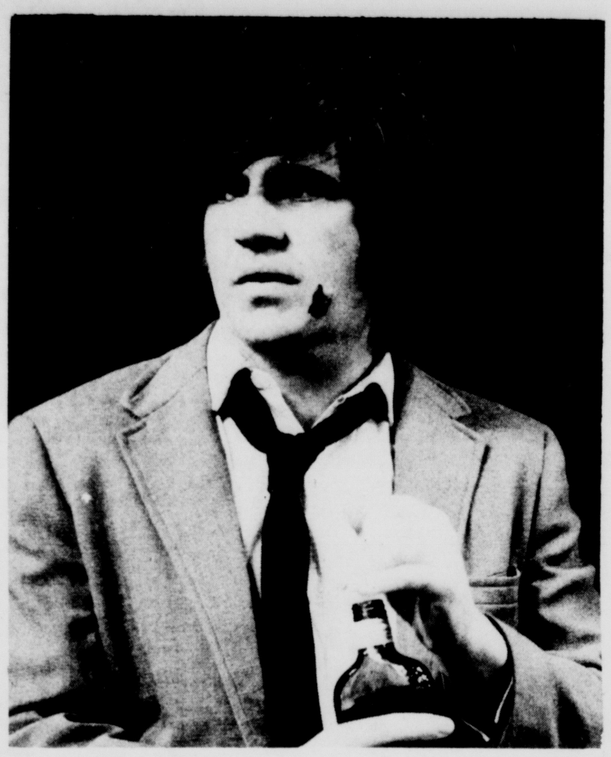
A certain amount of coaxing—after all an ego factor cannot be entirely suppressed—wooed Bates back when "Butley" was booked for inevitable transit to these shores. The premiere Oct. 31 at the Morosco Theater will be his first appearance in New York since 1965. Long lines of pre-opening ticket buyers have been sturdily attesting to the show's word-of-mouth and his own magnetism.

"If it turns out to be a great success," he hedges on contractual obligations, "there might be some extension of my involvement, but it would only be for a short period."

Like other in-demand actors, Bates laments the dilemma that today's theater economics imposes on creative freedom.

"Producers always want you for two years," he says, "and that's a long period in which you should be doing other things." He finds one recent London trend encouraging.

"Having other well-known actors take over parts is becoming rather smart there," he reports. "Two have followed me in 'Butley' and I don't think people feel now it is necessary to create a role of your own."



Keeping Butley Together

Alan Bates in the title role of "Butley," due to open on Broadway Oct. 31, plays a man coming apart. Alan Bates the actor is concerned with control, and deliberation. In "Butley," the British actor intends as usual to maintain firm spectator control, to prevent audience response getting off rhythm. And he's disciplined himself to only a three-month commitment to the play in New York. He'd previously quit the SRO exhibit in London after just seven months to go and make a movie — his way of keeping histrionically loose.

(AP)

In "Butley" Simon Gray reiterates a theme that has been used by several other contemporary playwrights.

"Perhaps," Bates appraises, "such interest in a man coming apart is symptomatic of this age. In early middle age one can't take seriously the values society traditionally imposes."

Bates has a completely open end on what follows this Gotham visit.

"I've been reading a lot of things, but I have deliberately made no decisions. I'd like to move on to directing. I'd also like to do a classical season in England. Or a musical. Several have been offered but nothing felt quite right."

"American and Canadian houses are the most exciting to work for; they show their feelings more than in England. But back home I don't think it's because people are less appreciative. They are just more withheld."

In "Butley," as usual, Bates intends to maintain firm spectator control.

"Audience response can get off-rhythm. You feel it more in some plays than in others. You have to guide an audience. If they start slipping up the wrong trail, it's probably your fault, you've gotten careless."

He has been rehearsing for the upcoming production as though it were an untested script. Everyone but him is brand new.

"Glibly you can look at the rest of the cast as satellites revolving around this sun of Butley," the star declares, "but one must respond totally to their rhythms and their personalities."

No Guessing Here

When most people see beans in a jar they guess how many there are. But not candy man Joe Henry. When it comes to jelly beans he counts every one and weighs them, too. The number of jelly beans per pound is one test of quality which Henry applies on the job as head of candies at the J.C. Penney Co. headquarters in New York.

Sweet Existence For 'The Candy Man'

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Henry's got the sweetest job in New York City. He's The Candy Man and The Candy Man Can:

Give away 100 pounds a week;

Breakfast on coffee and chocolate.

And tell you everything you always wanted to know about candy.

For example let's look into chocolate-covered cherries. Holding the candy firmly in the left hand, one pulls out a sharp knife and cuts a small triangle in it. Look at the watch. In precisely one minute, the goo should have covered the piece of cut chocolate and proceeded another half inch. Too short or too far would be deficient. Then there's the cherry itself. Hold under hot water until everything but the cherry melts. The trusty ruler should still be handy. At a quarter of an inch in diameter, Henry would call it commercial. That means cheap to you. Add another eighth of an inch and it has moved up into good quality. That shows its price just went up. At three-fourths of an inch in diameter, he calls it top quality. That's what you buy for the boss' wife.

Joe Henry can tell you about them all. He's been in the candy business virtually all of his 50 years. His father, a Lebanese, told him he was going to learn two things in life: how to read and write Arabic and how to make candy.

By 15, he was a qualified candymaker, a designation the industry understands and respects.

He's also the most popular man in the entire J. C. Penney skyscraper in midtown Manhattan where he works as a candy buyer.

Henry says he doesn't ever recall throwing any candy away. And for more good news, he claims candy isn't fattening, although he downs about 1,000 calories worth daily.

"It curbs your appetite and takes away the desire to eat the big fattening desserts," he maintains. Henry is 5-foot-9 and weights 190.

Henry's detective work can tell him the size of the candy plant, the type of equipment, whether it's new, generally the number of people who work there and a very close idea of the formula that's being used.

He is one of the few all around qualified candy makers in the business today. Specialization, it seems, has crept into the world of Easter bunnies and Halloween corn. Now, they're either into chocolate, or creme, or hard candy or chewies or the grained. Grained is fudge.

"There are only seven basic types of candy, but with all the combinations, there are about 6,000 different pieces," Henry says. "The seventh was invented 75 years ago."

It was fudge and its creation came about this way. The candy man made a batch of caramel and forgot to put it away and it grained off and that's how fudge was invented. The man's name was not Mr. Fudge and nobody knows where he got the name.

Henry says the only new gimmicks are in packaging, the big thing for the trick or treat market this year being monster packages. One must determine what one is paying for these packages. So Henry counts jellybeans per pound, carefully scans the bags of red and white cartwheel mints to see if the red comes into the middle, and checks the chocolate content in chocolate products. Nineteen per cent chocolate is, alas, merely commercial, 36 per cent is very good and 40 to 45 per cent again is made to order for the boss' wife.

With an abundance that the nearly $2 billion a year industry can offer, Henry himself prefers the 39-cent orange slices, those tangerine looking things with the white sugar.

"Last night. I bought a Hershey bar on the train."

How sweet the candy business is.

Dwellers Could Press Landlords For New Leads

By JIM HUFNAGEL
Written for Associated Press

If you think the daily paper provides your only line to a new apartment, you may be missing out on many unique rental opportunities. A lot of premium places never make official listings. To widen your choice, try some less obvious sleuthing.

For starters, run your own ad, adding your address and a line detailing your specific needs.

Another approach is to contact the manager of a building you'd like to live in, even though you know he has nothing currently available. In a personal letter of introduction, describe your needs and preferences. List a few references. By making friends with the manager, you let him know you take a serious interest in your housing situation and would probably be a reliable renter.

If you plan to change address, but not neighborhood, keep an eye on local underground ads. Bulletin boards in coin laundries, schools, churches, grocery stores and college unions also turn up real bargains. Also scan organization news letters for rental ads.

Local advertising circulars frequently feature ads for apartments in their circulation area. Since dailies charge more for ads, many of these listings never appear in the big papers.

Similarly, some apartment managers never invest in media advertising of any kind. Instead, they'll post a sign out front—a grassroots method which works surprisingly well. To take advantage of this point of purchase technique, spend an afternoon roving the neighborhood of your choice. And don't move too fast—some choice places sport the smallest signs.

Ask around for leads. Policemen, mailmen and businessmen generally know the community scene—including housing news.

Stop by university and vocational schools for copies of their current "approved student housing" lists.

When using the daily papers for help, don't simply start at the top of column one and phone every apartment on the list. Large holding companies retain one or two agents who handle hundreds of units. Look for clues—listings with the same phone number, a recurring company name—and call the big ones first. If you give a corporation rep your personal specifications he may match you with an apartment that hasn't even been advertised yet.

Most cities have rental agencies which will give you professional help. Some offer hundreds of units and serve strictly as go-betweens for perspective renters and owners. And they don't handle just slow renting apartments.

Ragland, Proctor for SFCC board

Voters in the State Fair Community College district will have the opportunity Tuesday to elect two members of the board of trustees for six-year terms.

There are five candidates seeking the positions, three from Pettis County and two from Benton County. It will be the first at-large election of trustees, since a federal court threw out an election held April 4 and ordered a new one.

Of the two Benton County candidates, the name of John W. Ragland stands out. An original member and vice president of the junior college board, Ragland has consistently put the interests of the school first. He is running on a platform of restoring harmony to the board and improving State Fair Community College.

Ragland's solid educational training, his 33 years of experience as superintendent of schools in Cole Camp, and his many other civic contributions make him the clear choice over his opponent, Leonard Heisterberg.

The Benton County Taxpayers Association is urging voters to cast only one ballot, and that for Heisterberg. This is an effort to deny Ragland support in his native county and to eliminate votes for Pettis County candidates. The tactic is in keeping with past practices of the Taxpayers Association, which has consistently been hostile to State Fair Community College, opposing every effort to move the school forward in a unified manner.

Obviously, were Pettis County voters of a mind to, they could easily deny Benton County any new representation on the board of trustees under the new one-man, one-vote arrangement.

But for the sake of balance and harmony within the district, this would not be wise or proper. A vote for John W. Ragland would achieve the above results, while electing a man of undisputed qualifications at the same time.

For the remaining seat on the board, Dr. Donald C. Proctor appears to be the most qualified. As a member of the board for the past six years, Dr. Proctor has had a prime role during the college's developmental period, and, like Ragland, would be best qualified to oversee the school's continued improvement in the coming years, when major decisions must be made.

We would not detract from the qualifications of the two other Pettis County candidates, LeRoy N. Klein and Otis M. Thomas. But in the case of Dr. Proctor, based on his past record and interest in State Fair Community College, we see no reason to deny him another term.

Jimmy the Greek: Nixon By 100 to 1

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The nation's No. 1 oddsmaker, Jimmy the Greek, now rates President Nixon an overwhelming 100-to-1 favorite to win re-election next Tuesday. Indeed, the President has a good chance — one in six, by Jimmy's calculations — of winning all 50 states.

Jimmy considers the Democrats, however, strong favorites to keep control of Congress. He sees little chance of a Republican takeover in the House, but the struggle for the Senate could be closer.

He gives the Democrats 6-to-1 odds to hold the Senate because of their statistical advantage. They now have a 10-member margin, with only 14 seats at stake as against 19 for the Republicans.

The GOP candidates would have to win 24 seats to take control of the Senate. Jimmy rates them safely ahead in 11 states, slightly ahead in 10 others. This would give them only 21 seats. The Democrats, on the other hand, have a safe edge in five states, a slight edge in seven.

In other words, 17 Senate races are so close that the new line-up is in considerable doubt. Several gubernatorial races are equally tight. The deciding factor could well be the length of President Nixon's coattails.

The fabulous Greek has just completed his election eve survey for us. Here's how he calls the close Senate races:

Alabama — Sen. John Sparkman, Democrat, 2-to-1 favorite over Winton Blount; Delaware — Sen. J. Caleb Boggs, Republican, 9-to-5 favorite over Joseph Biden Jr.; Georgia — Sam Nunn, Democrat, 6-to-5 over Fletcher Thompson; Idaho — James McClure, Republican, 7-to-5 over William (Bud) Davis; Iowa — Sen. Jack Miller and Richard Clark, a toss-up, with a slight tilt toward the Republican incumbent.

Kentucky — Louie Nunn, Republican, 5-to-2 over Walter Huddleston; Louisiana — J. Bennett Johnston, Democrat, 6-to-5 over John McKeithen, an independent; Michigan — Sen. Robert Griffin, Republican, 7-to-5 over Frank Kelley; Nebraska — Sen. Carl Curtis, Republican, 5-to-2 over Terry Carpenter; New Mexico — Pete Domenici, Republican, 2-to-1 over Jack Daniels.

North Carolina — Nick Galifianakis, Democrat, 2-to-1 over Jesse Helms; Oklahoma — Dewey Bartlett, Republican, 8-to-5 over Ed Edmondson; Rhode Island — John Chafee, Republican, 6-to-5 over Sen. Claiborne Pell; South Dakota — James Abourezk, Democrat, 7-to-5 over Robert Hirsch; Texas — Sen. John Tower, Republican, 11-to-10 over Harold "Barefoot" Sanders; Virginia — Sen. William Spong, Democrat, 8-to-5 over William Scott.

The Greek points out that last-minute gains, particularly by Pell in Rhode Island and Sanders in Texas, could change the odds. Indeed, all the underdogs are running close enough to upset the favorites.

Beyond striking range, in Jimmy's book, are such favorites as Minnesota's Sen. Walter Mondale, who has a 25-to-1 advantage; Maine's Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, 15-to-1; Massachusetts' Sen. Edward Brooke, 10-to-1. More vulnerable but still safe, says Jimmy, are Colorado's Sen. Gordon Allott, 4-to-1; South Carolina's Sen. Strom Thurmond, 4-to-1; Tennessee's Sen. Howard Baker, 4-to-1; Montana's Sen. Lee Metcalf, 3-to-1; Oregon's Sen. Mark Hatfield, 3-to-1; and West Virginia's Sen. Jennings Randolph, 3-to-1.

The closest gubernatorial race — Republican Otis Bowen vs. Democrat Matthew Welsh in Indiana — is so close Jimmy can't call it. But he gives slight edges to Democrat Daniel Walker, 11-to-10 over Gov. Richard Ogilvie in Illinois; Democrat Sherman Tribbitt, 11-to-10, over Gov. Russell Peterson in Delaware; Democrat Hargrove Bowles, 11-to-10 over James Holshouse, Jr., in North Carolina; Democrat Jay Rockefeller 11-to-10 over Gov. Arch Moore in West Virginia; and Republican Christopher Bond, 8-to-5 over Edward Dowd in Missouri.

Rep. Sam Devine, R-Ohio, one of Congress's most vocal law-and-order men, has been fronting for a police widow's fund that used up 80 per cent of its money on salaries and expenses.

Devine wrote a tear-jerking solicitation letter, pleading that "a slain policeman's widow and child need your care." It brought in well over $100,000 for the United Police Fund.

However, it wasn't the slain policemen's families who got most of the loving care, but veteran conservative fundraisers Pat Gorman and John Colcombe.

Gorman withheld $60,000 of the $105,000 collected. He said most of this went for postage, mailing lists, printing and the like, leaving him a net of only $10,500. Colcombe got another $15,000.

At the United Police Fund, a spokesman acknowledged that expenses had been high and said Gorman had been dropped as the chief fundraiser. The spokesman said $15,500 had actually been given to police widows and another $4,000 would be distributed soon.

Devine, reached on the campaign trail, exploded: "I'm shocked that the majority of the money did not go to the widows and orphans. I hate like hell to be used this way, as a patsy. I can assure you I didn't get a nickel out of it."

A conservative view

All in all, it has been a lousy campaign

By JAMES KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — In another few hours, relatively speaking, the lights will go down; the cleaning crews will sweep out the last littered hall; George McGovern will fly home to South Dakota, and the campaign will have ended at last. I thought it never would.

Kilpatrick

By all the usual indications, we can look for a landslide on Tuesday. This is the consensus of the news magazines and the professional pollsters. They are hinting at the lively possibility that Nixon may sweep all 50 states and lose only the District of Columbia. My own seat-of-the-pants guess is Nixon, 54 per cent; McGovern, 44, and everyone else, maybe 2. If these collective prophecies are anywhere near the mark, Nixon will claim an overwhelming victory. He won't have earned it.

This has been a dismal campaign — dismal in every particular way. If the outcome is as lopsided as it now appears to be looking back to the Goldwater-Johnson election of 1964. There are certain superficial parallels: Goldwater, a political unknown, came from a small state; he put together a pre-convention team that wrapped up the nomination before his opponents knew what was happening; and Johnson, for his part, perched on his Gallup Poll and declined to debate. Yet the parallels are misleading.

That 1964 campaign had a sense of dedication and excitement, a sense of conflict, that has been sadly lacking in 1972. Goldwater's billboards carried his slogan: "You know in your heart he is right." Wags were forever slipping around with paint brushes in the night, to insert a little modifier: "far" in front of "right." It was generally true. The philosophical chasm was clear. And Goldwater, the human being, was loved firecely — loved with the same fervor that in other years went to a Roosevelt or a Kennedy.

We have missed all that in 1972. There are differences, of course, between Nixon and McGovern; on such matters as national defense and the make-up of the Supreme Court, the two men are far apart. Otherwise one searches in vain for sharp differences in philosophy. This is partly because Nixon has none, and partly because McGovern never could make his own philosophy clear. And McGovern, the human being, proved about as embraceable as a clammy pillow.

For all the thousands of words that were said of Vietnam, I cannot recall that McGovern ever probed past the easy epithets and got down to the hard, troublesome questions of the role of the U.S. as defender of Western values. There is indeed a monstrous irony in a national posture that toasts the Communists in Peking and Miscow, and bombs the Communists in Hanoi. McGovern remarked the irony; he seemed unable to do much more.

On the issues of consistency and credibility, Nixon was woefully vulnerable. This was the Nixon who campaigned against deficit spending, and rolled up the most staggering deficits in fiscal history. This was the Nixon who opposed price and wage controls, and imposed them. This was the Nixon, defender of law and order, who turned his back while underlings bugged the Watergate.

McGovern had capital here; he squandered it. He had set out to be the candidate who would be beyond distortion and evasion. Let the chips fall: He would be, above all else, believable. A week or so ago, in California, McGovern dealt with Nixon's vetoes of October 27; he distorted them. Questions kept arising about the defense bases McGovern would close; he evaded them. He kept promising to end inflation by providing self-fulfilling jobs for everyone; the people clapped, but the people did not believe.

So the lights go down, and the cleaning crews come in. Clear the arenas! Next week, ice hockey. Yet the disappointment cannot be swept away so quickly. Assume the landslide: Nixon will face problems of governing this nation more severe than the problems he faced four years ago. Then the momentum of a changing administration could sustain him. He enjoyed, for a time, the traditional honeymoon of a first-term President.

That honeymoon ended a long time ago. The Nixon administration is tarnished by scandal. It leads not by ardent choice, but by dispirited default. Somehow, God knows how, Nixon must pick up the pieces of this broken year and put the country back together again. He may not be a philosopher, but he is a first-class man-of-all-work. And perhaps that is just what we need for the four more years that lie ahead.

Today's thoughts

What is best is what will be, and what has been done is what will be done; and there is nothing new under the sun. — Eccl. 1:9.

The glass plate

It was a glass plate, scalloped edge and designed,
And somehow or other it came to my mind
Was this an antique, or how did it rate,
Something of value or a ten-cent store plate?
I don't know the difference, little heed do I pay
And I just don't know why that I wondered that day,
I went on with my work of trying to put back
Things in cabinets and drawers and pot lids in a rack,
Into my cabinets I again tried to wedge
The things taken out, but there on the edge
Of the table, (still loaded), was this plate of glass
I picked up something near it and — ah, alas,
It slipped to the floor, glass everywhere scattered;
Was it antique or cheap? Well, I don't think it mattered,
If I didn't know, then why should I weep,
I decided right then to consider it cheap,
So I got out the dust pan, swept it up in a flash
And emptied it into a sack with the trash.

Tuesday: day of indecision

WASHINGTON — It was Election Day and Stieglitz, who was undecided on how he was going to vote, woke up at 7 o'clock. His wife asked him what he wanted for breakfast.

"I don't know," Stieglitz said.

"Do you want eggs or do you want cereal?"

"I like eggs," Stieglitz said, "but I also enjoy cereal."

Buchwald

"Well, what about pancakes?"

"I hadn't thought of pancakes," Stieglitz said. "That really does make the choice hard."

"Would you make up your mind?" Stieglitz' wife asked.

"Do you want waffles?"

After breakfast they got into his car to go to the voting polls at the local public school.

"How are you going to get there?" Stieglitz' wife asked.

"If I go down Foxhall Road I'll run into a lot of traffic. But if I go down MacArthur Boulevard I'll hit a lot of lights."

"That's an interesting question," Stieglitz said. "I don't mind driving, yet if you drove I wouldn't have to decide which way I wanted to go to the public school. Yet I don't see why you should drive since it's my car. But then again, you've driven my car before. Of course you haven't driven it when we were going to vote."

"Oh, for heaven's sakes!" Stieglitz' wife screamed. "Will you do something?"

Stieglitz started the car.

As they arrived at the public school they discovered many other voters had arrived already and Stieglitz had a difficult time finding a place to park.

"What about over there?" his wife suggested, pointing out a space next to the playground.

"It looks like a good spot," Stieglitz agreed. "But maybe after I park there somebody will park behind me and I'll have difficulty pulling out."

"Well, park over there behind the red car."

"I could park over there, but then I might be sorry I didn't park by the playground."

"What are you going to do?"

Stieglitz finally parked and he and his wife walked into the school. The lady behind the table gave Stieglitz a slip of paper. "You may go to any one of the three booths that are empty."

"Any one of the three?"

"Yes, they're all alike. It doesn't make any difference which one you vote in."

Stieglitz just stood there and stared.

"Please, sir," the lady said, "you're holding up the line."

"I don't know which booth to go into," Stieglitz said.

"All right, go into the first one."

"Why not the second or the third one?" Stieglitz demanded. "You said they were all alike."

"All right, go into the second or third one if you want to."

"Why not the first one?"

The policeman came over and said, "Okay, Mac, I've had it up to here with you people. You get your tail in one of those booths and pull the lever or I'll split your skull!"

"Pull the lever?" Stieglitz asked. "Up or down?"

Tannah Hirsch, who just resigned as editor of the American Contract Bridge League Bulletin to do free lance writing, also plays some rubber bridge. In a recent game at New York's Cavendish Club he found himself in a six-heart contract after one of those complicated bidding sequences that occur in some rubber bridge games.

North's three-club bid was strong in the Stayman sequence being used. Tannah's three-diamond call was some sort of slam try and after several more bids the good slam was reached.

Dummy's ace of spades won the first trick and Tannah saw that five trump tricks plus five clubs and two aces would give him the 12 he needed.

He led a trump. East played the queen. Tannah thought a while and remarked, "There is a rhyme that starts something like 'See a queen and pick it up. All the day you'll have good luck,' but I think my luck will be better if I let this queen win."

He played his eight of trumps and East was on lead. It didn't really matter what East did. Tannah was now sure to be able to ruff his two losing spades in dummy; draw West's last three trumps and finally discard his 10 and five of diamonds on dummy's long clubs.

Let's see what would happen if Tannah picked up that trump queen. He could try all sorts of plays from that time on but he would not be able to ruff two spades and bring in the whole trump suit provided West took his sure trump trick at the right time.

Foreigner Returning in Increasing Numbers to Anti-Imperialist China

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

PEKING (AP) — The foreigner, once detested as an imperialist intruder, is returning in ever increasing numbers to a China which still vigorously waves the banner of anti-imperialism.

Nineteen months ago the Americans were described as the most repellent imperialists of all. This year, following the February visit of President Nixon to Peking, more than 500 Americans have made the China tour, often encompassing visits to the Great Wall, the eating of Peking duck, and lessons in acupuncture.

"The gate of friendly contacts between the people of the two countries is now open," says the official Hsinhua news agency.

Three months ago, the Japanese government headed by Eisaku Sato winced under repeated Chinese charges it was headed down the garden path to militarism. Yet a month ago the new prime minister, Kakuei Tanaka, returned from Peking with diplomatic recognition. In the words of Hsinhua he had "opened a new page in the history of relations between the two countries."

In fact nearly 4,000 Japanese made the pilgrimage to Canton, Shanghai and Peking in the first nine months of 1972.

More than 500 delegations of all kinds from 90 countries—many of them Communist but a large number not—have come to China.

This has been accompanied by a vast exodus of Chinese table tennis players, basketball, football, ice hockey, badminton, skating and gymnastic teams to 52 countries around the globe, 16 of them with no diplomatic ties to Peking.

Chinese trade delegations, journalists, doctors and diplomats have joined the parade as China's influence continues to widen internationally.

The ebb and flow of foreigners into China, and of Chinese going out, is a product of Communist chairman Mao Tse-tung's "revolutionary line in foreign affairs." Under it, the people of a country are described as essentially good, even if their leaders may be less than admirable. How does this encompass movements called American imperialism and Japanese militarism? In the words of one Chinese here, "They represent a small percentage of the whole."

Though the foreigners are coming back, they do so under Chinese terms. The run-down Tudor houses on "Banker's Row" in Shanghai, occupied by poor Chinese families, the moldering mansions on Canton's Shameen Island, festooned with proletarian laundry, and the once-elegant Peking houses where foreigners once lived, are evidence that the old order has passed.

A few foreigners still live in solitary splendor in Shanghai, their business with the People's Republic smoothed by a gracious existence in spacious homes staffed by servants. But they are the handful which prove the rule, the reminder of things past. No longer is Shanghai divided into British, French, Japanese and Chinese areas. It is all Chinese.

From the 17th floor of the old Broadway (now Shanghai) Mansions, visitors are shown the splendors of the old Bund, a row of stately buildings now doing duty under different names.

The Broadway Mansions itself, where foreign correspondents and U.S. military men lived after World War II, is maintained in carpeted luxury, a hotel for Chinese visitors.

Canton's Shameen Island, floating in the Pearl River, is half a mile long, 400 yards wide. It used to be the site of the French and British concession; after 10 p.m. its two stone bridges were closed to Chinese. Today, Chinese stroll under the shade of its splendid banyan trees or sit over a game of chess. The foreigner draws curious stares.

The Protestant and Roman Catholic cathedrals have fallen into disrepair, and the paint has peeled from the superb villas which line the riverfront. But government offices and Communist trade missions, meticulously maintained, illustrate what it all once was.

Few foreigners live in Canton or Shanghai compared to the thousands of yesteryear. But the foreign population of Peking—chiefly diplomats and journalists—grows rapidly.

So far, 81 countries have recognized the People's Republic, among the latest Japan and West Germany. When they move into their embassies, possibly early next year, the diplomatic population will make a large upward bound from its present 1,200.

Most diplomats and foreign correspondents are restricted to the Peking area, though with the new open diplomacy, they have begun to see other parts of the country in periodic guided tours.

Many complain of boredom: there is virtually no theater, no Western movies, no symphony concerts, no night clubs or cabarets, no bars.

But there are compensations. Peking food is among the best in the world, the city itself is a collection of cultural splendors, and the Chinese, though less accessible than in the past, are civilized, well behaved and friendly.

There are, too, some positive negatives: no tipping, no mugging, no appreciable smog, and no narcotics.

The old Peking Club, where foreigners once ate strawberries and cream beside the swimming pool, became the International Club under the Communists, a gray, sleepy echo of the brilliant past. It now is being replaced by a bright, new multistory structure on Chang An Boulevard, the wide avenue which runs past Tienamen, the Gate of Heavenly Peace. Next to it is an apartment complex for foreigners.

Some newsmen of the 40 or so residents in Peking occupy individual houses, but most live in apartments reserved for foreigners. Spacious and well built, these are described by their occupants as comfortable "ghettos," little islands in the vast Chinese sea.

Diplomats and newsmen complain most about what seems to be a conscious effort to keep Chinese and foreigners apart.

To the foreigners of the old society this would have been a source of amusement; they spent their time maintaining the walls between themselves and the Chinese.

The new foreigner is a different breed. In general, he has chosen to live and work here because he is interested in the people, the country and its history. He would forego the luxuries for opportunities to know the Chinese better and on closer terms.

Surrogates Are Foiling Strategy Of Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Thomas F. Eagleton was the Democratic vice-presidential candidate and Richard Nixon held a 19-point lead in the Gallup Poll, a strategist for George McGovern said the gap would be closed when the President "comes out and starts making mistakes."

But he didn't take into account the surrogates.

Now, 3½ months later, Sargent Shriver is McGovern's running-mate, the latest Gallup Poll has Nixon ahead by 23 points. And Nixon has not come out very often.

While Nixon personally has maintained a low-key approach to the campaign, his message has been carried to the voters by Cabinet officers, Republican senators and congressmen, governors and federal-agency heads.

"I can't think of any case in modern history where a president relied so much on surrogates," historian and author James MacGregor Burns said in a telephone interview.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Burns said, "would wait until the last two or three weeks of a campaign and then he would come out swinging, and would be very effective."

Incumbent presidents have always used some surrogate candidates, said Theodore H. White, author of "The Making of the President" books since 1960. "But never on this scale. This is really organized."

McGovern, who has campaigned 10 to 14 hours a day almost every day since Labor Day, has attacked Nixon's strategy and has complained that newsmen unfairly give the surrogates equal coverage to his own campaigning.

"I don't think the President ought to be allowed to sit there in the White House and have these lackeys of his running around the country, getting equal time with me every day," he has said.

The Committee for the Re-election of the President lists 35 official surrogate candidates—five governors, eight Cabinet secretaries, seven agency heads or high White House aides, 10 senators, three members of the House, one mayor and one former ambassador.

This roster does not include Nixon's family. Nor does it include many government officials such as Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, Republican National Committee Chairman Sen. Robert J. Dole, or Nixon campaign chairman, Clark MacGregor.

Nixon's wife and two daughters have visited an aggregate 44 states and covered nearly 100,000 miles since the Republican convention in August, taking the Nixon presence to dinners, dedications, parades, state fairs and numerous campaign offices.

A spokesman for the Committee for the Re-election of the President said she didn't think the campaigning by surrogates was planned.

"People just said they wanted to help out. It was sort of an evolution," she said.

Shrine Circus Visit Plan Is Announced

Sixty boys from the Sedalia Boys Club will be the guests of the Sedalia Shrine Club at the annual Shrine Circus in Kansas City Wednesday evening.

Boys Club members wishing to attend must have a signed permission slip from their parents. Plans are to leave from the Boys Club building at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday. Those wishing further information are asked to contact the Boys Club.

The Shrine Circus is an annual event of the Ararat Shrine Club of Kansas City, and proceeds from the activity go to Shrine crippled children's hospitals throughout the U.S.

Between 1850-60, more than 150,000 white settlers pushed into Santee Sioux territory west of the Minnesota River.

Farm Export Record Forecast This Year

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm exports will rise to a record $10 billion this fiscal year, up 25 per cent from the previous high set in 1971-72, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz predicted Thursday.

A main reason, Butz said, is a $1.2 billion deal with the Soviet Union for wheat, feed grain and soybeans. That will help push farm exports up from $8.1 billion last year.

Further, Butz said, the Soviet Union—which bought about one-fourth of this year's wheat crop—is expected to keep buying foreign grain at least through 1975.

"We expect the USSR to remain a major importer of grain for possibly the next 3-5 years," Butz said. But other customers also are important for American farmers.

Japan, historically the biggest buyer, will continue as leader with an estimated $1.5 billion in purchases during the year ending next June 30, Butz said.

The projection of $10 billion—a goal set by President Nixon early in his administration—also will mean a substantial contribution to the U.S. trade balance.

Butz said the farm sales will mean a $3.5 billion surplus in U.S. farm exchange with foreign countries.

"This increase," he said, "should reduce the nation's over-all deficit below last years $5.1 billion mark, despite an expected increase in the nonfarm deficit this year."

The predicted rise in farm exports means a fourth consecutive year for larger foreign sales, from $5.7 billion in 1968-69.

Grain, particularly wheat and soybeans, is the mainstay in the growth expected this year, Butz said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has ordered all agencies in his department to increase efforts on behalf of farm cooperatives and to submit progress reports on steps they take.

Citing co-op marketing laws passed by Congress over the past four decades, Butz said USDA has an obligation to "offer maximum encouragement" to cooperatives as vehicles in improving rural life.

Butz, in a memorandum, ordered administrators to review annually all programs relating to co-ops and to update them periodically.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Planting of winter wheat in the southern Great Plains area was almost completed by the end of October and the crop appeared in good shape in most of the region, says the Agriculture Department.

New Arrival

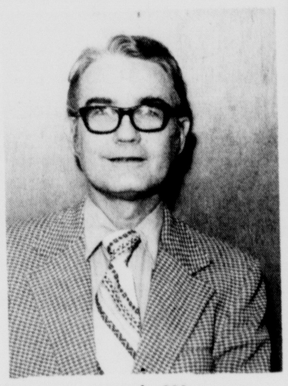
WHY RE-ELECT DR. DONALD C. PROCTOR?

BECAUSE.

State Fair Community College needs the experience of qualified men like Don Proctor to serve on the Board of Trustees. Here is what has happened while Dr. Proctor has been a charter member of the board:



★ SFCC enrollment has increased from approximately 300 to over 1000 students in a little over 4 years.
★ Federal and state grants to the college have amounted to several hundred thousand dollars.
★ The SFCC curriculum has expanded from a few courses to a comprehensive program for both adults and young people alike. Over 650 adults are taking evening classes alone.
★ Administration and faculty personnel employed are second to none as far as Junior Colleges are concerned.
★ Land has been purchased and options exercised to build a permanent campus, which will be a credit to this area.

LET'S NOT LOSE THE EXPERIENCE OF DR. PROCTOR

First Hand Knowledge In Idea

MIAMI (AP) — The Rev. Kim Porter recently took his college sociology class for a first-hand glimpse of erotica at an adult bookstore.

"I believe as a teacher and a minister that experimental learning is the best type," said the Rev. Mr. Porter. "So I decided that instead of lecturing for three hours, I should let them see for themselves."

Many of his 20 students, who ranged in age from 20 to 50, reacted with embarrassment and revulsion.

The Rev. Mr. Porter, 32, associate pastor at Kendall United Methodist Church, termed the visit to the adult bookstore "effective and useful."

The class, which the pastor teaches at Miami-Dade Junior College, pretty much had the store to themselves. The 19-year-old attendant at the store said most of his regular customers were absent, possibly scared away by the unusual class project.

The students took in the 25-cent booth movies, whose story lines are noted for their paucity of dialogue. They thumbed through the $3.50 girlie magazines, and the $5 male magazines.

The Rev. Mr. Porter invited along the store's lawyer, Joel Hirschhorn, who told the students the store's wares don't compare with what they might see in Denmark.

A 48-year-old librarian said she wasn't convinced. "I'm embarrassed and nauseated. This makes Playboy look like Sunday school material," she said.

The Rev. Mr. Porter's class also has studied welfare by "rapping with welfare recipients," correctional work by meeting with 15 prison parolees and plans to move into the problems of minority groups by inviting in a group of Cuban exiles next week.

As for himself, said the pastor, "I believe in Christian standards, but I would not go in and close down a bookstore. I can't approve of censorship because I don't know who will be the next censor.

"Jesus went out in the street where the people were. He chose the most ordinary people to be his disciples. I should meet people where they are, and some of them happen to be in that bookstore."

As for the books, he said, "I don't think these books are especially sinful. Sin is found in the heart."

Muggers Undermine London Atmosphere

By DONALD FORBES
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Muggers, including gangs of teen-age girls armed with switchblade knives, are undermining London's reputation as a city with safe streets. Police are trying to keep the crime from taking firm root in Britain.

Two years ago an American resident reported to police the mugging of his 12-year-old son in fashionable Kensington Gardens. The embarrassed police told the father, "Oh, this doesn't happen here."

It is happening, with sufficient frequency to prompt John Hill, taking over soon as Britain's top policeman, to promise highest priority for a campaign against street violence.

"We don't want a New York-type situation in this country," said Hill, currently a deputy commissioner at Scotland Yard.

Cases in the past few weeks which have aroused public concern include: a 79-year-old church verger battered to death for the equivalent of a quarter; a young woman raped and her date beaten; a teacher in her 20s attacked and robbed by three teen-age girls.

Judges have reacted by imposing sentences on defendants who might ordinarily have expected to escape with a fine or a period of probation. Three youths who beat up a man for $1.20 were given three-year terms.

The danger areas are slum districts during the school lunch hour or just after classes finish for theday, or the subway when the late-night crowds have begun to thin.

Police calculate that several dozen gangs of girl muggers are operating. They specialize in attacks on elderly women.

Figures show that 80 per cent of London muggings are carried out by nonwhite youths, usually the English-born sons of West Indian immigrants.

YOU HAVE A CHOICE:

NIXON - A REPUBLICAN FOR THE FAVORED FEW

OR

McGOVERN - A DEMOCRAT FOR THE PEOPLE

Nixon and several large American grain-dealing corporations are basking in the glory of the largest grain deal in history.

DID THIS HELP YOU?

Under the Nixon administration it costs the average family of four $450 a year more to buy groceries in 1972 than it did in 1969.

DID THIS HELP YOU?

Nixon vetoed funds for student loans and actually REFUSED to spend money which was appropriated by Congress for educational purposes.
NOT JUST ONE INCIDENT . . . BUT

DID THIS HELP YOU?

Under Nixon, unemployment has increased from 3 million to 6 million people, but he still opposes government programs that would provide jobs for people who want to work.

DID THIS HELP YOU?

Last year, Congress passed a bill to provide day-care for 8 million preschool children of working mothers. Nixon vetoed — to kill the bill.

DID THIS HELP YOU?

"I have pledged that the next Secretary of Agriculture will be a farmer - not an apologist for giant agri-business corporations"
Geo. McGovern.

THIS WILL HELP YOU!

George McGovern will work to stop runaway food prices curbing excess profits of giant food chains.

THIS WILL HELP YOU!

George McGovern sponsored the Student Insured Loan Program of 1969 and would create $5,000 scholarships for 200,000 students each year.

THIS WILL HELP YOU!

George McGovern guarantees a job for every man or woman who is willing to work and has introduced legislation providing an immediate $10 Billion Job Program creating 206 million jobs.

THIS WILL HELP YOU!

George McGovern co-sponsored the comprehensive Child Development Act and called the veto of that act a "shameful treatment of millions of Americans."

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR MIKE CONNORS of TV's "Mannix"

Who does the driving in the chase scenes in "Mannix"? Do you use the same car in one or more shows?—John Tapparo, Healdsburg, Calif.

● I do 90 percent of it. We analyze the situation from a danger viewpoint, and if it seems to cross over that fine line beyond which I should not take a chance, then I don't do it. Stunt men are experts at this, and even they get injured sometimes. Many an actor has permanently disabled himself because he let his ego rather than common sense dictate how much of a chance he should take. Also, if I'm injured the whole company must shut down until I recover. As for your second question, we have three identical cars, two of which are being repaired while the third one is taking its lumps.

FOR DR. BILLY GRAHAM

How do you answer people who ask, "How can I find God?" —Leo L. Smith, Chicago, Ill.

● To find God, the Bible teaches these simple steps: Believe that God is. Realize that God loves you. Understand that God's love found expression in the giving of His son, Jesus Christ, to die for mankind. Accept Jesus' sacrifice as washing away your guilt—no matter how you have misspent your years. Finally, commit your whole self to Him. If you take these steps, you will find God.

FOR NATE ARCHIBALD, guard on the Kansas City-Omaha Kings basketball team

How do you answer critics who say that a man as small as you is endangering himself by using the driving, penetrating tactics you favor?—Daniel Francis, Dayton, Ohio

● I just tell them, "My heart is bigger than you think it is." The small, quick man always has the advantage over the big man. The big man can't adjust fast enough to the little man's moves.

FOR ANN-MARGRET

Are you a good cook?—V. S., Oceanside, Calif.

● No, I don't do any cooking. But my husband [Roger Smith] is a great cook—a gourmet cook! You wouldn't believe the chili he makes. He learned to make it during the 14 years he lived in Mexico.

FOR GOV. GEORGE C. WALLACE of Alabama

Recuperating from your bullet wounds looks like it's going to take a long time. Are you going to try to run for President again in 1976?—F. N., Jonesboro, Ark.

● My plans right now are just to be here in 1976. But if my health is good, then I'll be interested.

FOR ENGELBERT HUMPERDINCK, singer

When I was watching you at the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas, I thought you said that you were born in England. But I read somewhere that you were born in India. Which is correct?—D. Z., Ogden, Utah

● My family's home was in Leicester, but my father was a captain in the British Army, and I was born in Madras, India.

FOR CONNIE STEVENS

With all of the traveling you do, how can you make a home for your children? [Miss Stevens has two children, ages three and four, by Eddie Fisher.—Ed.]—R. James, Indio, Cal.

● They go with me wherever I go. Like when I co-hosted a television series in London for six months last year. Instead of staying at a hotel I took a house because there were eight of us—my two children, my six-year-old nephew, governess, cook, my secretary, my manager and of course, me.

FOR CHAD EVERETT

You have a new record album. How's it doing?—F. Clyde, Santa Fe, N. M.

● Lousy. And I blame the distribution for it. For instance, not long ago I went to Fort Worth and Dallas to promote the album, and I must have signed a thousand autographs —which obviously indicated a goodly demand for the records. But then I was told there were only 100 records available in Fort Worth and 125 in Dallas.

FOR JON VOIGHT, star of "Deliverance"

You've been campaigning for Sen. George McGovern. Isn't it chancy careerwise for an actor to get involved in politics? —Larry Bryant, Grand Rapids, Mich.

● I think it's chancy nowadays for anyone to absent himself from politics. And actors are able to say more than most people, because no one's their boss. We're free agents today, we don't belong to studios anymore. And because we're free to talk, we have a responsibility to do so.

FOR SEN. EDMUND S. MUSKIE

How do you explain your taking to the stump for George McGovern after fighting him so hard for the nomination? —B. N., Newark, Ohio

● George was not my first preference—but then my standards are high. But, since my first preference became unavailable, I now find that he meets those standards. So I want to make it perfectly clear that George McGovern is my candidate for the Presidency of the United States. I'm sure God won't let me down twice in a row in a single calendar year.

The writer, Henry Lowrie, is the noted Washington correspondent of THE SUNDAY EXPRESS of London, England. For 26 years he was U.S. correspondent for THE DAILY EXPRESS, including five years as chief of its New York bureau, and eight years as a Washington correspondent.

Despite these impressive credentials, Mr. Lowrie professes some embarrassment about discussing the American election in front of the FAMILY WEEKLY audience of 30 million Americans — "rather like an American criticizing the coronation in Britain," says he.

The Nixon-McGovern Battle: How It Looks to Our Allies

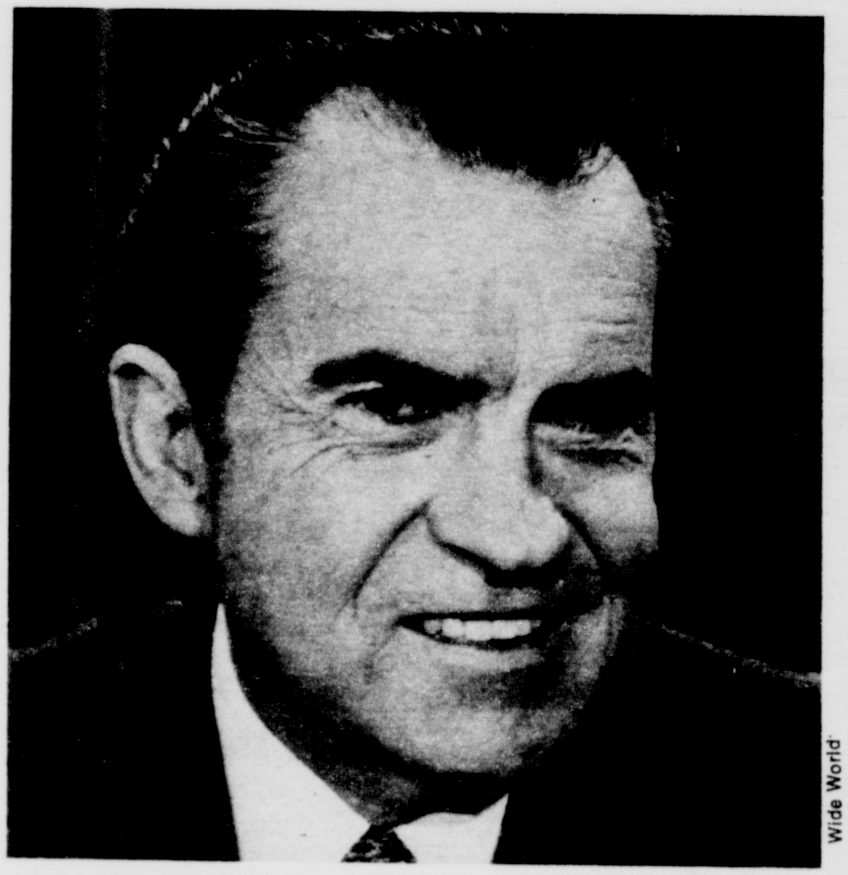
From afar, from the other side of the Atlantic, the view of the U.S. Presidential election becomes a bit distorted, and many Britons puzzle over how two such "rogues" (at least, to hear Americans tell it) as Richard Nixon and Sen. George McGovern can run with such high hopes. They are bewildered by the old American habit of venerating the office of the Presidency and attacking, often vilifying, its occupant.

We are still caught up in "The American Century," so nobody on this planet can ignore, even if he wanted to, the election of the President. Too often this quadrennial episode has been a protracted bore, offering only what seems a Tweedledum - Tweedledee choice to the voter. It is different this year, though; for, as Mr. Nixon has said, Americans have a clear-cut choice. He and the man who wants his job certainly have different methods of tackling the country's woes. The question a Briton asks is: Why should it take you Americans so long to choose your leader?

You may not have noticed, but Australia, New Zealand and Canada are holding elections, too, this fall. Unlike the U.S., they have not been virtually immobilized for the best part of a year.

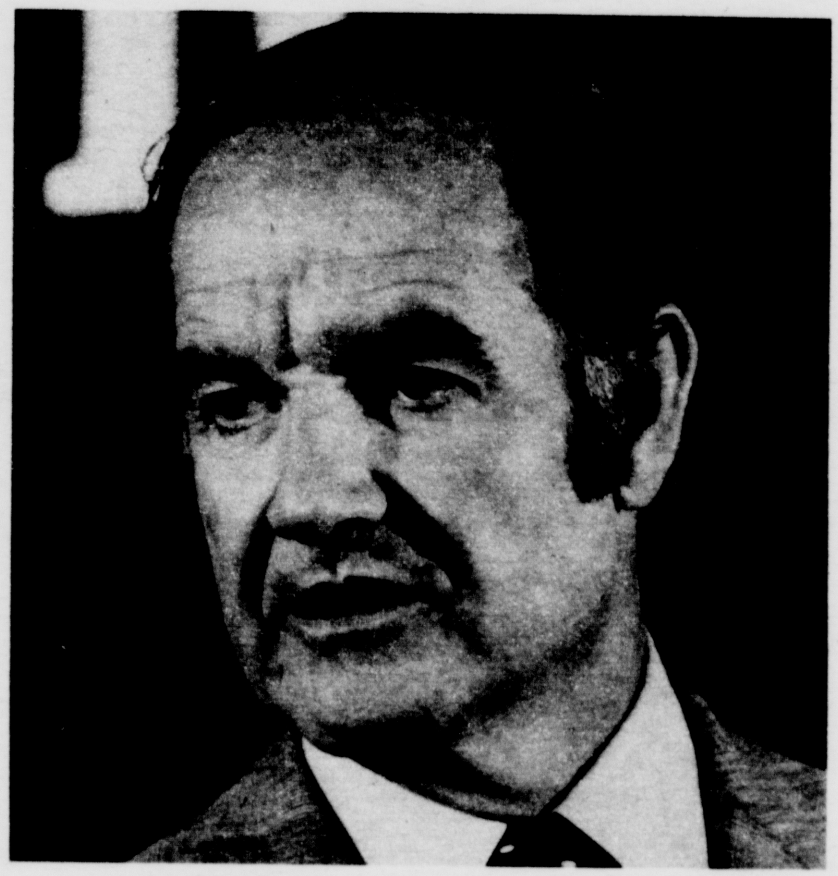
In Britain we are used to campaigns that last a mere six weeks, which leaves little time for the voters to get fed up with the repetitious declarations of the candidates. Australia and New Zealand expedite their choices the same way.

In America you go on and on, at frightful expense, and you seem to think the Presidency is too good for any mortal—even an American—and so you pillory the excellent men who seek the office. It turns out that they are not rogues after all, but dedicated men—with a yen, of course, for power—sincere in their desire to serve their country and improve the lot of mankind.



Wide World

Of President Nixon, Lowrie writes: "No British Socialist government could have imposed the rigorous controls that Mr. Nixon set on the American economy without igniting a national uproar . . . that could have toppled the government."



"Senator McGovern," confesses this British observer, "still exercises our concern. His views on America's commitments to such allies as Australia and New Zealand have us just a little worried."

Who can doubt that both President Nixon and Senator McGovern want fervently to divest America of that tragic war in Vietnam? No reasonable man would believe otherwise, despite suggestions that the President delayed ending the war so that he could, as Sargent Shriver implied, ride to reelection on peace.

Both candidates have advanced proposals invested with sincerity and careful thought, yet so diametrically opposed in approach that each has been pilloried by his critics. In the world's eyes, it is on the Vietnam war that Americans will make the big choice.

The War

Nixon is unyielding in his policy to send his bomber fleets to North Vietnam and keep the magnetic mines active in Communist harbors until there is "progress on the negotiating front" on an all-Vietnam cease-fire. He is adamant that he will order complete U.S. withdrawal only when Hanoi agrees to an internationally supervised cease-fire, with all American war prisoners released—and the missing in action accounted for.

He promises to have the last of U.S. troops out within four months of a cease-fire. He says he would continue to support the Thieu regime with military and economic aid but agrees to general elections in South Vietnam within six months of the cease-fire. President Thieu would have to resign a month before the election, and if he wants to regain his title, take his chance along with the other candidates.

McGovern promises to end the bombing and to withdraw all U.S. forces from Indochina within 90 days of his getting into the White House. We get the impression that he believes Hanoi would release all American prisoners in that period. If necessary, so the story runs, he is willing to "beg" Hanoi to release them. He would end American support for President Thieu, accept a coalition government including the Vietcong, and would offer asylum to South Vietnamese leaders who feared for their lives in a Communist purge.

He would not withdraw American forces from Thailand or American warships from the Gulf of Tonkin until all POW's are free. While ending all military aid to Saigon, Laos and Cambodia, he is quoted as saying that he would give them and North Vietnam war-recovery aid.

To an outsider, the choice for the voters is clear. Do Americans accept Mr. Nixon's contention that America's honor and future influence in the world ride with his attempts for "an honorable, just peace"?

Or do they back Senator McGovern's contention that Vietnam is a shameful interlude that must be ended immediately by complete American withdrawal without stipulating cease-fire terms at the negotiating table?

The Economy

What seems particularly ironic to the British viewer are the economic policies adopted by the candidates. No British Socialist government, even in austerity days, could have imposed the rigorous August 15 controls that Mr. Nixon set on the American economy without igniting a national uproar. It inevitably would have provoked a Parliamentary vote of confidence that could have toppled the government. (That vote of confidence is a useful device the American Founding Fathers overlooked. Pity. You'd be surprised how often it comes in handy!)

Eyebrows went up in British political and financial circles when Mr. Nixon announced the freezing of wages and profits, and interfered with the flow of world trade by imposing punitive import duties. He further surprised his critics by maintaining the controls right through the election campaign with the declaration that "We are determined to return to an unfettered economy at the earliest possible moment." As the London "Economist" commented dryly "Quite!"

What is odd is that Senator McGovern's party has traditionally followed the philosophy that government should manipulate the economy – yet here he is proposing to scrap the Nixon controls and substitute "guidelines," mostly on a voluntary basis.

Back in the snowy days of the New Hampshire primary (Heavens! It really is a long campaign) Senator McGovern opened with his series of "welfare state" promises, promises so glowing that even a poor British voter would have been wary. Was he really serious?– a universal $1,000 grant (cash for the poor; a tax allowance for the better-fixed), virtually no taxes on low to lower-middle incomes, increased taxes for corporations and rich people.

At least he got attention, and then like a skilled politician he changed his tune as Wall Street's outrage mingled with the doubts of even the poorer Americans he was so anxious to help.

With the help of his accountants he has rewritten his program. The Pentagon brass is in torment at his promise to chop $30 billion from defense spending over three years. He promises a $10-billion-a-year jobs program through Government contracts for new housing, transportation and pollution control, $6 billion worth of "public service" jobs for welfare recipients who are able to work, and exemption of low-income wages from wage control. He promises to save $8 billion a year by closing the tax loopholes on capital gains, but his aides agree that his proposals would require net addition to the Nixon budget.

Britain's Prime Minister Edward Heath has privately voiced his admiration and envy of the success of the Nixon "freeze." He admires and covets Mr. Nixon's good fortune in not precipitating a public revolt with his decision to maintain controls.

Mr. Nixon's goals seem formidable: a demand that Congress limit Government spending to $250 billion, plus his threat to veto "inflationary" legislation; reduction of unemployment to five percent and the inflation rate to three percent, with White House declarations to avoid income tax hikes in the next four years. Democrats scoff at such a promise, and even the ranking Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee couldn't accept it. Said Rep. John W. Byrnes (R., Wis.), "There's no question that taxes will have to be increased. The only question is how big the increase will have to be."

To an onlooker, what seemed incredible was the plan of the Social Security Administration to include with the checks to be mailed out to 28 million recipients on October 3 a printed note giving credit to Mr. Nixon for the 20 percent increase in benefits. The fact is, the Administration fought the 20 percent boost and tried to hold it down to five percent. (The note was a nonpolitical gesture, said the Social Security officials. Nonpolitical, my foot, says the European—and what beautiful timing!)

Foreign Policy

Now there is new worry for your friends abroad. They've been reading snatches of foreign-policy reports which indicate that the United States may be heading into a new era of isolationism, such as the one that followed the First World War. They fret that America may again pull into a shell after the trauma of Vietnam, after the years of unprecedented generosity and compassion that produced $170 billion to rebuild war-shattered Europe. What is the real difference between the Nixon doctrine enunciated at Guam early in 1969 (i.e., that America close bases on the fringes of its defense-treaty perimeters) and George McGovern's partly moral, partly materialistic plea, "Come home, America"?

But it is impossible to overestimate the significance of Mr. Nixon's flight to Peking and Moscow in May. He removed American blinkers on the reality of a China with close to a billion people – and what a market they provide for American exporters! He acknowledged the reality that the world balance of power must be sought with Moscow's agreement on strategic weapons. To the delight of the British, he has balanced this by opposing unilateral withdrawal of American troops from Europe. That one had us worried.

Meanwhile, Senator McGovern still exercises our concern. His proposal for unilateral cuts in NATO forces and his unclear (to us) views on the future of America's commitments solemnly undertaken to such proven allies as Australia and New Zealand have us just a little worried.

Likewise, however, America's allies have been alarmed by the jolting lessons Japan has received from the "Nixon shocks" – sudden abandonment of an agreed joint position of absolute opposition to Peking and the abrupt moves to revalue the dollar without consultation. Little wonder your friends ponder on what trust they can place in the foreign policy of either candidate.

Consumerism

Along with other friendly observers, I must remain cynical about the promises of the Republicans and the Democrats to protect the consumer from abuse or exploitation. Like President Johnson, Mr. Nixon appointed a "consumer ombudsman" in the White House. So why, asks the skeptic from Britain, is it left to Ralph Nader, the people's snarling watchdog, to be the people's protector?

Senator McGovern is in favor of strong Government action to help consumers and has general proposals to crack down on some of the big corporations that he believes are rigging prices. Even so, Mr. Nader accuses him of wavering on specific proposals.

Mr. Nixon is all for "self-regulation" by industry, an arrangement that provoked Mr. Nader into growling, "That's like asking the fox to guard the chickens."

The Protest Movements

For a long time after the convulsions of the campus riots, the burnings in Detroit, Watts and Washington, the sickening assassinations of Dr. Martin Luther King and Sen. Robert Kennedy in 1968, we Europeans wondered where America was headed.

The bloodiness has eased but the differences remain.

Senator McGovern, who flew 35 bomber missions in World War II, would grant amnesty to the young men who resisted the draft when Vietnam is finally settled. No, says President Nixon, a former Navy man, "Those who chose to let others serve their country while they refused should pay for violating the law."

This dilemma is not peculiar to America. The question stretches across all democracies: Can civil disobedience ever be called justified? Is it justified if the war is a palpable wrong?

Mr. Nixon, in a compassionate note to Mr. William Scranton, chairman of the commission that investigated campus unrest, said, "Removing the causes of legitimate dissent has, in my lifetime, become one of the constant endeavors of the American Government. It remains the business of this Administration."

In summation, I would suggest that Americans this year have a more definite choice than usual. The American system of selecting the leader falls short, to my possibly biased Parliamentary mind, of being the best democratic election system. (Though I suppose everyone thinks his own country's system is best!) But it is still an admirable, an excellent exercise in democracy.

If Americans would only realize it, the choice this year is between two patriots, two men of integrity and goodwill.

Is Being "Creative" Really a Blessing?

True or False: There are advantages in being non-creative. (See number 4.)

By John E. Gibson

Should you be glad you're creative, or happy that you're not? How do creative women differ from creative men? Would you like to find out how creative you are? This quiz provides some interesting answers.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Most creative people have simple, uncomplicated personalities.
2. There are two kinds of creativity: hot and cold.
3. Creative people are the hardest to persuade or influence.
4. There are advantages in being non-creative.
5. Creative men have different personality characteristics from creative women.
6. Creative ability can be a liability if you don't use it.

ANSWERS

1. False. Studies at the University of California's Institute of Personality Assessment and Research have shown that creative individuals have a feeling for complexities, and are more aware of the intricacies and involvements of life around them than others are. Other findings: They are more open-minded, have keener perception, and are less likely to jump to conclusions than the average person. They are also more dependent on their intuitive feelings, and are much more inclined to follow up on their hunches than non-creative people.

2. True. Studies at a leading university have shown that there are two distinctly different types of creativity – hot and cold. The hot type is associated with emotional expression, while the cold type is distinguished by control and reason. The person who is gifted with cold creativity is described as a competent, stable, responsible and cooperative person who is resourceful and sensitive. In contrast, the person with hot creativity was found "to exercise little control over his emotions. He expresses his impulses freely and indulges in considerable imaginative activity. He is more interested in self-expression than he is in coping in a measured and practical way with the demands of his environment."

3. False. Studies at Ohio State University show that the highly creative person tends to be perpetually open-minded and flexible in his attitudes, eager to absorb new concepts and ideas, and thus – as tests demonstrated – "is more highly susceptible to persuasion than less creative persons."

4. True. Studies show that low scorers on creativity tests have more tolerance and patience, have a greater ability to tolerate noise, can work under conditions that a highly creative person would find completely distracting. And, as one leading investigator observed in summing up his findings, persons who are lacking in creative ability "seem to have a greater power to concentrate on activities where an abundant flow of new ideas is not needed, such as accounting, supervision of others, playing card games."

5. True. University of California studies showed that creative men were given to acting on impulse, with a desire for instant gratification. They were less responsive to beauty in art, nature, etc., than creative women. They were also less conservative, and more inclined to liberal attitudes in their personal beliefs and general life outlook. Creative women, on the other hand, were found to be "outstandingly interested in independent thought"; they were more aesthetic-minded, more sensitive to the delicate nuances and shadings of various forms of artistic creation. They were also more devout, more dedicated in their religious convictions.

6. True. Dr. Dean Trembly, California State Polytechnic College, cites the findings of studies which show that creative ability is "like a tool that is always in your hand, a tool that gets in your way when you're doing a job that doesn't call for it. For example, a bookkeeper has no need for an active, creative imagination. It is a distracting factor for him." He points out that such an ability, if idle and not put to use, "can be the source of emotional stress, the result of conflict between the need for self-expression and the lack of opportunity to use the aptitude."

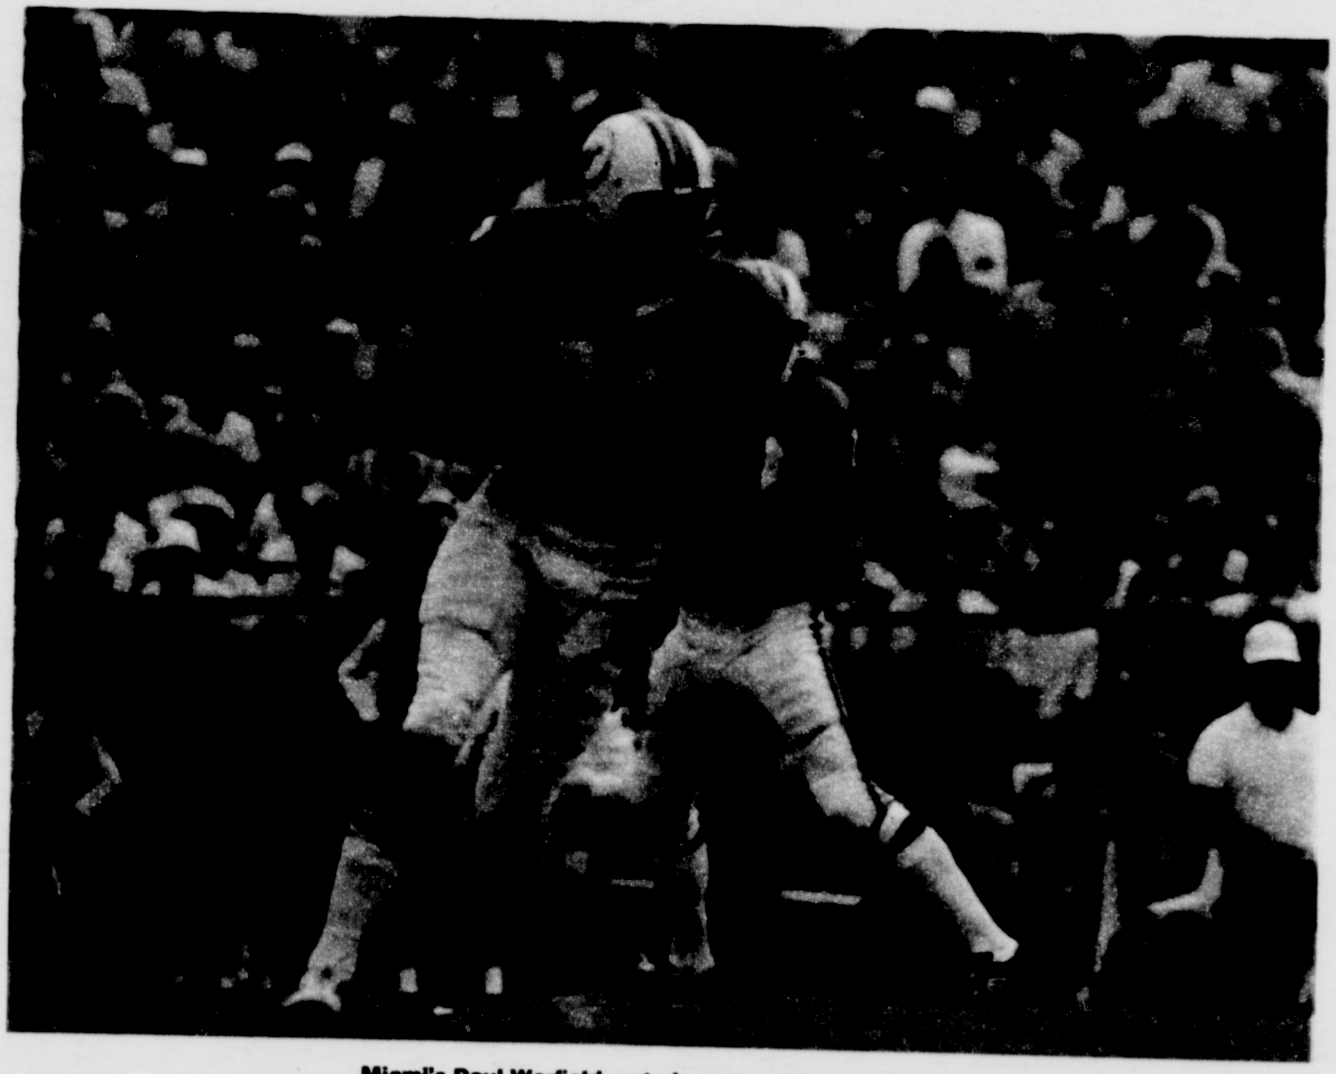
The First Annual Sportscasters' All-Pro Team

To establish its 1972 Pro Football All-Star Team, FAMILY WEEKLY consulted 17 of television's top football broadcasters. Since all three major networks – NBC, CBS and ABC – televise football, telecasters from all three participated in the poll.

In addition to selecting players at each of the 22 individual positions, the sportscasters – eight of them former pro players–also were asked to vote for the two players they considered most exciting to watch, one on offense and one on defense. This resulted in the selection of a 23-man All-Pro Team. Dick Butkus, the ferocious middle linebacker of the Chicago Bears, was rated the most exciting defensive performer, but was beaten in balloting for the All-Pro Team in the closest balloting waged at any position. Kansas City's crack in the middle, Willie Lanier, outpolled Butkus by one vote.

On offense, Paul Warfield, the mercury-footed wide receiver of the Miami Dolphins, was adjudged the outstanding split end in the pro ranks, and also got the nod as the most exciting player when his team had the ball.

Note: This team was selected during the exhibition season, when it was believed quarterback Roger Staubach of the Dallas Cowboys and tight end Charlie Sanders of the Detroit Lions, both injured in preseason play, would be back in the lineup by the middle of the regular season.



Miami's Paul Warfield: voted most exciting on offense

MOST EXCITING DEFENSIVE PLAYER
DICK BUTKUS
Chicago, Middle Linebacker

This is Dick Butkus, voted most spectacular defensive player by the telecasters, though he was beaten out by a vote in separate balloting for his middle linebacker's spot by Kansas City's Willie Lanier. Butkus is the Chicago Bears' defensive terror. In '71, he even added a new weapon to his already extensive arsenal. When the Bears' attempt to kick an extra point against the Washington Redskins resulted in a broken play, quarterback Bobby Douglass threw the ball to Butkus in the end zone for the decisive point in an upset 16-15 victory. Butkus has been an All-Pro choice each of his seven seasons with the Bears, who made him their first draft choice in 1965. Butkus was raised in Chicago and attended the University of Illinois. He is said to tackle harder than anyone in the game. He is adept at all phases of linebacking, covering on passes as well as runs (he's intercepted 19 passes in his career). When completely sound, his 6-3, 245-pound body moves very well.

MOST EXCITING OFFENSIVE PLAYER
PAUL WARFIELD
Miami Dolphins, Split End

Even the President of the United States takes time out of a busy schedule to talk about Paul Warfield, who may be without peer as a receiver in the history of pro football.

Prior to last January's Super Bowl confrontation between Warfield's Miami team and the Dallas Cowboys, President Nixon suggested that the key to victory for the Dolphins would be to work Paul free on the "down-and-in pattern," a maneuver he executes almost to perfection. Paul and the Dolphins did try the Presidential strategy in the Super Bowl game and he caught some passes. But overall the Cowboys were too much for the youthful Miami club.

Still, the Dolphins' defeat hardly was Warfield's fault. The 6-0, 185-pounder is the epitome of grace and beauty when he runs his pass routes. Paul is the best receiver in the game when it comes to treading the tightrope path down the sidelines. Now in his ninth season in pro football and third with Miami, Warfield, a 30-year-old native of Warren, Ohio, spent his first six NFL seasons with Cleveland. He has a career average of 21.1 yards per catch, a remarkably high figure, and 61 touchdowns. In 1971, in leading the league with 11 touchdown receptions, Paul averaged a breathtaking 23.2 yards every time he caught the ball.

OFFENSE

ROGER STAUBACH
Dallas Cowboys
Quarterback

6-3, 197, in his fourth pro season, all with Cowboys. . . . Graduated from the Naval Academy in 1965, where he won the Heisman Trophy as a junior. . . . After seeing part-time duty as a Dallas quarterback, won regular job in 1971, took the Cowboys to the Super Bowl championship. . . . Topped the NFL in passing, completing 59.7 percent of his passes and accounting for 8.92 yards on every throw. . . . Was named league's Most Valuable Player in most post-season balloting.

JOHN BROCKINGTON
Green Bay Packers
Running back

6-1, 225, in second year with the Packers, who made him their first-round draft choice for 1971. . . . A rookie sensation last year. . . . Led the NFC with 1,105 yards on the ground, best performance ever by a first-year player. . . . Averaged 5.1 yards per run, also best in the NFL. . . . Durable and quick, possesses explosive running power. . . . Born in Brooklyn, N.Y., went to Ohio State on football scholarship. . . . Only 24 years old, with an unlimited future.

FLOYD LITTLE
Denver Broncos
Running back

5-10, 195, in his sixth year as pro with Broncos. . . . Though playing for a weak team, has emerged as one of premier runners in football. . . . Led entire NFL in 1971 with 1,133 yards, and carried the ball more than anyone else in the league, 284 times. . . . Now 30 years old, ran in same Syracuse backfield with former Boston star Jim Nance. . . . A good pass receiver and punt and kickoff-return man when not running the ball from scrimmage.

OTIS TAYLOR
Kansas City Chiefs
Flanker

6-3, 215, eighth season with Chiefs, who drafted him on the fourth round out of Prairie View A&M in 1965. . . . Now 30 years old, had a superb 1971 season after a three-year slump caused by injuries and other problems. . . . Only receiver in NFL to surpass 1,000 yards in receptions with 1,110 last year on 57 catches. . . . Constantly made the important catches for Kansas City last year, leading the Chiefs to the AFC play-offs.

CHARLIE SANDERS
Detroit Lions
Tight end

6-4, 230, in fifth pro season with Lions, after being drafted on the third round in 1968. . . . Combination of outstanding receiving ability, great speed and size, and strong blocking makes him the perfect tight end. . . . Expected to star in basketball at the University of Minnesota but chose football and became a star, despite lack of early national attention. . . . Has an uncanny talent for rising high into the air to make a catch in heavy traffic. . . . Only 26, made 31 catches in 1971 for 502 yards. . . . Had a high of 42 catches in 1969.

JIM TYRER
Tackle

6-6, 270, in 12th season as pro. . . . Joined the Chiefs in 1963 after spending 1961-62 at Dallas. . . . One of many veterans in the pros who were scorned in days when there were separate National and American leagues. . . . Now regarded by all as one of football's most outstanding performers. . . . At 33 and a former Ohio State All-America, has been selected to play in post-season All-Star Games nine consecutive years.

RON YARY
Minnesota Vikings
Tackle

6-5, 256, in his fifth pro season with Vikings. . . . First player in the nation drafted in 1968, has become a superstar in a short time. . . . Minnesota coach Bud Grant calls him "the best tackle in football." . . . At age 26 he has many more years of greatness ahead. . . . Has fine aggressiveness to complement his great size and strength. . . . Was a two-time All-America at Southern California and winner of the Outland Trophy as America's outstanding college lineman as a senior in 1967. . . . A native of Chicago.

JOHN NILAND
Dallas Cowboys
Guard

6-3, 245, in his seventh pro season after being drafted on the first round by Cowboys in 1966. . . . Rated the unsung hero of Dallas' Super Bowl victory over Miami. . . . Sprang Cowboys' runners loose with several crunching blocks. . . . Strong enough to knock people over and fast enough to get outside on sweeps. . . . A major reason why Cowboy backs always have high rushing totals.

LARRY LITTLE
Guard

6-1, 265, in his sixth season in the pros, fourth with the Dolphins. . . . A classic example of the fallibility of the draft system. . . . Overlooked by every pro team after he graduated from Bethune-Cookman in Florida, signed on as a free agent with San Diego before the 1967 season. . . . The Chargers let him go to Miami before the 1969 campaign, and he's been one of the best in the business ever since. . . . Voted top offensive lineman in the AFC by his fellow players the past two seasons. . . . Only 27, with many fine seasons ahead of him.

FORREST BLUE
San Francisco 49ers
Center

6-5, 260, in his fifth pro season, all with 49ers. . . . First-round draft choice out of Auburn in 1968. . . . Size, speed and strength make him a formidable blocker. . . . Considered still improving at age 27, could be an All-Pro fixture for years. . . . Likes to play center, though he realizes the position almost assures anonymity. . . . A native of Marfa, Texas, who grew up in Tampa, Fla. . . . San Francisco quarterback John Brodie gets thrown for losses fewer times than any other passer, and here's one of the big reasons.

"If you're unhappy with your Ford, Mercury or Lincoln, we want to know about it."

-Ford Motor Company and 6,035 Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealers

We listen.

And we're concerned about a very real problem in the car business: unhappy owners.

We intend to solve our share of it. By working to keep owners of Ford Motor Company cars and trucks happy—new or old.

In short, we're committed to doing a better job—on the assembly line before you buy, and in the service department after you buy.

OUR GOAL IS NO UNHAPPY OWNERS.

The commitment to our goal is backed by the people who are directly responsible for making it happen. It starts with the engineers and designers, and extends all the way to virtually every Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealer and his service personnel.

WHAT FORD MOTOR COMPANY IS DOING.

Improvement begins at home.

That means build better cars and trucks. Which is exactly what we're doing.

But there's been another change. A reorganization.

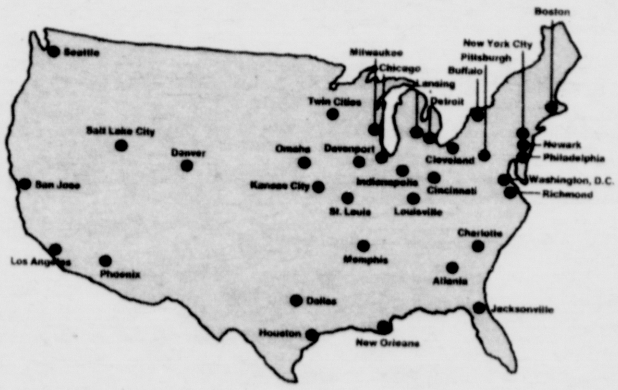
Ford Motor Company is the first major automobile manufacturer to form a whole new division designed to make servicing cars as important as selling them. The new Ford Customer Service Division has offices in 34 cities across the country. (Note the map.)

Okay, how does the system work?

WHAT 6,035 FORD AND LINCOLN-MERCURY DEALERS ARE DOING.

The next time you visit one of these dealers, you'll find some important improvements in the way he does business.

- You'll get protection in addition to the new-car warranty. The dealer will guarantee his service work for 90 days or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first. If his repair or replacement fails in normal service during that period, take it back to the dealer. He'll fix it—and you won't pay for it—he will. Parts and labor.
- He'll give you a "report card" so you can grade the job you got. If for any reason you want the dealer to get in touch with you, just mark the box provided.
- The mechanic who does the work will personally sign the job.



WHAT TO DO IF YOU'RE UNHAPPY.

Let's say you own a Ford, Mercury or Lincoln—any model, any year—and you have a problem with it.

First, see your dealer. Tell him your problem. In most cases, that's where your problem will end.

BUT SUPPOSE YOU'VE BEEN TO THE DEALER AND YOU STILL HAVE A PROBLEM? (IT'LL HAPPEN OCCASIONALLY.)

Then you write the Ford Customer Service Division. Its primary responsibility is helping Ford, Mercury and Lincoln owners after the sale.

Drop them a line.

You'll be contacted very quickly by a Ford Customer Service representative in your area.

And he'll work with you and the dealer to try to straighten things out.

If your problem is covered by new-car warranty, it will be fixed free. If it's not, yes, you will foot the bill. But in either case, you'll get a first rate job.

Take us up on it. All we ask is a chance to prove the goal is for real.

FOR THE ADDRESS OF THE CUSTOMER SERVICE DIVISION OFFICE NEAREST YOU, CALL TOLL FREE: 800-243-6000 IN CONNECTICUT 1-800-882-6500

If you own a Ford Motor Company car or truck, it's worth thinking about. And if you don't own one, it's really worth thinking about.

And if you want information about our cars and trucks, or if you want to know where we stand on safety, emissions, quality control—anything—

Let us know what's on your mind.

We listen better.

And we'd like to prove it to you.

Our goal: No unhappy owners.

Alan Page

Bob Lilly

DEFENSE

BUBBA SMITH
Baltimore, End

6-7, 295, in his sixth year with Colts, who selected him on the first round of the 1967 draft. . . . Led Colts in dumping opposing quarterbacks in 1971, with nine "sacks.". . . Blocked four field goals, including two in post-season play-off game against Cleveland. . . . Voted best defensive player in AFC.

CARL ELLER
Minnesota, End

6-6, 250, in his ninth pro season with the Vikings. . . . Played both offense and defense for University of Minnesota for three seasons, achieving All-America honors in final season. . . . Drafted on first round in 1964. . . . Incredibly fast for a man his size, is called "The Moose."

JIM JOHNSON
San Francisco, Cornerback

6-2, 185, 12th pro season, all with 49ers. . . . Best known for years as the younger brother of 1960 Olympic decathlon champion Rafer Johnson, has gained almost universal acceptance as the outstanding pass defender in the National Football Conference. . . . Played most of last season with a broken wrist. . . . Won the George Halas Award after the season for his display of courage.

ALAN PAGE
Minnesota, Tackle

6-4, 245, in his sixth season with Vikings. . . . In 1971 became first lineman in history to be named the Most Valuable Player in the NFL. . . . Has been a starter since his rookie season, the only first-year man to earn regular status with the Vikings under coach Bud Grant. . . . Has amazing speed and quickness, relies less on brute strength than most other great tackles.

BOB LILLY
Dallas, Tackle

6-5, 260, in his 12th season with the Cowboys, most as an All-Pro. . . . Has had a superb career since coming to Dallas as a first draft choice from Texas Christian University in 1961. . . . Has been called the finest tackle who ever lived. . . . So overpowering, he often is double- and triple-teamed by blockers. . . . Entering the current campaign, had never missed a game in 11 years as a pro.

BILL BRADLEY
Philadelphia, Free safety

5-11, 190, in fourth year with Eagles. . . . A third-round draft choice in 1969 out of Texas, where he played quarterback and defensive back. . . . Emerged as a defensive superstar in 1971 with 11 interceptions, most in pro football. . . . Paints as a hobby.

WILLIE LANIER
Kansas City, Linebacker

6-1, 245, in his sixth year with the Chiefs. . . . A second-round draft choice out of Morgan State in 1967. . . . Those who have been hit by him insist no one hits with more punishing effect. . . . His major responsibility is pass coverage, for which he backpedals to clog the passing lanes and to meet a back coming out for a pass. . . . Does a fine job covering running game too.

BOBBY BELL
Kansas City, Linebacker

6-4, 220, a ten-year man with the Chiefs this season. . . . A tackle in college at Minnesota, considered too small for the pros, converted into linebacker by Kansas City coaches. . . . Has been one of the all-time greats at the position. . . . It's been said he could play any position, he's so gifted. . . . Has intercepted 21 passes as a pro, returning four for TD's.

WILLIE BROWN
Oakland, Cornerback

6-1, 190, a ten-year professional, now in his sixth season with the Raiders. . . . Came to Raiders in 1967 trade. . . . Most-honored Oakland player in 1971, made every All-Pro squad and played in second straight Pro Bowl. . . . Played football and ran track at Grambling College. . . . Probably the best of all pass defenders in one-on-one coverage with the receiver.

TED HENDRICKS
Baltimore, Linebacker

6-7, 220, in fourth pro season with Colts. . . . Has brought a new dimension to linebacking play with his height. . . . With Bubba Smith in front of him, forms the most awesome place-kick-blocking alignment in football. . . . His long, thin frame earns him the nickname "The Stork." . . . Extremely effective on pass coverage because of his quickness and height, intercepting five passes in 1971.

RICK VOLK
Baltimore, Strong safety

6-3, 195, in his sixth year with Colts, who made him their second-draft choice in 1967. . . . Not very fast but extremely aggressive and a punishing tackler. . . . Has intercepted 24 passes in first five seasons as a pro. . . . A key operative in the Colts' complicated zone-pass defense. . . . Twenty-seven years old, he's the nephew of a Michigan great of the 1940's, Bob Chappuis.

If your yard is taking advantage of you, fight back. With our lowest-price gasoline chain saw ever. Mc Culloch's new Mini Mac 1.

You give your yard the best weekends of your life. So what happens? The second you turn your back, it's just grow, grow, grow! Now you can fight back, and save money, too. This $99.95* Mini Mac 1 is guaranteed to give you back your weekends. And give you the best-looking yard on the block. Here's how.

The Trees. From long-haired hippies to clean-cut beauties in a few Mini Mac minutes. Limbing and pruning trees doesn't have to be a job you pay somebody else to do. At 6.9 lbs. the Mini Mac 1 is so maneuverable, it's child's play to barber your trees. When you finish, stand back and admire. Then take Sunday off.

The Logs. Get those lazy things off their backs and into the fireplace where they belong. The Mini Mac's 10" bar can zip through a 6" log in 5 seconds. That means a whole winter's worth of firewood takes just a couple of hours. Next weekend you can sit by the fire and read.

The Building Projects. The lumber is there but the flesh is weak? Let Mini Mac 1 show you that hobbies can be fun. You start by building a planter box. It's so easy, you go on to the patio table your wife has been begging for. Then the benches. A wheelbarrow. Pretty soon you're hooked. So you might as well send 25¢ for our booklet, "101 Reasons to Own A Chain Saw," right now.

Only $99.95

Manufacturer's suggested list price, including bar and chain.

We also have a Mini Mac Electric. Also just $99.95.* This is the indoor-outdoor Mini Mac. Very light, very maneuverable and very time-saving. Just plug it in and start cutting.

McCulloch's choice for people who want more saw: Mini Mac 6 with 12" bar (6.9 lbs.) $114.95.

Mini Mac 6 Automatic with 14" bar, oils itself as you cut. $129.95.

Power Mac 6 with 14" bar, bigger engine (6 lbs. 15 oz.) $159.95.

Tom Brookshier

Howard Cosell

George Ratterman

Paul Warfield, split end, Miami Dolphins

"This man has incredible individual skills. His sleekness is the appearance you'd most expect from a wide receiver." —Curt Gowdy, NBC

"Warfield has grace and flow of movement. His pass patterns are a delight to watch, and after catching the ball he functions like a running back."—Dave Kocourek, NBC

"Warfield was so poetic and graceful and awesome last season; his performances had a certain permanent quality about them, like a painting." — Jack Whitaker, CBS

Dick Butkus, middle linebacker, Chicago Bears

"Butkus is frequently out of position, but never out of the play. I witnessed his personal conquest of the Washington Redskins. He was superb in the middle, his performance capped off when he caught a broken play extra point for the win. All of this with a thumb swelled to the size of my leg and a leg so loose it wobbled. Then, bleeding through a cut eyelid, in a post-game interview he humbly said, 'It's part of the game.' Butkus' game, that is—super." —Tom Brookshier, CBS

"Great lateral movement and punishing tackler." — George Connor, CBS

"Savage and animalistic." — George Ratterman, NBC

Bob Lilly, tackle, Dallas Cowboys

"I'm amazed at how often he is double-, even triple-teamed, but manages to break up plays. I get enjoyment from knowing I'm watching a future Hall of Famer in the flesh." — Frank Glieber, CBS

"Along with Alan Page of the Vikings, Lilly just has to be the best ever to play the defensive tackle spot." — Frank Gifford, ABC

"Outstanding physical ability. His combination of speed and strength is remarkable."—Don Meredith, ABC

Willie Lanier, linebacker, Kansas City Chiefs

"Lanier is the fiercest tackler in football—and with the widest range."—Howard Cosell, ABC

"Quickest and hardest hitting linebacker I've seen." — Curt Gowdy, NBC

Otis Taylor, wide receiver, Kansas City Chiefs

"He can win a ball game on every play." — Charlie Jones, NBC

Roger Staubach, quarterback, Dallas Cowboys

"People don't always realize what an extremely unusual quarterback Roger is, in that he's a careful passer (only four interceptions in '71), and a dangerous runner. This is a very rare combination." — George Ratterman, NBC

John Brockington, running back, Green Bay Packers

Duane Thomas, running back, San Diego Chargers

"This guy, to me, is the perfect combination of speed, balance, strength and grace." — Frank Gifford, ABC

Sonny Jurgensen, quarterback, Washington Redskins

"He's a master at reading defenses, has one of the quickest releases in pro football. After a year out because of injury, he'll come back and lead the Redskins to a great season offensively. He can pick defenses apart in the last two minutes of the game." — George Connor, CBS

Here's Who Did the Picking . . .

Tom Brookshier, CBS, played for Philadelphia Eagles.
George Connor, CBS, played for Chicago Bears.
Howard Cosell, ABC.
Don Criqui, CBS.
Willie Davis, NBC, played for Green Bay Packers.
Frank Glieber, CBS.
Frank Gifford, ABC, played for N.Y. Giants.
Curt Gowdy, NBC.
Charlie Jones, NBC.
Don Meredith, ABC, played for Dallas Cowboys.
Johnny Morris, NBC, played for Chicago Bears.
Bill O'Donnell, NBC.
Jay Randolph, NBC.
George Ratterman, NBC, played for Cleveland Browns.
John Sauer, CBS, former pro.
Jack Whitaker, CBS.

Smart Cooking

This week Food Editor Marilyn Hansen prepares the favorite dishes of the candidates. "I asked Mrs. Nixon and Mrs. McGovern what they planned to cook when things 'settled down again.' Here, and on page 20, are their answers—and the recipes."

Pat Nixon and Eleanor McGovern Agree:

"Win or Lose, He'll Still Love My Cooking!"

ON THIS PAGE: Mrs. Nixon's Recipes

BARBECUED CHICKEN

2 (3-lb. size) broiler-fryer chickens, split
½ cup butter or margarine, melted
Juice of two lemons (½ cup)
1 tablespoon paprika
1 tablespoon oregano leaves
1 teaspoon garlic salt
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper

2. Combine butter, lemon juice, paprika, oregano leaves, garlic salt, salt and pepper. Pour over chicken halves, coating both sides. Cover and refrigerate, marinating for 3-4 hours in sauce.

3. Barbecue over gray coals about 45-60 minutes, turning frequently and basting with remainder of sauce. Or bake in a preheated 325°F. oven for about 1 hour, or until done, basting frequently.

Makes 4 servings

CONTINENTAL SALAD

1 pkg. (3 ozs.) orange- or lemon-flavored gelatin
1½ cups grapefruit juice
½ cup beet juice
1 can or jar (15 ozs. or 16 ozs.) diced beets
½ cup sliced celery
Salad greens
Your Favorite Dressing

1. Dissolve gelatin in boiling grapefruit juice. Add ½ cup liquid drained from beets; cover and refrigerate until partially thickened.

2. Stir drained beets and celery into partially thickened gelatin. Pour into 1-qt. mold. Cover; refrigerate until firm.

3. Unmold onto serving plate, garnish with salad greens. Serve with Your Favorite Dressing. Makes 1-qt. mold

BLUEBERRY DESSERT

2½ cups fresh blueberries or 2 pkgs. (10-oz. size) frozen unsweetened blueberries, thawed
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon grated orange rind
⅛ teaspoon cardamom
Dash ground mace
1 cup pie-crust mix
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 teaspoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon pure vanilla extract
Heavy cream

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Lightly grease an 8x8-inch-square pan or 1¼-qt. shallow baking dish.

2. Pour blueberries into pan. Combine sugar, orange rind, cardamom and mace. Sprinkle sugar mixture and pie-crust mix in alternate layers over blueberries. Continue until all is used. Dot with butter.

3. Drizzle lemon juice and vanilla extract over all. Bake 45 minutes, until bubbly, and topping is lightly browned.

4. Serve warm with whipped or plain heavy cream.

Makes 4-6 servings

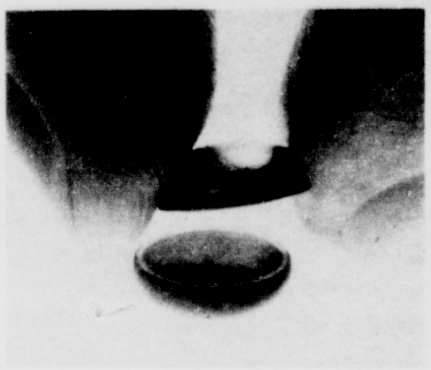
The "two-together" laxative!

(It's made with smaller doses of two laxatives.)



Some single ingredient laxatives work on the "Sunday punch" theory. One big dose of a strong laxative that can knock your system for a loop.

Caroid & Bile Salts Tablets are made up of two separate laxatives that combine the surety of a strong laxative with the gentleness of a mild one.

Together they help ease you to regularity without sudden urgency upset.

And because the dosage is pre-measured, Caroid & Bile Salts Tablets are thorough and so predictable you can almost set your watch by them. Take two tablets at bedtime. Get a good night's sleep. And you can expect to be back on schedule in the morning.

Gentle Caroid & Bile Salts Tablets—the 'two-together' laxative—to help put your system back on schedule.

MOUSE TRAPS

WRONG!

It's a fact, that mouse traps can cause more problems than they solve. If a trap does not accomplish a quick, clean kill, the job of "finishing off" the injured mouse is up to you. Or—if the trap happens to hit the mouse's tail or leg, he may hobble off, dragging the trap into the wall. But not with d-Con® MOUSE-PRUFE®...

MOUSE-PRUFE IS CLEANER. No disease-carrying, messy mouse traps around the house... no handling mice. And no disposal problems.

MOUSE-PRUFE IS SURER. Because mice always come in family groups, one trap is not enough. But one package of MOUSE-PRUFE can do the job of two, three, or more traps.

MOUSE-PRUFE does not contain violent poisons, so it's safe when used as directed—even around children and pets.

ON THIS PAGE:
Mrs. McGovern's Recipes

BEEF STROGANOFF

- 1 lb. boneless tender round steak, ½ inch thick
- 1 clove garlic, split
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup finely chopped onion
- 1 lb. sliced mushrooms
- ¼ cup water
- 1 can (10½ ozs.) cream of chicken soup, undiluted
- ½ pt. (1 cup) sour cream
- Chopped parsley, chives or green onions

1. Rub round steak with split clove of garlic. Cut meat into slices ¼ inch thick by 2½ inches long.

2. Toss meat strips with flour, salt and pepper, coating well.

3. In large, heavy skillet with lid heat butter. In hot butter brown meat strips, stirring frequently to brown evenly. Add onion and mushrooms and cook 5 minutes, until golden.

4. Add water and chicken soup, stirring to blend. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer 1-1½ hours over very low heat.

5. Just before serving stir in the sour cream. Heat just to boiling point.

6. Pour into serving dish, sprinkle with chopped parsley, chives or green onions. Serve with rice, noodles or potatoes.

7. Mrs. McGovern says: "I prefer to serve the Stroganoff with noodles. I often freeze this sauce and then when I need it, thaw, heat, and before serving add the sour cream. Good for those last minute guests!"

Makes 6 servings

CHICKEN BREASTS WITH WILD-RICE STUFFING

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine plus 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 can (4 or 6 ozs.) sliced mushrooms, drained
- 2 cups cooked wild rice*
- Salt
- Ground black pepper
- Paprika
- 4 (2 lbs.) whole chicken breasts, boned and pounded to ½ inch thickness
- Parsley or watercress

1. Make Wild-Rice Stuffing: In large skillet heat 2 tablespoons butter until melted, add onion, mushrooms. Cook about 5 minutes, stirring.

2. Add cooked wild rice, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and 1½ teaspoons paprika. Stir until blended.

3. Spoon about 3 tablespoons Wild-Rice Stuffing onto each chicken breast; roll up securely, fasten with skewer. Spoon any remaining stuffing onto a greased sheet of heavy-duty foil and wrap securely.

4. Place rolled chicken breasts in foil-lined shallow baking pan. Brush with half of melted butter, sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika.

5. Broil 5-7 minutes on each side 5 inches away from source of heat, brushing with remaining melted butter until golden brown.

6. Turn oven to 350°F. and move oven rack to middle of oven. Bake chicken on middle rack about 15-20 minutes, until cooked through. Heat foil packet of stuffing 15-20 minutes, at same time.

7. Serve Chicken Breasts with Wild-Rice Stuffing on heated platter. Pour any pan juices over all, garnish with parsley or watercress.

Makes 8 stuffed chicken breasts

*Cook wild rice in canned or fresh chicken broth according to package directions. You may also use ½ white rice and ½ wild rice, or all white rice for economy.

For the first time... the expert who teaches DOCTORS how to CURE WITH HYPNOTISM helps YOU unleash explosive powers you've kept "chained up" since babyhood!

Are You Ready To Use SELF-HYPNOTISM To Make Life Give YOU What You Want!

Now, at last, the world-famous expert who teaches doctors and psychiatrists MEDICAL HYPNOSIS has prepared the master work of his life on SELF HYPNOTISM

... a book that reveals Nature's own key to reaching and controlling the subconscious—a technique that is available to all who dream of a better life—who want to increase their joy in simply being alive—who want more money, power and prestige—who deeply want a more beautiful and satisfying sexual life—who want to conquer pain and depression.

Now, don't let the word hypnotism frighten you for a minute. Many folks shy away from such a powerful force ... yet how can a force which relieves tiredness instantly—that does away with pain and black moods—that stops nervous tension—a force that has been proven to be the greatest power in the world for self-advancement—a technique that you can use at the office, while traveling, anytime you wish—be anything but a marvelous force for good?

This astonishing technique is SELF HYPNOTISM, a method you can use yourself. It's a curative process you use in privacy, WITH THE GREATEST OF EASE AND SAFETY.

It's a force than can control fears—conquer bad temper—change bad habits overnight—turn sorrows into joys—transform defeats into overwhelming victories—a natural, joyous force God-given to every one of us. It is an infallible way of relaxing ourselves completely, of bringing back our natural feelings of vigor and vitality, of calling upon fantastic powers for use in study, learning, work, thinking, getting well from the "slings and arrows of outrageous fortune"!

A "Programmed Course" in Living at Total Power

Through the techniques of SELF HYPNOTISM you learn self-confidence beyond anything you've ever dreamed of; you acquire a memory that is awesome in its dimensions; you say goodbye to depression and unhappy moods forever; you get rid, almost instantly, of mental blocks that have disrupted your life; you bury phobias and other morbid habits and face the world joyous and free.

You liberate your natural thinking ability. Instead of using just the top 10% of your mind, you release the explosive 90% that you've kept "chained up"... literally multiplying by TEN the brain power at your disposal. And this will make you richer faster than anything imaginable. The first day you start to use SELF HYPNOTISM, you'll begin to reach 100% brainpower and start building your money-making capacity at a phenomenal rate.

Here Are Just a Few of the Secrets Revealed in This Fabulous Volume

The book helps you unlock the door to a full life with the seven keys to health and life-long vitality. Here, in these pages is the essence of a full-scale self-therapy program that has made author Leslie M. LeCron one of the most sought-after teachers in the world today. Here are just a few of the secrets revealed in this fabulous volume:

- How to use self-hypnosis to cure your slipped disc, backache, headache, low back pain, even the painful torticolis or "wry neck" that has defied medical science
- How to conquer a condition we call "loneliness" but which our subconscious mind knows to be a genuine starvation of our love needs
- The amazing truth about arthritis and bursitis—conditions which reveal themselves instantly to self-hypnotic probing
- How we subconsciously hold on to symptoms long after the "need" for them is gone. (Example: how to get rid of a 50-year bout with hay fever in just one session.)
- What happens to almost every asthmatic who is asked a sudden, unexpected question by a wise hypnotist
- Even if you've been smoking for twenty-five years you can give it up overnight—and actually enjoy the so-called "withdrawal" period
- How to relax completely and free yourself of each day's accumulation of nervous tension
- How to overcome the fear of death and illness
- How to use post-hypnotic suggestion to overcome hostility and anger, hopelessness, frustration, fear of rejection
- First time in print ... the most effective way ever discovered to free yourself forever from life-ruining sexual inhibitions
- An entirely new and different way of controlling overweight—on a self-hypnotic diet that requires no dieting
- How to do away with fatigue in your life—forever
- The 10-count method that creates ideas—and brings you advancement in your job

PRINCESS ANNE AND LORD IRWIN
Is Cupid in the picture?

Whenever Princess Anne comes up with a new beau, British newspapers bustle with excitement. Now they're insisting that the Princess, 22, and banker Lord Irwin, 28, have more than just a friendly interest in one another. He's the son of the Earl and Countess of Halifax, and the heir to 18,000 Yorkshire acres. The Princess has become a regular guest at Garrowby Hall, one of the Halifax family's five estates, and Lord Irwin (the family calls him "Peter Irwin") stays at Buckingham Palace on occasions. He favors horse racing, and likes riding to the hounds. Teased about the Princess, he just smiles noncommittally. Neighbors say they make a handsome couple exercising the hunting dogs on the Garrowby estate.

Today, when someone tells you he feels "lousy," he could very well mean exactly that. Because along with the epidemic rise in venereal diseases is an alarming increase in lice. Today's more permissive attitudes toward sexual freedom and communal living have contributed greatly to the spread of these parasites, says University of Miami dermatologist Dr. Bernard Ackerman, so that now no social group can be considered immune. Recent outbreaks of head lice have caused the closing of schools for days and weeks in many U.S. communities. Dr. Ackerman notes that shampooing with a special product, Qwell, is "curative in most instances."

SENATOR PROXMIRE
"The old-boy system"

Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin writes in his new book that many questionable dealings concerning defense contracts result "in part from the old-boy system in defense contracting. I reported in 1969 that the 100 largest military contractors employed almost 2,100 retired or former military officers of the rank of colonel or navy captain and above. Lockheed Aircraft and General Dynamics had respectively 210 and 113 retired high-ranking officers on their payroll. . . . I have carefully refrained from charging that these companies are engaged in a gigantic conspiracy designed to bilk the American people or to place key members of the military-industrial complex in dictatorial positions. I have charged no general wrongdoing on the part of these groups. But the procurement officers, who are also about-to-retire officers, tend to be influenced by how their procurement actions will affect their retirement prospects." From "Uncle Sam: The Last of the Bigtime Spenders" (Simon and Schuster, $6.95).

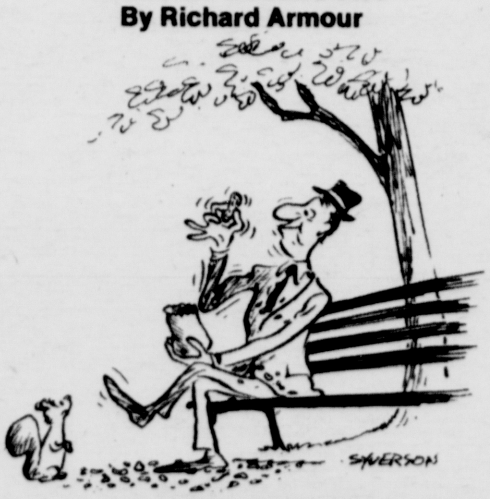
ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour



SHELL GAME

I like peanuts in the shell.
On that a moment let me dwell.
I like the nut, I like the meat,
I like of course the part I eat,
But most I like, and no mistaking,
The brittle shell, the squeezing, breaking,
The victory, the final crunch
That comes before I start to munch.
I like, it's true, the peanut's taste
And know the shattered shell's a waste,
Yet while I eat I flex my fingers. . . .
A sense of brutal power lingers.

A Beverly Hills, Calif, teacher got this note explaining the absence of one of her students the day before. "Cathy couldn't come to school yesterday because we had a power failure and the electric gate wouldn't open."

Dear Mark:

Again let me congratulate you on your marvelous wins in all those Olympic swimming meets.

Since you are studying to be a dentist, I thought you might like to hear this story–

A millionaire Texas oil man goes to his dentist. After the examination, the dentist says, "I have good news for you. Your teeth are in excellent condition, there's no work to be done."

"Drill anyway," said the oil man. "I feel lucky today."

Polly's

DEAR POLLY—I removed the zipper from a worn mattress cover and sewed the zipper to a quilt to make a sleeping bag for my granddaughter who takes such a bag to slumber parties.—BARBARA

DEAR POLLY—I use my shag rug rake to rake up toys scattered around the children's playroom floor and also the "junk" in my ten-year-old's bedroom, thus getting it all together for putting in the proper places.—SHIRLEY

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—Muffin tins are great to use for separating the different coins when having a garage or any sort of group sale. Change can be made much faster.—DARLENE

DEAR POLLY—To make a small greenhouse for starting seeds in the house use empty pie cartons with see-through tops. We used an 8-inch-square tin pan that fits nicely, but the empty pan that came in the carton could also be used. After planting the seeds close the lid. This keeps the dirt from drying out.—JON

DEAR POLLY—Looking for an inexpensive way to entertain the child you baby sit for during the day? Check your library or museum for the often-free films and concerts and other such things planned for children of grade school age.—JILL

DEAR POLLY—Designs on the bottom of fancy cut glassware are great for pressing patterns on cookies.—ANN

DEAR POLLY—I have a pointer for teen-agers who have lots of costume jewelry. My mother had a piece of foam plastic about an inch thick (sometimes such pieces can be obtained for nothing, as they come inside bolts of fabric). I stuck a few straight pins in the piece so they made a sort of pattern, and then hung my jewelry over the pins. Two holes were made near the corners of one side, ribbon run through the holes and it was hung on the wall in my room. Now my jewelry is easy to find, and is very decorative.—MARY JO

DEAR POLLY—To save space in the bathroom linen closet, I use the base to my lazy Susan on the top shelf. On it are stored bathroom items, cosmetics and bottles that will not fit in the medicine chest.—ELLEN

DEAR POLLY—Those on vacation who have house plants to be watered can put the flower pots in the kitchen sink, water them very well before leaving and then cover with plastic that is big enough to tuck all around the pots. They'll stay damp for quite a time.—MARY
